ROOSEVELT MAY TOUR NATION ON COURT PROGRAM

Plans Radio Talk on March 9.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—While the senate today passed and sent to the White House the administration's voluntary retirement measure, designed to lure justices off the Supreme court bench on full pay of $20,000 a year, it transpired that President Roosevelt is considering a tour of the country, if this resort becomes necessary, to seek support of his scheme to pack the court with six additional justices.

If the President should undertake

such a tour of the country in his fight to reconstitute the Supreme court with a majority of New Dealers, he would be following in the footsteps of Woodrow Wilson, who made the historic swing across the country on behalf of the league of nations in 1919.

Tells of Radio Plans.

Mr. Roosevelt announced at his press conference that he would deliver a "fireside" radio address from the White House on March 9, the same day on which the senate judiciary committee will begin hearings on the bill to enlarge the court, but he made no mention of the possibility of a personal tour of the country.

However, it was learned that during the last week he has told his leaders in the senate that he would not compromise his judiciary reorganization plan and would not be defeated. He told them he would carry his fight to the country, on a personal tour, if it became necessary, and that he would show the rebellious senate who was in control of the situation. Particularly, he would arouse support of the farmers of the middle west and west, who have remained hostile to the court program, the President was represented as telling the senators.

Counter Tour Planned.

The discussions respecting a possible tour of the country are so far advanced that the opposition senators have been apprised of the matter and already they are planning a counter tour, just as the league of nations foes preceded and followed up Woodrow Wilson's tour in 1919. Among the senators being considered for the counter offensive are William E. Borah [R., Idaho], Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.], Bennett C. Clark [D., Mo.], Edward R. Burke [D., Neb.], Josiah W. Bailey [D., N. C.], and, if his health will permit, Hiram Johnson [R., Cal.].

The famous team of Borah and Johnson, both outstanding liberals, are veterans of the memorable league of nations fight. Senator Borah began his campaign with a speaking tour in the spring of 1919, before the league treaty had been formally concluded. President Wilson called a special session of congress on May 19, 1919, and when defeat appeared certain he left Washington on his tour Sept. 3. The trip was discontinued on Sept. 26 at Wichita, Kas., when the President suffered a nervous breakdown.

Senator Johnson followed President

PAROLEES LEAD GANG OF 8; ROB 50 IN 2 MONTHS

Board Lenience Put to Prompt Use.

The weakness of the Illinois parole system in turning criminals loose on the public was revealed anew yesterday with the capture of a gang of eight young robbers.

Four of them were parolees from Pontiac reformatory, three having been freed within the past four months. These four and a former inmate of the Bridewell had corrupted three other young men. One of the latter is a university student, brother of the gang chief.

Since Dec. 20, according to Sergt. John Hanrahan who reported the arrests, the gang had committed nearly fifty robberies, fifteen of them automobile thefts. In one instance there was a shooting.

Progress from Lesser Holdups.

Members of the gang, in their confession, told of crimes covering a wide range of victims. Starting with the theft of automobiles from spooning couples in Lincoln and Humboldt parks, the gang branched into holding up stores and handbook establishments where the profits were larger.

The leader of the young gangsters is Walter Skrzydel, 23 years old, 1066 North Hermitage avenue, who, the police say, is a youth with delusions of grandeur. Walter was "graduated" nine years ago from the St. Charles School for Boys as a burglar. Last Oct. 31 the parole board paroled him from Pontiac after he served four years for committing thirty robberies.

Dillinger Is Chief's Patron.

Earlier in December Walter found a wooden gun, fashioned to resemble a revolver. It reminded him of the wooden gun escape of the late John Dillinger. So Walter decided to organize a gang like Dillinger's. He wanted ten ex-convicts.

He found three former pals at Pontiac, whom the parole board had freed. These ex-convicts, unfortunately, happened to know Walter's younger brother, Steve.

Steve Skrzydel is 18 years old. During the day he worked in a shoe store, turning over his $15 a week salary to his mother. In the evening Steve went to the De Paul university night school.

Good Grades in Chemistry.

There he majored in chemistry to further his ambition to be a government chemist. His marks were all A-minus and B-plus, the same high grades he won at Crane Technical High school.

But Steve listened when Walter and the other older boys told of easy money. Christmas was coming on, and Steve needed cash for presents.

One night he went along as a lookout when they robbed a young couple in Lincoln Park. After that he accompanied them on several "jobs."

Last night Steve was in a cell at the detective bureau with the others.

Unable to Remember Sponsor.

Walter was asked who sponsored him for parole. He could not remember the man's name, a neighbor. Steve supplied it: John Muchiwicz, 1054 North Hermitage avenue. The three other parolees and their sponsors are:

Anthony Dombrowski, 23 years old, 1900 Ohio street, paroled Dec. 15 after serving 3 years and 6 months for robbery, to George J. Dorsen, a milkman, 4917 Merrimac avenue.

Leo Garbowicz, 20 years old, 1519 Chestnut street, paroled Dec. 15 after serving a term for burglary. His sponsor is Stefan Perlinski, 907 North St. Louis avenue.

William Kwarcinski, 21 years old, 1606 Grand avenue, paroled October, 1935, after a robbery sentence. Kwarcinski said his sponsor was Emory Lyons, a doctor, with offices in the Transportation building, 608 South Dearborn street, "who sponsors lots of us fellows."

Girl Associate Is Arrested.

The others held are Henry Loiczona, 24 years old, 5519 North Mobile avenue; Bernard Brooks, 19 years old, 1075 North Hermitage avenue; John Obrochta, 23 years old, 817 North Damen avenue, former Bridewell inmate; and Helen Lukas, 24 years old, 1436 Chestnut street, seized in Dombrowski's apartment.

A recent robbery of the gang was on Feb. 12 when it held up the Continental Food store, 1220 Randolph street, obtaining $40. In some wild shooting Leandrio Pastorelli, the manager, was wounded in the chest.

BOY, ILL WITH FLU, WALKS SIX MILES IN SNOW TO SAVE TWO

Elkins, W. Va., Feb. 26.—(AP)—A mother and her new born baby lived today because a son, ill with influenza, walked six miles through a mountain blizzard to summon help.

Mrs. Dixie Abrogast lay helpless with her baby, in her snowbound cabin on top of Allegheny mountain. Her eight other children and her husband were ill with the flu.

The son, Denver, 14 years old, left his bed and made his way through the blizzard to a neighbor's house where he telephoned Dr. A. E. Burner of Durbin.

Twenty volunteers from the Civilian Conservation corps at Camp Thorn Wood, headed by Oliver C. Mullenix, broke trail for the doctor's automobile. They fought the snow and cold up the mountain road, reaching the house late yesterday and administering aid.

Give Ex-Navy Officer 4-12 Years as Spy

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—With his fingernails digging into the palms of his hands and his lips clenched between his teeth to prevent their trembling, John S. Farnsworth, former lieutenant commander of the United States navy, stood before the bar of Justice James M. Proctor in District court today and was sentenced to from four to twelve years in prison for conspiracy to sell his country's naval secrets to Japan.

J. S. Farnsworth.

Farnsworth held himself rigid as the judge leveled an accusing finger and denounced him as the perpetrator of a crime "abhorrent to every good citizen." He coughed as though he were holding back sobs when the judge sternly told him he was being sentenced "as a warning and deterrent to others."

Late Maneuver Fails.

The sentence was passed on the former naval officer after he failed in last minute legal maneuvering to prevent the pronouncing of the sentence. The court remained firm in its refusal to permit Farnsworth to change his plea of guilty to the charge of conspiring with two former Japanese naval attachés to communicate naval secrets to Japan.

Farnsworth was brought into a crowded court for the sentence. His face bore a worried frown. At one point he drew back as though he had been slapped in the face when he saw former brother officers among rows of accusing spectators.

"Farnsworth," Justice Proctor began solemnly, "it is a very unpleasant duty to sentence any one, and it is unusually disagreeable to impose sentence upon a man of your background, which includes a long period of honorable service to your country, unfortunately terminated by dishonorable discharge.

Berated for Conspiracy.

"You have conspired with two foreign emissaries to obtain information vital to your country, and you conveyed it to them with reason to believe such information would be used to the injury of the United States and to the benefit of another nation.

"This was such a plot as is abhorrent to every good citizen. The very thought of it should be beyond the contemplation of an American. Through deception, stealth, thievery, and imposition on your friends in the naval service you succeeded in obtaining confidential information and delivering it to these emissaries for money.

"If we had been at war, your acts would have been treason and punishable by the severest penalty. It seems to me that the duty rests upon the court in a case of this sort to impose such a sentence as will be a deterrent to others, so that others, tempted as you have been to sell out their country, will consider your condemnation and degradation before doing so."

The Japanese with whom he conspired were Commander Yosiyuki Itimiya and Lieutenant Commander Okira Yamaki.

LINDBERGH FLIES FROM CALCUTTA; JOINS WIFE; BEATS DAMAGING GALE

CALCUTTA, India, Feb. 27 [Saturday].—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh took off from Calcutta in his speedy monoplane at 7 o'clock this morning [8 p. m. Chicago time Friday] for a 700 mile flight to Nagpur, where Mrs. Lindbergh is awaiting him. They are expected to fly here shortly.

Yesterday Col. Lindbergh's plane rushed him into Calcutta just ahead of a Bengal gale, which flattened native villages along his route.

He and Sir Francis Younghusband, British Indiophile, talked over aviation routes and flying conditions.

Mass Weddings to Be Held Every 3 Months in Peiping

[Copyright: 1937: By the New York Times.]

PEIPING, Feb. 26.—Following the example set by Nanking, Shanghai and other cities in central and southern China, Peiping will adopt the system of mass weddings during 1937. The ceremonies, at some of which the mayor will officiate, will be held every three months. Each couple will be charged $15 in Chinese currency [about $4 in American money] to cover the various expenses. No more than fifty couples nor fewer than twenty may be married at the same time.

Charge Teacher Forced Boy to Lick Blackboard

Danville, Va., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Mrs. Irvin Booth, a substitute school teacher, was removed from the eligible list today after a hearing on charges she had required a 10 year old pupil to lick a scribbled image off the blackboard. The teacher was charged also with having ordered another 10 year old boy to lick up scraps of paper he had tossed on the floor.

Doctor Then Turns Gun on Maid and Self

Dr. Frank J. Furch Jr. shot his way out of a maze of divorce and alcohol last night when he killed one of his ex-wives in the presence of three astonished policemen after a drinking party in the victim's apartment.

Dr. Furch then, with drunken madness, shot Mrs. Gertrude Manni, the maid, and wound up his homicidal attack by shooting himself.

The dead woman was Mrs. Norma Schmidt, 39 years old. She was first Miss Norma Berring. She married John C. Schmidt Jr. in 1921 and divorced him last May 7. She married Dr. Furch the following May 29. She divorced him last Aug. 22.

Learned the High Life.

When she was married to her first husband Mrs. Schmidt lived in a 15 room apartment, had servants, and learned to like expensive cocktails. From him in a divorce settlement she got enough money to live as she had learned to live.

After the brief interlude of being Mrs. Furch she set up the pleasant six room apartment at 317 Belden avenue, where the shooting took place.

Schmidt, president of the Fulton Asphalt company, was married and divorced before he married Norma Berring. His first wife, Dorothy, got a decree in 1919, charging he ran around with other women. Norma divorced him for again taking up with Dorothy.

The Slayer's History.

Dr. Furch first appeared as a young student of chiropody in Princeton, N. J. There he married Myrtle Tash 15 years ago. They came to Chicago, where he prospered. He developed a liking for liquor—and for women. In December, 1935, Mrs. Furch divorced him, taking their two children. She complained that he was having an affair with Mrs. Schmidt.

Thereupon Dr. Furch married Mrs. Schmidt. But after his divorce three months later he went back to live with Myrtle Furch in a flat at 325 Webster avenue.

In the apartment at the time of the shooting last night was Mrs. Marjorie Lagorio, 38 years old, who said she was the divorced wife of Louis Lagorio, son of Antonio Lagorio, director of the Chicago Pasteur institute. Louis, she said, is a brother of Dr. Frank Lagorio, chief examining physician for the Illinois Athletic commission.

Daughter, 10, Sees Tragedy.

Mrs. Lagorio is the former Marjorie Carey. The only persons in the apartment not caught in a modern whirlpool of divorce and drunkenness were Mrs. Manni, recently married, and Jacquelyn, 10 years old, blonde, brown eyed adopted daughter of Mrs. Schmidt. The child was a horrified witness of the slaying.

On a grand piano in the living room stood a rum bottle, some half filled glasses. Symbolic.

Dr. Furch, after his return to living with his first wife, Myrtle, did not remarry her. On the contrary, he returned to the pursuit of his second divorced wife, Mrs. Schmidt. He demanded that she remarry him. He was 38 years old and said he wanted to settle down. She went to Florida to escape him. Upon her return ten

SEIZE TWO SIT STRIKE LEADERS; FIVE IN FLIGHT

Prepare to Reopen Fansteel Plants.

Along the Labor Front

John L. Lewis' drive for mass unionization swings to vast Ford company, with Homer Martin, auto union head, opening C. I. O. campaign in New Jersey. Union leaders continue negotiations with General Motors at Detroit as sitdown strike of 60 men throws 2,700 out of work in Fisher Body and Chevrolet plants at Janesville, Wis. Details on Page 3.

Two leaders of the Fansteel Metallurgical corporation strike in North Chicago were arrested and five others were being sought last night as Lake county officials set out to consolidate their victory of yesterday morning, when a gas attack by forty deputy sheriffs and policemen routed sixty sitdown strikers from two buildings of the company.

To the county officials the rout meant enforcement of the law; to the strikers it meant a setback in establishing the sitdown as a recognized weapon in bargaining with employers. To the Fansteel company it meant triumph in its refusal to discuss a settlement of the strike until its plants were evacuated.

C. I. O. Organizers Locked Up.

The two men arrested and locked up in the Lake county jail at Waukegan on charges of criminal conspiracy are J. R. Weber, 32 years old, 9102 Houston avenue, Chicago, and Melvin S. Pitzele, 26, of 9233 Houston avenue. Both are organizers for John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization.

The big boss of the strikers was one of the five men being sought. He is Meyer Adelman, north shore organizer for the C. I. O., who acted as spokesman for the sitters in the abortive peacemaking efforts of Gov. Horner.

Adelman deserted his men before the start of the battle yesterday morning. At 11 o'clock Thursday night, it was learned, he notified Federal Conciliators John O'Connor and Robert Pilkington that a surprise attack was planned, and asked them to try to stop it. The conciliators replied that they had authority to do nothing.

Adelman Disappears from Room.

Adelman then disappeared from his room in the Clayton hotel in Waukegan, from which he had directed the strike and negotiations for its settlement.

The four other men hunted by deputy sheriffs are John A. Kondrath, president of the local union of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel, and Tin Workers; Carl Swanson, secretary of the union; Ted Rich, and Helmer Johnson. These men, as well as the two already arrested, are charged with conspiring to prevent enforcement of the injunction issued on Feb. 18 by Judge Ralph J. Dady in Circuit court restraining the strikers from occupying the Fansteel plants.

Deputy sheriffs also sought Adelman and one of his chief associates, Oakley Mills, on a writ issued secretly on Thursday by Judge Dady. The writ directs this pair to show cause why they should not be held in contempt of court for conspiring to violate the Feb. 18 injunction.

Adelman "Out of City."

Adelman is "out of the city doing special work," it was announced last night at a meeting of 500 strike sympathizers in the Slovenian hall, 10th street and McAllister avenue, in North Chicago.

The principal speaker at the meeting was Nicholas Fontecchio, acting director of the C. I. O. in the west. He spoke for his chief, Van A. Bittner, who is in New York.

Fontecchio pledged all the resources of the C. I. O. to aid the Fansteel strikers.

The meeting closed with adoption of a resolution demanding an investigation of the "infamous conduct" of law enforcement officials who forced the strikers out.

With Adelman absent from strike

headquarters in the Clayton hotel Leo Krzycki of Milwaukee, another C. I. O. organizer, took charge. He announced that the fight would go on.

The sole issue in the Fansteel strike was recognition of the union, and the company stood fast on its contention that the union did not represent a majority of its workers.

Robert J. Aitchison, president of the company, issued a statement during the day declaring that the plants will be reopened as soon as they can be rehabilitated. He said a preliminary inspection showed that $25,000 worth of materials, parts and supplies had been destroyed during the ten day occupation of the strikers, and that damage to the two buildings, including broken windows, was $7,500.

Arthur Holm, veteran foreman at Fansteel plant, who cut wire fence permitting strikers to flee from gas attack, reads letter announcing his discharge by company.

Though 80 men started the sitdown strike their ranks had been reduced to 60 when the evacuation started yesterday. Some of them fell ill and some deserted after the first attempt to drive them out, which took place on Feb. 19.

Yesterday's spectacular raid, which started at dawn, was accomplished by a picked force of deputies and policemen recruited from north shore suburbs. They surrounded the two occupied buildings, plants No. 3 and 5, and fired gas shells and grenades through the windows.

Then the attackers brought into action an ancient weapon—a battle tower reminiscent of the war engines used in assaults on walled cities. Inside the wooden tower, mounted on a truck, were two men wearing gas masks and armed with repeating gas guns. The tower was pushed up against plant No. 3 and the guns fired through small slots in the sides, poured gas shells into the building.

Within an hour the strikers, roused from sleep by the surprise attack, came out of the building choking and gasping. Officers made no attempt to stop them as they rushed to the fence around the plant and fled through a hole cut in the heavy wire.

The man who cut the wire was Arthur Holm, 60 years old, 142 McKinley avenue, Waukegan, a foreman for the company for 20 years. He was not one of the sitters, but his son was in the plant, and he said he reached the scene soon after the attack started in order to help his son.

LABOR'S SITDOWN STRIKE WEAPON MASTERED BY GAS

Tear and Knockout Types Used at North Chicago.

Labor's powerful weapon, the sitdown strike, met another powerful weapon, gas, yesterday morning in the plants of the Fansteel Metallurgical corporation in North Chicago. The victory for gas was pointed to by police and military experts as an example of the effectiveness of this weapon when properly used.

Two types of gas were used by the Lake county deputies in the attack—tear gas, the type generally used in banks, and so-called knockout gas, which is employed by police for use against mobs.

The knockout gas, which has a nauseating effect, is known among army men as Adamsite, from its inventor, Prof. Roger Adams of the University of Illinois, an army captain during the war. The chemical name for the gas is diphenylaminechlorasine.

Makes Yellowish Smoke.

It makes a yellowish smoke, gives its victims a headache, pains in the throat and chest, and forces them to vomit. For several hours after exposure they suffer from effects similar to an alcoholic hangover, but there are no permanent ill effects.

The chemical name for tear gas is chloroacetophenone. Numerous tests have shown that it leaves no permanent effect on the eyes or lungs. Both tear and knockout gas are used by the army, chiefly to force the enemy to remove gas masks before an attack with deadly gas.

Both grenades and shells were used in the Fansteel attack. Before tossing a grenade the thrower pulls out a small pin and at the same time holds down a lever which prevents the gas from escaping until the missil is thrown. After it leaves his hand, automatically releasing the lever, an automatic device releases the gas two seconds later.

The Guns Used.

The shells used in yesterday's attack are fired from guns similar to a Thompson submachine gun, but of much larger caliber. The guns are capable of firing twenty-four cartridges a minute. The long range type projectiles used have a maximum effective range of about 200 yards. It was this type of shell, fired through the windows of the Fansteel plant, which quickly forced the strikers out of the building.

THREAT TO INDICT CLEARS PLANT OF STAY IN STRIKERS

Aircraft Workers Follow Lead of Other 'Sitters.'

Santa Monica, Cal., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Threatened with indictment, about 200 "stay in" strikers today evacuated the Northrop Aircraft factory at nearby Inglewood, following the lead of 343 men who surrendered last night at the Northrop parent concern, the huge Douglas Aircraft plant here.

The Northrop employes, who had held the plant since yesterday morning, left without violence shortly before the 2 p. m. deadline set by William Simpson, chief deputy district attorney, who declared he would seek indictments if they did not leave.

The Douglas employes were indicted yesterday morning by a Los Angeles county grand jury which charged them with illegal entry and trespassing. The grand jury had been called into special session this afternoon to consider indictments against the Northrop men when word was received they had capitulated.

Douglas Strikers Arraigned.

The Douglas strikers, who were held overnight in jail at Los Angeles, were arraigned in court today. The proceedings dragged on through the day and were expected to be carried over to future hearings.

Superior Judge Emmet Wilson late tonight released the strikers on their own recognizance following their arraignment earlier in the day on felony charges of illegal entry before Superior Judge Charles Fricke. They had been held on $1,000 bond each by Judge Fricke.

The Douglas plant was shut down Tuesday by a strike intended to enforce demands for union recognition, wage increases and improved working conditions. The Northrop workers, whose strike began yesterday, are making the same demands.

Stay In to Block Sitdown.

Grand Haven, Mich., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—One of the most unusual labor disputes in the national strike picture was staged here today by 300 employés of the Eagle Ottawa Leather company, who went on a "stay in" strike to prevent a "sitdown" strike by another group. Meanwhile work went on as usual.

The company's 600 employés are divided about equally between an American Federation of Labor local and the United Automobile Workers of America. The A. F. of L. workers occupied the plant last night because of rumors the U. A. W. A members planned a sitdown strike.

1,000 Iron Workers Strike.

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Production at the Michigan Malleable Iron company was halted today by a sitdown strike of about 1,000 foundry workers, members of the United Automobile Workers of America. The company makes automobile parts for Ford and Chrysler cars.

7 Governors Will Confer on Problems of Relief

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Gov. Lehman invited today governors of six states to confer with him in New York City Sunday "to discuss informally the relief problems common to their respective states." Those invited are Govs. George H. Earle, Pennsylvania; Philip F. La Follette, Wisconsin; Henry Horner, Illinois; Elmer A. Benson, Minnesota; Robert E. Quinn, Rhode Island, and Charles N. Hurley, Massachusetts.

Boy, 12, Saves Mother from Death by Fumes

Paul Nelson, 12 years old, probably saved the life of his mother, Blanche Nelson, 43 years old, of 1536 Hudson avenue, yesterday. Returning home from school for lunch, Paul found her lying on the kitchen floor, overcome by fumes from a defective hot water heater. The boy opened all the windows and called the police. A rescue squad under Lieut. Martin Carney revived Mrs. Nelson.

LEWIS OPENS UP ON FORD IN C. I. O. UNION CAMPAIGN

New Jersey Plant Is First Objective in Move.

New York, Feb. 26.—[Special.]—John L. Lewis' campaign for mass unionization and power tonight pointed toward the vast Ford automotive organization, third of the big three—General Motors, Chrysler and Ford—propositioned to enter a collective bargaining agreement with the aspiring labor leader's club, the United Automobile Workers of America.

Homer Martin, president of the U. A. W. A., which is affiliated with Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization, announced here that the union would begin immediately an organizational drive among workers at the Ford assembly plant in Edgewater, N. J.

The company's Edgewater plant, where some 3,700 persons are employed, has figured prominently in statements since early announcements of the C. I. O.'s intention to unionize large industries in northern New Jersey. The union drive also would include workers in oil refineries and textile plants.

Recall Unsuccessful Strike.

While Martin was confident of victory at the Edgewater plant, assembly unit for the eastern division of the Ford company and export base, it was recalled that the factory was the scene three years ago of an unsuccessful strike and that Gov. Harold G. Hoffman recently said he would not tolerate sitdown strikes in New Jersey.

Under leadership of the American Federation of Labor, about 1,600 workers struck on Sept. 28, 1933, at the plant, demanding higher wages and shorter hours. By the following Jan. 8, all of the strikers had returned to work without achieving their aims.

Martin, however, had no qualms about the future as he addressed a massmeeting at Newark, N. J., tonight, opening the membership drive for unions in northern New Jersey affiliated with the C. I. O.

Claims Progress in Drive.

"Ford employés are coming into the union so fast we can't take care of them," he declared. "Our people in Ford factories are wearing buttons openly and we have made very substantial progress."

Meantime, U. A. W. A. leaders at Detroit continued negotiations with General Motors on points unsettled by the recent widespread strikes in that company's plants and made preparations for the scheduled collective bargaining conference with Chrysler executives next Wednesday.

The General Motors negotiators' discussion of a 30 hour work week was interrupted by consideration of a strike today at the Fisher Body and Chevrolet plants in Janesville, Wis.

2,700 Thrown Out of Work.

About 2,700 men were thrown out of work by the refusal of 60 men on the seat cushion assembly line to work until one of their number, William Bartell, who had been ordered to stay away from the plant until he could "act like a man," was reinstated.

Trouble over Bartell began yesterday when he declared he was on his own time at noon and did not have to abide by a decision not to boo nonunion men.

U. A. W. A. leaders at Detroit tersely ordered the sixty strikers to get back to work and abandon the strike. Wesley Van Horn, president of the Janesville local, said an attempt would be made to get the men back to work Monday morning.

After the plants closed, the idle workers paraded through the streets.

Boat Strikers Wait Reply.

Groton, Conn., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Strikers at the Electric Boat company here were quiet today as they awaited an answer to a demand that the federal government compel the concern to negotiate with them or forfeit its contract to build naval submarines.

The request was sent to President Roosevelt by the presidents of eight unions comprising the executive committee of the central labor union of New London. They also urged an inquiry into the company's financial structure and labor policy.

Fear Power Shutoff.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Fearing serious impairment of water and power in Minneapolis, the city council today adopted a resolution asking Gov. Elmer A. Benson to see that electric current is not cut off as the result of a strike of employés of the Northern States Power company. Some 2,000 buildings already are without current and the number is steadily increasing.

CAN QUINTS MAINTAIN THEIR EARNINGS?

Whether the Dionne quintuplets can keep up the rate of income which has given them a fortune of more than $500,000 when they are less than 3 years old is a subject of speculation among Canadians. Here the young ladies are bundled up for a ride on their sleds. Left to right: Annette, Marie, Emilie, Yvonne, and Cecile.

SECRECY CLOAKS PARLEY ON MINE LABOR COMPACT

New York, Feb. 26.—[Special.]—The subcommittee representing the United Mine Workers union and coal operators today wrestled the sixth session of the conference on the wages and working conditions of miners in the Appalachian fields. Results of deliberations, which will affect 400,000 miners and the $11,000,000,000 soft coal industry, so far have been shrouded in secrecy.

An agreement on miners' pay and working conditions is the aim of the twenty-three men. The present agreement will expire March 31. John L. Lewis, spokesman for the union, said his United Mine workers will strike if a new contract has not been signed by that time.

KIDNAPED

GEYNELL SOOM.
[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Emmett, Idaho, Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Geynell Soom, 20, a church worker, was recovered at her home today from her terrifying experience yesterday when she was kidnaped by a former suitor, who shot himself to death after she refused to marry him. The youth, Kenneth Crowther, 22, grabbed the girl outside a local church where she was helping plan a party, drove her to an isolated spot and pleaded that she marry him. The girl broke from his grasp, and as she ran away Crowther sent a bullet into his brain.

$10,000 an Hour

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CALLANDER, Ont., Feb. 26.—The revelation this week that the Dionne quintuplets have cached away $543,046.39 in government and government controled bonds in the two and three-quarters years of their lives has caused speculation as to how long they can maintain their rate of earnings.

The sisters, Annette, Cecile, Emilie, Marie, and Yvonne, have been saving money, so far, at the rate of $16,455.95 a month. The amount of their bond holdings was revealed Wednesday by David A. Croll when he introduced a bill at Toronto under which he seeks to retire as one of the quintuplets' guardians in favor of Percy D. Wilson, Ontario official guardian.

On their second birthday last May 28 the sisters received $250,000 in spot cash for a movie contract.

Croll said that, on a basis of actual acting time, the quintuplets would earn $10,000 an hour under their movie contract.

SIT STRIKE IRKS KIDS, BUT IT'S A BEAR OF AN ACT

New York, Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Minnie Armstrong, Siberian brown bear—and as temperamental as they come—went on a sitdown strike today in the middle of her performance in a WPA circus given for poor children in Harlem.

Minnie just had gone through her routine on roller skates. Her trainer was preparing to lead her to the tight rope—6 or 8 feet high—for the finale, when Minnie rebeled.

Down she sat. The trainer coaxed her freely. But Minnie wouldn't budge. The children were getting impatient. The trainer approached Minnie and tapped her on the snout. This was what Minnie was waiting for. She shot out her paw, caught his leg, and brought him in close for a good wrestling workout.

Minnie was a new performer after the exercise.

With something that didn't smack of the agility of a cat, Minnie ambled up the ladder to the tight rope and while the children held their breath she walked—sideways—on all four and back again on her hind legs. The children applauded lustily. The strike was over.

REVOKE A. F. OF L. CHARTER IN RIFT AT COLUMBUS, O.

Columbus, O., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Rivalry between John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization and William Green's American Federation of Labor flared today as F. J. Dillon, personal investigator for Green, announced revocation of the Columbus federation's charter.

The action was taken on a complaint that it indorsed the recent automobile strike called by the United Automobile Workers of America, affiliated with the C. I. O.

The announcement, confirmed by Green, also said certain members of the federation held "radical political affiliations."

RESCUES DOG

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

A large German shepherd dog, rescued from a boat in the north branch of the Chicago river Thursday, waited last night at the Animal Rescue league, 157 West Grand avenue, for an owner. Agents of the Anti-Cruelty society took the dog which had been marooned since the boat, a cabin cruiser, drifted down stream Tuesday, lodging against the Division street bridge.

QUIET PREVAILS AT ELGIN AND JOLIET, STRIKES

Quiet prevailed yesterday in Elgin where 700 employes of the Illinois Watch Case company are on strike, and in Joliet, where the workers in the Star-Peerless Wallpaper plant have been conducting a sitdown strike for nearly three weeks.

At Elgin, where the strike is the old-fashioned type with the plant picketed, Louis Eppenstein, president of the concern, and other officials were permitted to pass through the picket lines and enter the plant yesterday to inspect it. They carried cards given to them by officials of local 85 of the International Jewelry Workers' union. Eppenstein said he would not discuss settlement terms with other than his own employés.

At Joliet it was said settlement of the wallpaper strike hinged on a final agreement in a strike at the Century Wallpaper mill in Decatur. The Century company is a subsidiary of Star-Peerless, which on Thursday completed an agreement with Jacob Heinl, union organizer. Heinl said the agreement, providing increased pay and shorter hours, will end the strike as soon as similar provision is made for the Decatur workers.

TERRORS OF AX BATTLE IN MINE ARE TOLD AS STRIKERS QUIT SHAFT

PECS, Hungary, Feb. 26.—(AP)—A story of hunger-crazed men swinging picks and axes in a battle along narrow, murky tunnels at the bottom of a mine shaft was pieced together tonight from the accounts of terrified survivors.

Authorities, however, had difficulty fitting the jigsaw picture of the fight from the 250 bleeding, half starved "suicide" strikers who staggered from the mine after two days' entombment.

Some of them, suffering hallucinations after their experience, refused to tell police what happened.

Those who could tell a coherent story admitted glumly a fight had started—apparently over whether to continue or abandon their hunger strike, but refused to identify any strikers who had insisted on remaining below.

A company official said the complaints of the strikers—who sought an increase in daily pay from $1 to $1.20—were being investigated, but it was improbable the raise would be given.

BRITAIN OILS UP CASH REGISTER FOR CORONATION

Expects Millions Profit from Foreign Visitors.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 26.—Millions of dollars will pour into London from all parts of the world during the next few months. John Bull intends to make a pretty penny out of the coronation of King George VI. and Queen Elizabeth of Great Britain on May 12.

Conservative estimates put the amount that will be spent by those who come from overseas—the continent of Europe, the dominions, and the United States—at $300,000,000 for hotel accommodations, clothes, amusements, and travel alone. This will not include what is spent by British people who will flock to London from the provinces.

British officials estimate that half of the world's wealth will be concentrated in London for the coronation celebrations.

Expect 300,000 Visitors.

It is expected that some 300,000 visitors from abroad, each spending an estimated average of $1,000 per head, will be in London during coronation week, while hundreds of thousands of Britons from the country, from Wales, Scotland, and Northern Ireland, will be in London, so that the city's population will be swelled by well over a million.

To house these visitors all sorts of expedients are being adopted. Ships are being parked in the Thames river for use as hotels, railway coaches are to be used as rooms, and bath houses on the river will be utilized. Many Londoners are renting their apartments and houses at exorbitant prices for the week and moving out of town themselves.

Even so, there is reported to be a shortage of hotel and boarding house accommodation and there has been organized a National Coronation Accommodation bureau.

Ships Booked to Capacity.

The great trans-Atlantic liners have for weeks been booked to capacity between American ports and Europe. Steamship lines also report heavy early bookings from Africa, Australia and India.

Besides the huge sums that will be spent on food, lodging, clothing, and amusement, hundreds of thousands of dollars will pour into the till from the renting of places along the coronation route. These places range in price from $5 to $125 each.

Sometimes curious complications take place. Owners of some houses along the route who have already rented window spaces to customers later discover that great reviewing stands have been built in the street in front of their houses, obscuring the view from the windows.

Exorbitant Prices Cited.

Agents dealing in coronation seats are trying to resist the exorbitant boost in prices. Here is a sample of what is being asked for houses which have a view over the procession route: A house in Park Lane with a view, $7,500; smaller houses in Park Lane, $3,000; for a small flat in Oxford street, $400. These are prices for one week only.

A prominent West End real estate agent said recently: "We have on our books a peer who insists upon receiving $10,000 for two weeks' tenancy of his house in Mayfair. Charlie Chaplin is said to have paid $5,000 a week for a house."

Hundreds of thousands of dollars will also be spent by the peers and peeresses and others who attend the coronation. It will cost a duchess at least $2,000 for her robe. Marchionesses will spend at minimum of $1,450, countesses $1,375, viscountesses $1,275, and baronesses $1,175. This is not the complete charge, as it does not include accessories.

Breeches at $25 a Pair.

All this money will go into the cash registers of the dressmakers. A roaring business will also be done in white court breeches at $25 a pair, superfine trousers with gold lace at $40 a pair, cocked hats at $35, guilt shoe and knee buckles at $10, swords at $15, gold swordknots at $5, and blue doeskin cloaks at $50, all required as levee uniforms for the men. A roaring business will also be done in jewelry—that is, for coronets and other ornaments.

Expect 300,000 at Coronation

London is getting ready to house 300,000 visitors when King George VI. and Queen Elizabeth are crowned May 12. M. Vasco, court hairdresser, has devised ways for peeresses, without pads and puffs of other years, to wear coronets. No. 1 is a hairdress that will cushion a coronet. No. 2 illustrates use of elastic band to compensate for lack of hair bulk. No. 3 is a model wearing a coronet in best court manner, the elastic concealed. (Story in adjoining column.) [Associated Press Photo.]

BRITAIN TO ASK DOMINIONS HELP BEAR ARMS COST

Premiers to Attend Defense Parley in London.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 26.—Great Britain's dominions and colonies will be asked to assume part of the burdens of the nation's seven and a half billion dollar rearmament program when the dominion premiers meet with Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin and other British statesmen at the imperial conference which will be held in London following the coronation. That was disclosed today.

Stanley Baldwin.

The plan is to pass on to the dominions and colonies a larger part of the expense of the imperial defense program, most of which England now pays exclusively. It is expected an invitation to the dominions to share in the armament costs will take the form of suggesting that they build for the British navy a number of ships for the current program or make a definite vote of ready money.

Might Construct Vessels.

In the first case the dominion governments would be asked to undertake the construction of vessels allocated to them from the admiralty's naval program. They would take responsibility for placing orders for ships and paying for them.

Imperial strategists believe this would give the dominions a more direct association with the armament or defense program than now prevails.

Grants of money would be expected from the smaller colonial governments not able to pay the entire costs of building a destroyer or a submarine.

To Discuss Upkeep of Monarchy.

There also is a movement afoot among some members of the house of commons to invite the dominions to share in the upkeep of the monarchy now that the king is not exclusively British but also king of Canada, Australia, South Africa, as well as other territories, holding this title separately, according to the Westminster statute.

Australia with its twelve thousand miles of coastline is particularly interested in the topic of defense, since it spends more on armament than any other dominion government.

The exact date has not been set for the opening of the imperial conference. It will last about a month.

EDWARD LEADS KENT ON MERRY CHASE IN VIENNA

VIENNA, Austria, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Like the megaphone man on a sightseeing bus, the duke of Windsor showed his youngest brother, the duke of Kent, around Vienna's show places today.

In fact, Edward ran Kent almost breathless with a whirlwind tour of four museums, two picture galleries, the Spanish Riding school, the Hapsburg sepulchre, and several shops. Everywhere Edward waved aside the guides and pointed out the treasures himself. The brothers also visited President Miklas.

Later Edward picked up Lord Brownlow, his former gentleman in waiting, who arrived from England today, and escorted him to Enzesfeld, the royal exile's suburban retreat.

COMICS WED

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 26.—(AP)—A comedienne and a comedian, Sally Haines and Bert Wheeler, became man and wife today after a marriage ceremony that was no comedy to either.

"I was so choked up I could hardly say the words," Wheeler said.

CARRY WAR TO ENEMY, SOVIET ARMY IS TOLD

MOSCOW, Feb. 26. — (AP) — Soviet Russia's 1,300,000 man fighting machine today was under orders to meet any future enemy on his own territory and to attack enemy lines both with arms and propaganda.

Klementi Voroshilov.

"The winning over of worker and peasant elements in the enemy army, as well as the population in the arena of military operations, to the side of the proletarian revolution is most important," said new military instructions.

"Meet the enemy on the territory whence he comes," the rules advised Russia's vast army.

The regulations, issued after speeches by War Commissar Klementi Voroshilov and other leaders have urged preparedness for attacks by foreign enemies, said the army should attack invaders without awaiting "special orders."

EDEN AND HITLER ENVOY DISCUSS COLONIES' RETURN

Britain Asks Peace Guarantee.

LONDON, Feb. 26. — (AP) — Great Britain today set the guaranteed peace of Europe as the price for restoration of Germany's war lost foreign empire.

Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary, stipulated the terms in a long surprise conversation with the German ambassador, Joachim von Ribbentrop, who was expected to leave for Germany tomorrow to report to Adolf Hitler.

Before Great Britain even could consider returning the reich's colonies or yielding league of nations mandates over former German overseas possessions, diplomatic sources said Eden insisted, the security of Europe must be established by a general accord.

Discuss Security Pact.

The conference, in which both diplomats reiterated previously declared positions, was said to have turned to a careful analysis of the state of affairs in Europe generally and the possibility of concluding an effective security pact.

One of the chief stumbling blocks, well informed sources pointed out, has been Germany's unwillingness to join a pact including soviet Russia and Czechoslovakia in eastern Europe, despite the desire both of France and Britain that any security treaty be all embracing.

Belgian Group Off to Italy.

The coincidence of the conference and the departure of a Belgian mission to Italy under the leadership of Count Charles de Broqueville, former premier of Belgium, was seen in some quarters as evidence of renewed efforts to reach a western security agreement to replace the discarded Locarno treaty.

The Broqueville mission went to Rome ostensibly to convey King Leopold's congratulations on the birth of a first son to Crown Prince Umberto.

Authoritative sources expressed belief, however, it had been commissioned secretly to discuss the Locarno question and other international problems with Premier Benito Mussolini.

Belgium's recent reply to a British note concerning a substitute for the Locarno pact—in which the Brussels government said it wanted its security guaranteed by the powers, but would not participate in a pact guaranteeing theirs—also was reviewed by Eden and Von Ribbentrop.

BESIEGED REBELS BATTLE FOE FROM SEWERS OF CITY

Six Day Fight Rages On in Ancient Oviedo.

BAYONNE, France, Feb. 26.—(AP)—The Fascist rebel defenders of Oviedo, in northern Spain, fought on doggedly tonight from the very sewers of the ancient city, pushed underground by six days of attack by Basque loyalists.

The rebel machine guns spat back at the government attackers from the entrances to the dank, arched stone passages, high enough for a man to walk through in upright position. They were laid centuries ago, and today they formed both a barricade and a place of refuge from government ground and air attacks.

Rebels Hold Out in Cathedral.

Other insurgents held out in the 14th century Gothic cathedral, its shell pocked tower rising 200 feet into the sky. In the chapels of the edifice lie the bones of 10th century kings and princes, and in the adjacent Camara Santa, the original primitive chapel of San Miguel, were placed the sacred relics brought from Toledo at the time of the medieval Moorish invasion. The fate of these relics, kept in an oak and silver chest, is not known.

The attacking Basques drove the rebels from locomotive sheds of the north station and planted machine guns to sweep Uria street, reports to the Basque government at Bilbao said.

A twenty-four hour battle to clean up America square in the besieged city resulted in a government victory, the attackers reported.

Madrid Battle Deadlocked.

MADRID, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Government fire, concentrated from flank positions on Pinzarron hill, strategic Jarama front point dominating the Valencia-Madrid highway southeast of the capital, today failed to dislodge rebels holding command of the hillcrest.

While Gen. José Miaja, loyalist commander, toured front lines of his newly unified command, a subaltern said continued fighting had caused scant change in the Madrid front battle lines.

[Insurgent reports at Avila said the government offensive around Madrid had collapsed after an entire battalion of militiamen was annihilated near the Segovia bridge, west of Madrid. Dispatches from the capital did not mention such an engagement.]

Rebels Repulsed in South.

Dispatches from Valencia reported that rebel forces were repulsed in fighting at three small towns—Pitres, Portugos, and Trevelez—along the Motril front. The entire population of the village of Tortosa was reported to have fled to the hills to avoid rebel air raids following a 100 bomb attack on the village Tuesday night. Five persons were killed and twenty wounded today when rebel planes bombed Gandia, 40 miles south of Valencia.

Adopt the Abandoned Schue Baby

Policeman Ambrose Dorsey and his wife were happy yesterday after they obtained the abandoned Schue baby for their own. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Parents Consent

Kenneth Schue, 7 months old, whose father chose to abandon him in order to continue payments on a second hand automobile, was in a new home last night. With consent of the parents the baby was turned over to Policeman Ambrose Dorsey of the Maxwell street station and his wife, Grace. The Dorseys live at 711 West 68th street.

Attorney William J. Mannion said an adoption petition would be filed in County court today and that a hearing would be held Monday before County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki. Policeman Dorsey and his wife were attracted by the baby's pictures in newspapers. They have no children.

Last Tuesday Judge Frank M. Padden in Felony court ordered the child's father, Edward Schue Jr., held to the grand jury on a charge of child abandonment. The mother, Mrs. Frances Schue, is ill in the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium.

400 SEE SLAYER OF SWEETHEART DIE ON GALLOWS

Ste. Genevieve, Mo., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—With 400 persons crowded around the gallows within a stockade on the county farm near here, Hurt Hardy, 31 years old, was hanged this afternoon for the murder of his sweetheart, Ethel Fenestock, 20 years old, in 1935. About a thousand persons stood outside the high board fence which barred them from viewing the execution.

Hardy walked to the gallows unassisted. Sherif Louis Ziegler asked him whether he had anything to say.

"I am proud to be fully prepared to meet my Maker and I will be happy to meet my sweetheart in the beyond," he said in a firm voice.

STILL PREFERRING DEATH, MILDRED GOES TO DWIGHT

Mrs. Mildred Mary Bolton, 46 years old, whose life was spared by executive clemency a few hours before she was to have been electrocuted early yesterday for the slaying of her estranged husband, Joseph, was taken to the women's prison at Dwight to start serving the 199 year term decreed by Gov. Horner.

Mrs. Bolton declared she had no gratitude for the governor's action, saying: "I would have preferred it the other way."

Meanwhile W. W. Smith, attorney for Joseph Rappaport, whose life was spared by the governor's last minute reprieve Thursday night, announced he had an affidavit from Irving Wilinkin, 18 years old, of 1801 South Ridgeway avenue, discrediting testimony of the state's star witness, Mrs. Annie Dent, mother of Max Dent, government narcotics informer whom Rappaport was convicted of slaying on Oct. 8, 1935. Rappaport is scheduled to die Tuesday.

Of three persons who awaited death in the Cook county jail Thursday night only Rufo Swain, 27 years old, colored, was executed. He died for the rape murder of Mrs. Mary Trammell, 24 years old, wife of a dining car steward.

CREDITORS TO THE WORLD

By CALEB

WE stood breathlessly silent while a talkie "take" was being made. For the fourteenth time the identical scene was being shot. One neophyte member of the cast of eight had jitters. Again and again, as though she were hounded by a bitter nemesis, she fumbled her lines. With infinite patience the director and the rest of the cast carried on.

It was all part of the game. When the take was completed, Lois Wilson told me how some years ago she was seated in a scene in which a nervous child was playing. Above Miss Wilson stood a servant holding a burning candle. Again and again the scene was shot. Again and again the take was spoiled. The day wore on. The take was long. There was time for only one more trial. It started.

The child began confidently. A blistering hot drop of tallow dropped on Miss Wilson's bare arm! She suppressed every normal reaction to cry out or alter her position. Another drop fell and another and still another. By the end of the take she had a wicked burn as large as a quarter—but the take was good!

Businesses do not ask nor require that their helpers sacrifice themselves on the altar of corporate success. But they move forward on the stout hearts and shoulders of those who know their employment is to advance the interest of the main objective.

Individuals stand unavoidably as forces of free will in the great machinery of the world. They may cheerfully and generously contribute to social progress, or they may withhold co-operation.

A job—anyone's job—provides opportunity for heaving against the heavy wheels on which the world moves forward. Many people squirm and struggle to avoid in every possible way bearing an unrequired burden or exerting an unrequired effort.

They are deluded. By holding back they estrange themselves from that great fraternity of human beings who, in putting the broad purpose or the job first, taste the satisfaction of doing something for others—for the world. When one contributes something which is not required, he places the world in his debt. Such debts usually sooner or later are paid.

Do you work for a living? Try for a time putting the job first. You may believe it makes you creditor to your employer. There is something more important than that. It makes you creditor to the world at large. In the department of good works and superb satisfactions, the world's creditors and not its debtors are the ones who find happiness.

SLAYS EX-WIFE, SHOOTS MAID AS POLICE LOOK ON

Doctor Then Turns Gun on Self in Flat.

Calls His Ex-Wife.

Mrs. Lagorio and Mrs. Schmidt were downtown yesterday afternoon. They had a few drinks. They returned to the Belden avenue apartment for dinner, and Dr. Furch telephoned to Mrs. Schmidt.

She told him to stay away. He insisted upon coming over. He arrived at 7 o'clock. Scorning food, he joined the women in two rounds of highballs. Then he asked Mrs. Schmidt for money, as he had many times in the past, and also for her promise to marry him in April. She refused both.

Then, according to the stories of the maid and Mrs. Lagorio, he became violent.

"He said he was going to kill Mrs. Schmidt right now," Mrs. Manni told police, "but we didn't believe him because he had threatened her before."

Telephones First Wife.

Then Dr. Furch went to the telephone and called Mrs. Myrtle Furch, his first wife, who had been friendly with Mrs. Schmidt despite their tangled marital history.

"I'm in big trouble over here. Come and help me out," he said, and gave her the address. Mrs. Furch said she would come and try to effect a reconciliation.

"When I got there," Mrs. Furch told police, "I could see they had all been drinking. I refused to have anything to do with a drunken party, so I left." With Mrs. Furch was a friend, Mrs. Dorothy [Connie] Anderson, 1221 Montrose avenue.

While Mrs. Furch was in the apartment Mrs. Schmidt, tired of the argument, had sent the maid across the street to call for the police. Policemen Ray Curran and Frank Cafferetta arrived in a squad car. They tried to settle the argument, but failed, and prepared to take the doctor to the station. Mrs. Schmidt was going along to sign the complaint against him.

The patrol wagon arrived and Policemen Joseph Neubauer and Edward H. Mee also came into the apartment. Mee returned downstairs to the wagon. The others, leaving Mrs. Lagorio with Jacquelyn, started for the back door.

Gets Coat and Hat.

"Wait a minute; let me get my overcoat," Dr. Furch said. He went into a bedroom and returned wearing his coat and hat. "If this is what you want I'll do it," he added.

"All right, let's go," said Mrs. Schmidt.

Policemen Curran and Cafferetta led the way. Next was Mrs. Schmidt, then came Dr. Furch, with Policeman Neubauer following. The maid also was in the kitchen.

Without a word of warning Dr. Furch then produced a .32 caliber pistol which he apparently had concealed in his overcoat. He grabbed Mrs. Schmidt's arm, turned her part way around, and fired a shot that struck her in the right side of the chest.

Wildly the doctor continued firing. A bullet struck Mrs. Manni and two went wild before the thunderstruck policemen could act. Neubauer then grappled with the slayer, but could not prevent his sending a bullet crashing into his own body just below the heart.

Gun Is a Puzzle.

"I don't see where the gun came from," said Policeman Curran. "We had just searched him, but the gun might have been hidden in his coat. We weren't expecting shooting anyway. We thought we were sent over to quiet a bunch of drunks."

The policemen carried Mrs. Schmidt into the living room and called ambulances. At Augustana hospital Dr. Clyde Hunt pronounced her dead. He said Dr. Furch's condition was critical. The maid was wounded in the calf of her leg and was able to hobble about after treatment.

Hearing the gunshots, Mrs. Myrtle Furch and Mrs. Anderson returned to the apartment and were taken to the Hudson avenue station for questioning.

Later the police took these women, Mrs. Lagario, and Jacquelyn to the apartment to show how the shooting occurred.

"That man caused mamma trouble," said Jacquelyn with a toss of her head. "He was always wanting money and wanting mamma to marry him again."

Mrs. Manni said the marital life of Dr. Furch and Mrs. Schmidt was stormy, although their courtship had been just the opposite. She said they were married by the Rev. Henry Hepburn, pastor of the Buena Memorial Presbyterian church. Mrs. Manni had been in the employ of the slain woman for ten years.

Former Husband Appears.

Mr. Schmidt, former husband of the victim, appeared at the police station early this morning. He said he was living at a downtown hotel. The offices of his company are at 165 West Wacker drive.

"I've been out of all this for almost a year," he said, referring to his divorce from Mrs. Schmidt. "I really don't know anything that would help." It was learned that Mrs. Schmidt had obtained a divorce settlement of $25,000 in cash and $215 a month for herself and Jacquelyn, whom the Schmidts adopted from The Cradle in Evanston. Schmidt has not remarried.

Mrs. Richard Painter, 6644 North Ashland avenue, sister of Dr. Furch, manifested no surprise at news of the slaying.

"Frank has been practically insane over that woman for the last two weeks," she said. "He wanted her to take him back and she wouldn't."

There were numerous references by friends and acquaintances of Dr. Furch to his frequent fits of uncontroled anger.

Mrs. Manni, the maid, said, "He had such a terrible temper they didn't get along."

Dr. Furch, whose office is at 58 East Washington street, was reported last night to have a large practice. He is a former president of the Illinois Association of Chiropodists and recently dean of the North western Institute of Foot Surgery here. He stayed with Mrs. Schmidt until Valentine's day, Feb 14. Since then he has been registered at the Parkway hotel, 2100 Lincoln Park West.

CAMERA CATCHES A FAINT

A photographer snaps his camera at the second Mrs. Kay Meyer collapses in courtroom and her husband, Walter, bends over her to revive her. The white area in the foreground is the curve of Mrs. Meyer's neck and chin. The incident occurred as Oak Park prosecutor declined to permit her to drop charge against mate.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Collapses in Court

Mrs. Kay Meyer, 28 years old, yesterday was eager to have a charge of disorderly conduct she filed against her husband in the Oak Park police court dropped. So was her husband, Walter W. Meyer, 6910 Lowe avenue. But Village Prosecutor Clarence A. Willard wanted to hear all the testimony. When Mrs. Meyer fainted after vainly urging dismissal, Magistrate Martin H. McGrath continued the hearing for a week. Mrs. Meyer caused her husband's arrest Sunday night for clinging to the outside of an automobile while a salesman demonstrated the car in a long ride through western suburbs. Mr. Meyer didn't know the other man was an automobile salesman.

COP SHOOTS UP TAVERN; GETS HIS 3D SUSPENSION

Policeman Patrick McGrath, 34 years old, of the Brighton Park station, was suspended last night following his arrest earlier in the day for firing two wild shots in a tavern at 5611 Madison street. Police were told that McGrath, off duty but in uniform, was intoxicated.

Patrick McGrath.

McGrath drew his revolver, announcing that two patrons looked like bandits. One man fled through a rear door as the policeman fired at him. The other aided the bartender in subduing McGrath, who was on his way to work.

The suspension is the third for McGrath.

Schedules Radio Address on March 9.

Wilson with a speaking tour in opposition to the league and when the treaty came to a vote in the senate on Nov. 19, 1919, it was defeated.

The President's determination to carry his fight to the people with a "fireside" radio address and, if necessary, a personal tour, was inspired by an opposition in the senate which, if the vote were taken now, undoubtedly would defeat the proposal and which is steadily increasing as letters running from 10 to 1 to 100 to 1 against the court packing scheme pour in by the thousands.

Senator Henry F. Ashurst [D., Ariz.], chairman of the judiciary committee and manager of the President's bill, has confided to some of his colleagues that the proposition would be defeated if voted upon now.

Retirement Bill Passed.

The Sumners-McCarran voluntary retirement bill was passed by the senate by a vote of 76 to 4 after brief but acrimonious debate in which senators disclosed the violent emotions which Mr. Roosevelt's assault upon the judiciary has inspired. Both Senator Johnson and Senator Burke told the senate that any justice of the Supreme court who availed himself of the retirement privileges under the present circumstances would not be deserving of respect.

Senator Pat McCarran [D., Nev.], manager of the bill, made it clear that some senators, at least, supported the measure in the hope that enough of the justices would take advantage of it to satisfy Mr. Roosevelt and put an end to the raging judiciary controversy.

Urged by Roosevelt.

McCarran said the retirement measure was "no part" of the President's bill and he was technically correct, but the President urged such voluntary retirement legislation in his message accompanying the bill to permit the appointment of an additional justice for each member of the court over 70 who refused to retire.

"Is the purpose of this bill to afford the opportunity to members of the Supreme court to retire?" asked Senator Johnson.

"That is the purpose of it," said Senator McCarran.

"At this particular time?" Johnson continued. McCarran told him "at any time," and Johnson, his feeble voice reflecting his recent illness but his eyes flaming with the fire of 1919, replied:

"I will say to the senator from Nevada that a Supreme court justice who would retire at this particular time would not be the sort of individual for whom I would have the greatest respect."

Senate Majority Leader Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas leaped into the fray upon Johnson's outburst.

"The statement of the senator from California is an interesting one and a very peculiar one," he said. "Justices of the Supreme court have never had the right of retirement. The senator from California makes the amazing declaration that if the right is extended he would have no respect for a justice who would avail himself of it. Will the senator be kind enough to inform me at what time he would be willing to see a justice of the Sureme court avail himself of the privilege of retirement? Does he mean at some time when another President would have the opportunity of appointing a justice to succeed him or to serve in his place?

"I have said that I would have the feeling that I have suggested at this particular time," Senator Johnson replied. "I favor this bill. The senator from Arkansas asked me when would I expect a justice of the Supreme court to have the right. I would expect him to have the right when there was no bait held out to him."

Vote Down Amendment.

Senator H. Styles Bridges [R., N. H.] then offered an amendment to defer the operation of the act for four years in order to "take it out of the mire of politics."

Mr. Bridges' amendment was roared down in a voice vote, there not being a sufficient number of demands for a record vote.

On the final vote only Senators Bridges, William J. Bulow [D., S. D.], Hiram Johnson [R., Cal.], and A. Harry Moore [D., N. J.] opposed the measure.

The bill provides that Supreme court justices, having attained the age of 70 and served 10 years, continuously or otherwise, may retire on full pay [$20,000 for associate justices and $20,500 for the chief justice] subject to such duty in the Circuit Courts of Appeals as they may care to undertake, on request of the chief justice of the Supreme court.

After the bill is signed by the President six justices of the Supreme court would be eligible for retirement on full pay. They are Chief Justice Hughes and Associate Justices Willis Van Devanter, James Clark McReynolds, George Sutherland, Pierce Butler, and Louis D. Brandeis.

Your Nose Is a Safeguard from Millions of Germs!

Don't Let It Fail You!

Everybody knows that when your nostrils are stopped up with mucus and you have to breathe through the mouth, it's mighty unpleasant. But what is still worse, it actually endangers health.

Do you know that your nose has countless tiny hairs which actually filter out millions of germs as well as other impurities in the air and keep them from entering your system? And that the nose also has intricate passageways that warm the air and keep it from entering your lungs too cold.

That is why you cannot risk neglecting your nose as a safeguard bestowed on you by Mother Nature. If your nostrils are stopped up with mucus, open them at once. You can do this quickly with Mentholatum. It breaks up the accumulated mucus, enabling you to breathe more freely through the nostrils, thus getting the vital protection that Nature has planned for you.

"SORRY YOU WERE DELAYED, NEIGHBOR — BUT WE HAD WATER DOWN OUR WAY"

NOW L & N TRAINS.....
PASSENGER, FREIGHT, MAIL, EXPRESS

Back in Service

Guess you know how it is, neighbor. Comes a bit of trouble, sickness or danger in your home and business just has to shift for itself. Well, it looked like a tough spot down here with the Ohio walking right in the front doors of all our families. But L & N, fortunately, has the equipment and men for just such an emergency. Our train service was donated to help flood sufferers to safety...food and other supplies were transported free during the crisis; then, when the swirling water slunk back to its bed, our forces whipped into action to restore service.

Now, the L & N, "Your Home Sweet Home On Rails," is back on the job ...as strong and well equipped as ever... grateful for the privilege of having served in some measure our neighbors and friends. Today, safe, comfortable passenger trains are rolling again. Speedy freight cars are again carrying the nation's goods. And the L & N, which never bowed a head or bent a shoulder in adversity in all its eighty-seven years, thanks you for your consideration during our time of trouble.

LATEST MESSAGE TO PEGGY GARCIA A BIGAMY COUNT

Also Warned to Tell All in Extortion Plot.

New York, Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Blonde Peggy Garcia and her new husband were indicted for bigamy today. Peggy was held in $2,500 bond, and everything else went seriously and tragically wrong in her adventurous life, too, including:

[a] She woke up in a smelly jail cell.

[b] She was questioned in the police lineup by a scowling detective who was severe with her, despite her pretty marcel.

[c] She was told she might be charged with perjury, for which there is a twenty year prison penalty, and

[d] Far more important she was warned personally by District Attorney William C. Dodge that she had better "come clean" about her $500,000 heart balm suit again Fiddlin' Dave Rubinoff, lest she be involved in extortion charges.

Seeks Blackmail Ring.

"I am convinced there is a blackmail ring in this town, and it will be better for you if you tell the truth," Dodge said.

Peggy was indicted by the county grand jury on a bigamy charge this afternoon with her current husband, Michael La Rocca, a tombstone salesman, of Astoria.

A representative of the marriage license bureau, La Rocca's wife, and Abraham J. Halprin, attorney for Rubinoff in the heart balm suit, appeared as witnesses before the grand jury.

Peggy and her husband were arraigned before General Sessions Judge Owen W. Bohan, and Peggy looked nervous and drawn.

She had acquired a new attorney during the busy day, Daniel Jacobson.

Still Wed to Virginian.

Peggy listened, a shade bored. She was accused of being married to La Rocca without legally ending her marriage to a Virginia youth when she was twelve.

"I suggest $1,000 bail," said the lawyer. Assistant District Attorney Harold W. Hastings asked $2,500, and Judge Bohan accepted the latter figure.

La Rocca today complained that the dope fiend in the next cell kept him awake with pleas for "the stuff."

Peggy, too, complained that there was nothing melodious in the wrangling of the two prostitutes who were her jail neighbors.

"I'm learning a lot," she told detectives."

A plain looking, nervous, fidgety woman, Kathleen La Rocca, had Peggy and the tombstone agent arrested last night.

Claiming to be Mrs. La Rocca No. 1, she said that Peggy, in being married to her husband, had overlooked the detail that he was already married and the father of three children.

NEW "MISSING LINK" FIND

PARIS, Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Marcel Homet, noted French explorer, was receiving comments today from eminent scientists on the amazing photograph of a primitive type man he brought back recently from the Grand Atlas mountain region near the Sahara desert in Africa. The man, apparently an aboriginal being, is strikingly like both man and ape. He is such a type as might be conceived from descriptions of the Darwinian "missing link."

Treated as a man, the creature is astonishing, the scientists agree. He has the gorilla-like brow, curious ears, apelike posture, and simian mouth and nose. As an ape he is even more remarkable, since his skin is smooth rather than hairy and his feet and hands are those of a man, not an ape.

Atlas mountain region in northern Africa, at rim of Sahara desert, where apelike native was found by explorer.

Darwin's theory of evolution was introduced formally to the world in 1859, and the first great controversy over it arose in 1860, at the meeting of the British association at Oxford, and culminated in the celebrated duel between T. H. Huxley, the biologist, and Bishop Wilberforce of Oxford. Since that time evolution has ever been a source of bitter argument.

The long trial of John T. Scopes, Tennessee schoolmaster charged with teaching evolution, in 1925, was the latest notable outbreak of the controversy. Since 1859 the foes of the theory have used as their battle cry, "Find the missing link"; in other words, an ape that is in the process of emerging as a man. Homet's find in Africa is believed by many to be significant.

DEMAND ACTION ON MODERNIZING SEX CRIME LAWS

Group Headed by Woman Doctor Calls on Kerner.

The problem of obtaining legislation against sex criminals was considered yesterday by a group of Chicago leaders, headed by a woman doctor, who called on Attorney General Otto Kerner in his office here.

Mr. Kerner, seemingly taken by surprise, agreed that such legislation was necessary, but pointed out that the Illinois senate already has passed a resolution calling for a joint legislative committee to hold hearings on control of morons.

Introduced by Senator William J. Connors of Chicago, chairman of the sex legislative committee, the resolution will come before the house of representatives next week, and, Mr. Kerner predicted, will be approved.

Hearings to Be Held Here.

The public hearings will be held in Chicago, and Mr. Kerner suggested to his callers yesterday that they withhold further action until then.

Terming the moron "society's public enemy No. 1," Dr. Marjorie Nesbit, 30 North Michigan avenue, advocated a new set of punishments:

For rape—the death penalty; or, if the death penalty is not invoked, a prison sentence from which there can be no parole.

For seduction—life imprisonment.

Charles Weinfeld, newly elected president of the Chicago Council of Jewish Charities, recommended a special psychiatric examination of all prisoners in penal institutions.

Assails Trivial Sentences.

Dr. Thomas M. Leahy, 941 Lakeside place, deplored the practice of sending morons to the Bridewell for short terms. He said they should be safely imprisoned to protect society.

"I think it narrows down to two conclusions," spoke up Wilfred Reynolds, director of the Council of Social Agencies, "segregation or life in society under supervision."

TEACHERS GIVEN $4,000,000 IN BACK SALARY CHECKS

The 18,000 teachers and other employés of the board of education received 36,000 pay checks totaling $4,000,000 yesterday covering the last two weeks of January and the first two weeks of February. James B. McCahey, president of the board, said funds are on hand for the last half of February and all of March, and that 1937 tax warant sales will prevent any further lapse in pay days.

Money for yesterday's payday was provided by the sale of $10,000,000 of 1937 tax warants to six loop banks. The sale was affected after the state legislature approved a pegged levy which will insure an adequate income to cover 1937 expenses of the board of education. The teachers were late in getting checks while the pegging bill was pending in Springfield.

WHEN WE GO TOTALITARIAN.

When congress has the hybrid neutrality legislation well on its way, or out of the way, it will turn to the strange and dizzy scheme for industrial mobilization in time of war. Neutrality laws are to define America's relation to belligerent countries, and the industrial mobilization is a companion piece to declare what will happen in the United States if we go to war. It is intended to have it known in advance just about what will be done—and it will be plenty—to everybody if any Machiavellian profiteer or starry eyed chauvinist is slick enough to rush the American people into another test of arms.

One mobilization bill—there are a number of them—comes from the senate munitions committee, and another, known as the Connally bill, was approved last year by the senate finance committee. Support of the proposals spreads all over the country. Back in 1923 President Harding, having recommended such legislation in his annual message, paid the idea rhetorical tribute shortly before his death when he spoke for the drafting of all capital, all industry, all agriculture, all commerce, all talent, and all capacity and energy of every description. "When we do, there will be less of war."

President Coolidge in 1925 recommended to congress legislation giving broad authority for the mobilization of all the resources of the country, persons, and materials. The American Legion has persisted in recommending such law and pressing for its adoption. The war department approves the purposes. What is about to confront the country is not a shadow but a substance.

The underlying idea is that if legislation took the profit not only out of war but out of everything else and put every person in the United States, with the possible exception of organized labor, under the direct control of a federal taskmaster, the civilian population would be so afraid of official manhandling that war would be the last thing it would tolerate.

The supposition is that if designing or thoughtless men, chiefly designing men, did not make wars the people would not have to fight them. The proposals have so many elements of support that it would be unfair to blame anybody for the extraordinary headway the legislation is making. Nevertheless, it contains some of the most extraordinary and strangely thoughtless inventions that ever have threatened the economic and social structure of the United States.

We have heard a good deal of the totalitarian and authoritarian states, but none exists which has produced a subjugation of the individual so complete as is contemplated in the bills which, as laws, would take effect upon the discovery of a national emergency. It is proposed that there should not be an income in the country much in excess of $20,000, no matter how derived. A family income larger than $5,000 would pay 30 per cent on the excess up to $6,501. Then it would be 50 per cent. A family having an income above $8,000 would pay 70 per cent on the excess and so on. Apparently no account would be taken of obligations or commitments such as life insurance, debts, and mortgages. An income above $20,000 would pay 99 per cent tax.

The industrial position of the individual, organized labor excepted, would be that of a government servant. The managers of the industrial and productive facilities of the country would be drafted into the national service, big executives and little executives, any one who had direction of a large or small enterprise. Such persons would continue in their positions under military discipline and be subject to court martial. If they should be charged with unwillingness, malingering or inefficiency, they would then be tried, convicted, assigned to military service, and sent to the front.

All these enterprisers and managers would be working under the direction of special federal agents, presumably in part military, and presumably unacquainted or at least not particularly familiar with the business the individual civilian had been conducting. It may not be difficult to imagine that some differences of opinion in management would arise and the civilian soon find himself transferred to the front, leaving the agent or some one else as boss of the job whether he knew anything about it or not.

The government would have control of all resources, all utilities, all industries, and all trade. It would fix prices of products and commodities, steel, wheat, shingles, cotton, clothes, snuff, and mink coats. It would fix rents and ration commodities and products. You might get your butter card, tobacco card, coal card, and night off for the movies. The government would have the power to requisition anything, including real estate. It would limit or prohibit the purchase, sale, manufacture or use of any product. It would license all business. Compensation for any property taken would be fixed by the President and if the owner didn't like the price he would be paid part of it and be allowed to sue for the balance after the war, if then he wasn't told he couldn't.

These are a few of the provisions contained in one or several bills out of which it is fully expected a law will come. Even where there is opposition, it is conceded that something entirely strange to the previous expectations and experiences of the people will emerge from congress. The idea that war will be prevented by such legislation, coupled with the neutrality act, or that a great many rascals will be thoroughly punished here if there should be a war, prevails to lull the apprehensions of citizens who, if they found themselves under such regulations, would consider they had lost everything which made this their own land.

The people have not yet considered that the emergency making such law effective could be brought about by a government itself if it wanted to experiment with just such a complete dictatorship over virtually everybody in the United States. The congress which passed such a law could make it operative or the administration could bring about what might be called an emergency by action independent of congress.

The next war may be lost by industrialized generals at home and won by ingenious militarized civilians at the front. The peace probably will be lost by about everybody in the country.

NEW YORK COUNTS ITS NOSES.

Researchers at Columbia university have announced their discovery that sinus trouble sometimes results in meningitis, changes in the blood vessels, "and other serious conditions." Sinus trouble is suspected of dimming the eyes and occasionally, the researchers say, it does things to the bones and even to their marrow.

Thank you, Prof. Frank H. Pike, and thank you, too, Dr. David L. Poe of the Columbia university school of medicine; but, with all respect to your learning, sinus trouble needs no build-up. It is supreme in its field, like Dante's "Inferno" and Bing Crosby. No mere scientist, however inspired, can hope to achieve a just account of the subject. Indeed, no scientific observation of the disorders of the sinuses [and, we may add, the antrums] can equal in rhetorical power the observations of those who have been visited with these complaints.

It is unnecessary to ask the man who owns one. Without invitation he will tell you all about it. In the first ten minutes of the narration, before the subject has been fairly broached, he will make it abundantly clear that the sooner the meningitis takes hold the better he will be pleased. As for the marrow, it long ago turned to jelly and nothing more can happen to it.

We read of the findings of Drs. Pike and Poe in a New York paper. It said that sinus infections "afflict about 95 per cent of New York residents from time to time." This is sheer boastfulness. It invites the false inference that New York holds the leadership. Quality should be considered as well as quantity. They may have more of them in New York but ours are better, more enduring. We can thank our glorious climate for that. We can; but we won't.

CHRONIC LAWBREAKING.

During the course of a routine automobile drive along Chicago's north side outer drive three particularly flagrant violations of law and common sense perpetrated by different motorists were observed. The average driver will recognize the type—the one who zigzags at sixty miles an hour through a trafic stream that has an average pace of forty miles an hour, with a consequent chorus of screeching brakes to avoid bent fenders and wrecked bumpers. After each driver had passed on his erratic course it was noted that all three machines were carrying 1936 license plates.

Of course this may have been a coincidence, but it is altogether likely that there is a logical association of '36 plates and reckless driving. Both demonstrate a disrespect of the law which fundamentally is an expression of the rights of the other fellow. In the enforcement of a campaign against 1936 plates the police might possibly work a hardship on one or two automobile owners, but it is certain that the great majority of the recipients of tickets would consist of drivers who willfully disregard laws and are, therefore, a menace to the safety of the streets.

SHAWNEETOWN.

The citizens of old Shawneetown, which suffered along with most other Ohio river towns in the recent inundation, are talking about pulling up stakes and moving their historic settlement to higher ground.

Even for a community of that size the proposal has its difficulties. The city fathers, we imagine, will have a lot of headaches by the time they straighten out land titles and all the claims of priority of various merchants to the choicer corners of the new town.

They are to be complimented on their courage, however. Moving a town, where it is possible, will be far wiser and less expensive than futile attempts to protect it by levees against a river that sooner or later is bound to win.

Editorial of the Day

BRITAIN IS "SAVED."

[Des Moines Tribune.]

It seems a strange time of the year to talk about lost golf balls.

But the subject is so painful at any time, particularly during the golf season, that if lost golf balls are ever to be spoken of it ought to be during the winter.

That isn't the only reason for mentioning the horrid little pills which hide in the tall grass.

Sir John Simon, secretary for home affairs [and in spite of Scotch sentiment on the subject, "home affairs" includes Scotland], has given considerable thought to what is wrong with Britain.

And in one of his most lucid moments Sir John hit on the answer. The stout yeomen of merrie England have been losing too many golf balls. It has curdled their dispositions, detracted from their charm, and made things in general absolutely too upsetting.

Merely to think of the answer to England's problem was not enough. Lesser men might have stopped there, but Sir John is made of sterner stuff. He invented a golf ball which squeaks every 10 seconds.

The golfer merely presses a tiny button before driving, and that starts a tiny bombiike mechanism inside the ball. As soon as the ball comes to rest it begins to squeak, as we said, every 10 seconds.

Of course, this is just a rough approach. [Pardon our golfing terms. No pun intended.]

We'll bet that before Sir John Simon leaves his position he'll have solved the British crisis by teaching all lost golf balls to sing "God Save the King."

If not that, they will at least mutter something about Stanley Baldwin.

PRELUDE TO SPRING.

Tho' the snows of winter perish
Life's behind a hearse;
For the weather, barely fairish,
Stirs up loads of verse.

Time of sulphur and molasses,
Saccharin and bloom,
Lyrics on the birds and grasses—
Spring is on the boom.

If the crocus doesn't croak us
Then the blue bells will,
Or the lilac hocus-pocus
Surely make us ill.

Time is riding to the pansies;
Geese are on the wing.
Poets polish up their stanzies
And of Springtime sing!

SIR: We are surfeited with quotations from Washington and Lincoln, but how many can recall Paul Revere's terse, direct utterance at the end of his famous ride? At once brief and comprehensive, it was a model for all succeeding orators.

FROM THE PRINTS I glean a quote from the president of the D. A. R.: "Our work against communism and subversive propaganda in schools and colleges is to perpetuate America, not ancestry." To perpetuate America and not ancestry is one of the neatest tricks 20th century America is called on to perform. W. Dee.

MEDITATION IN EXILE.

IV.

And then, on summer nights, as the dusk thickens and becomes blue and palpable, Michigan avenue begins to hum the Side Street Blues. There is a creeping current of moist warm air from the garden behind this staid business block Across the River. Linger in it, let it barely stir your hair. The lamp posts, resplendent and phallic, march in double rows of glory as far as you can see. The night lies comfortably over these crowded roofs, along the lapping waves at Oak street, like a woman awake and smiling in the dark. The towers have lost their texture. They are simply constellations under the narrow sky. Delight is somewhere here in the streets, walking. She has turned that corner . . . paused in that shadow . . . knocked at that dimly lighted door.

But I had forgotten. Prohibition has been repealed since I left Chicago. Perhaps there are no more locked and dimly lighted doors. Prosperity has been creeping back to Michigan avenue since I left it. There has been surgery done, too, on that skyline which was stitched into my heart. There has been a thing called a Fair. Yes, some one was telling me.

Not till now; not till this exact moment when I sit here and write, had I realized that my Chicago is just as real as Murger's Paris now and just as far away. Allis McKay.

(The End.)

SIR: En route to the Gulf we stopped in a drug store at Conway, Ark., and asked for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. The reply was: "We don't have THE TRIBUNE, but can give you the Denver Post." Refer to your circulation department? E. S.
Conway is utterly unknown to us.

FOR MORAL SUPPORT.

I wish that Eve had left
That apple be,
Hanging red and ripe
Upon the tree.
For I would like to have
Upon a shelf,
Inside a jar, preserved,
That fruit myself.
Then, if you came to call,
I'd point and say:
"You see, forbidden fruits Exist today!"

GUIDE YOUR CHILD'S BEHAVIOR.

IF worthy examples are set by their elders few youngsters will go wrong. The desire to imitate is so strong that habits of good deportment will become fixed. Instinctive bad behavior is rare and whenever the youngster is termed obstinate, selfish, willful, or "impossible" we may look for the explanation to bad management in the home.

How many parents can place themselves in the position of the child? They are likely to forget their own childhood and in the dignity of parenthood demand a line of conduct of their progeny which they themselves could never have attained. Happiness among children is the rule. Even under distressing circumstances they will naturally look upon the bright side of things. But an enormous amount of injury is inflicted by domineering parents who are forever indulging in tiresome "dont's." Even tiny youngsters possess a keen sense of fairness and this may be appealed to as well as relied upon in explaining why this or that line of conduct is desirable. Is it fair to mother to track up the house with muddy boots when it means extra cleaning on her part?

There are seldom nervous children unless there are nervous parents. A pathetic picture is presented when a mother boasts about her little daughter who is so "high strung." The unfortunate part of it is that the child senses the mother's pride and attempts to act the part. Her appetite is finicky, sleep is fitful, and anemia is nearly always obvious.

Night terrors are often the result of dietary indiscretions followed by digestive disturbances. But food alone cannot account for all these symptoms, particularly if the child is allowed an exciting hour or two just before bedtime. If he wakens screaming with fright, great care should be taken in calming fears and soothing the youngster into restful sleep. Imagination is so active that but slight stimuli are required to convert some familiar object within the bedchamber into a frightful ogre. Sometimes the youngster will be discovered sitting up in bed with his eyes wide open, perspiring profusely. A simple expedient is to wipe the hands and face with a cloth wrung out of cold water.

Probably the most disturbing factor in the formative years of mentality, character, and disposition is constant discord between the parents. While fathers and mothers may delude themselves that they are keeping the child in ignorance of their own unhappiness the chances are that the youngster knows all about it. is forming his own opinions, and is grieving quietly. There comes a time when he must take sides, and the result—all too often—is a lack of confidence in or even hatred for one or the other. The result is mental confusion, fraught with disaster. Parental guidance is destroyed and the subjective unhappiness may continue for several years—possibly the most important of the child's life.

How vital is poise on the part of the parents? If either gives way routinely to fits of temper, if punishment is actuated by vindictiveness, the foundation is laid for difficulties of temperament that may last for life.

Tantrums may occur at any age, but they usually decrease markedly as the child grows older. About 25 per cent of all children will exhibit such "spells"—some, of course, less frequently than others. The case is reported of a year and a half old boy who indulged in 109 such outbursts in thirty days. The explanation, in many cases, is that the child demands attention and he senses quickly that the mother or father is worried. This means that he is the subject of a generous amount of coaxing and pleading. Here, as with stubbornness, the best plan is to leave the child alone—out of sight and out of sound—if possible. As soon as he realizes that he is not disturbing any one the fireworks will sputter and go out. The attack is like an alarm clock that runs down quickly.

If youngsters manifest untruthfulness or tendencies to cruelty there is a serious quirk somewhere that must be corrected. A skilled psychiatrist or a specialist in behavior difficulties can help.

BUNIONS.

R. C. writes: I have a bunion on each large joint. Two months ago a hard, crusty growth developed on each bunion. The skin over this growth broke. My druggist recommended a fungus salve which did no good. I have since used various ointments and lotions, but nothing helps. I find walking quite a task and would like to have your recommendations.

REPLY.

Infected bunions often cause considerable trouble. You may become greatly handicapped as far as walking is concerned. Have both the infection and the bunions attended to. Sometimes an operation is necessary. At any rate, you probably will need special shoes.

SHOULD BE CAREFUL.

Mrs. J. B. writes: My husband, aged 58, had his prostate removed a year ago. He has gained 60 pounds and now weighs 200. He had one kidney removed about 20 years ago. Is it a good sign for him to weigh so much? He looks bloated to me. Is it all right for him to drink liquor?

REPLY.

A gain of sixty pounds after such an operation sounds encouraging but it may be burdensome. The chances are that he is considerably overweight. With only one kidney to care for body wastes I would not advise liquor. Surely a reducing diet is in order. A bloated condition [dropsy] is one of the early signs of kidney weakness.

SUCKING FINGER.

A. C. writes: What causes a baby to suck its fingers? Does it indicate hunger?

REPLY.

Sucking is a reflex action [instinct] of the infant. All babies suck whatever they can get hold of. As a rule, it does not indicate hunger. Some authorities think that excessive sucking of thumb or fingers distorts the shape of the mouth.

CONSTIPATION.

C. E. writes: What causes constipation in an infant? He gets orange juice and prune juice.

REPLY.

Does he get enough? What about adding vegetable juices and mashed vegetables to his diet? You do not state the child's age or whether he is breast fed. Sometimes constipation in an infant is attributed to some lack in the mother's diet.

A HAZARDOUS LIFE

From the Tribune's Columns

20 Years Ago Today

FEBRUARY 27, 1917.

LONDON.—The Cunard liner Laconia, which left New York on Feb. 18 with 335 persons aboard, was torpedoed without warning and sunk off the Irish coast. Mrs. Mary E. Hoy and her daughter, Elizabeth, listed from Chicago and former residents there, were among the unknown number drowned. A total of twenty-seven Americans, twenty in the crew, were reported aboard the ship when it went down Sunday night, Feb. 25. A steamer took 267 survivors to Queenstown.

WASHINGTON. — Grave fears are entertained in Washington that the sinking of the Cunard liner Laconia might be the dread "overt act" which will plunge the United States and Germany into war. First reports indicate that the ship was unwarned and that American citizens, if not killed, were placed in jeopardy of their lives.

CHICAGO.—THE TRIBUNE early today received from its correspondent aboard the Laconia a message announcing that he survived the sinking of the vessel and that his story already is on the way to Chicago.

WASHINGTON.—President Wilson appeared before a joint session of congress and asked authority to supply American merchant ships with defensive arms and grant him sufficient credit to provide adequate means of protection where they are lacking. He thus put it squarely up to the legislators to decide how far he shall go in protecting Americans and American ships.

WASHINGTON.—Guns sufficient to arm any reasonable number of American merchant ships are now stored at navy yards, it was stated officially at the navy department. The department also has under contract the manufacture of many smaller weapons which could be hastened to completion.

WASHINGTON.—Aware of the embarrassment that revolutionary conditions in nearby Latin American republics might cause the United States in the event of hostilities with Germany, officials of the state department have surveyed carefully the situations in Cuba, Mexico, and Central America.

WAR SUMMARY. — Kut-el-Amara, the strategic military position on the Tigris river leading to Bagdad, in Mesopotamia, was recaptured by the British. German destroyers bombarded two British towns, killing a woman and a child, after battle in channel. British advance along Ancre river attained depth of two miles and extended along a front of about eleven miles. French active against Germans in Belgium. Both sides report revival of air activities.

2. What amount of exemption is allowed?
3. Who would appraise the value of this property?
4. Would this property have to be probated?
5. Would a Torrens deed be O. K. for subsequent sale?
6. What would you advise to save expenses on this type of property? L. E.

1. The half which passes by survivorship would be subject to inheritance tax, if that is what you mean to ask.
2. The exemption on a gift to a child is $20,000 worth.
3. State appraisers would be appointed in the course of the inheritance tax proceedings.

A CRITICAL PERIOD.

Fargo, N. D., Feb. 24.—As an individual citizen whose ancestors on both sides of the family have lived in this country nearly 300 years—since early colonial times—and who is unwilling to see the balanced democracy under which we live [and which with any possible shortcomings still affords the greatest measure of personal liberty and broadest opportunities possible in any country in the world today] changed into either a managed economy or a dictatorship, I am writing you to register publicly my personal protest at the attempt of the President to prostitute and pack the Supreme court.

No thinking man can avoid the conclusion that we are now passing through a period more critical than that preceding the civil war. More critical because hundreds of thousands of people who might be presumed to realize what is really going on do not realize it. At that time they did.

Not for many years have I taken an active part in politics, nor have I any desire to do so now for either profit or office. But in this fight I will be more than willing to do everything in my power, as I feel every man who cares anything for his heritage should, to see that the Supreme court of the United States of America is not reduced to the pitiful and shameful degree of abdication and prostitution that the congress has sunk to.

The hollowness and insincerity of the President in his arguments to congressmen, senators, and the public in seeking to railroad through this fundamental change in our balanced government setup has been too thoroughly exposed by many able writers and analyzed too clearly to make it necessary to cover this point again.

My purpose in writing this letter is to urge every man, woman, and child in this country to stop, look and listen before permitting the work of 150 years to be wrecked by unnecessary and uncalled for "hurry up" methods when the constitution itself provides an orderly, legal and speedy enough method for its amendment in any particular in ways which essentially give the people themselves, and not a dictator, the right to reflect and then decide.

The constitution of the United States can be amended, if the people so wish it, in less than one year. Is it necessary to have it amended by the President alone in less than thirty days? The Democratic platform of 1936 specifically called for this direct, honest, and straightforward method. It did not call for ruination through poison administered with the threat of withholding patronage.

A nation-wide protest from all men and women who are opposed to this brazen attempt to pack and prostitute the Supreme court by indirect means expressed by wire and mail to their congressmen is in order right now. W. H. HORTON.

A TALE OF TWO APARTMENTS.

Chicago, Feb. 24.—If, in the computation of real estate taxes, consideration could be given not only to reproduction cost, less depreciation, as at present, but also to rental income and market value, levies would be more just, collections easier, and real estate less of a burden.

The following occurrence, while not necessarily typical, is nevertheless illustrative: A friend of mine has two apartment buildings just a few blocks apart. Each has the same ground area, market value and rental income. Yet, because one is of superior construction, with a higher reproduction cost, its taxes are twice that of the other. No consideration has been given its market value, which is but 50 per cent of reproduction cost, nor its rental income, which is but 50 per cent of what it was in 1929. As a result its taxes are now equal to those of 1929, and from present indications 1936 will be still higher because of an increase in tax rate.

In order for a property owner to pay taxes he must have money. In order to have money he must have an income. Why, therefore, should not property taxes contemplate property income along with market value instead of only reproduction cost less depreciation?

ROY S. WEST.

MAY WE SERIOUSLY CONSIDER—

Independence, Ia., Feb. 23.—An old book of religious devotions says: "May we seriously consider what are we doing and whither are we going," and "Let us think on the beginning and mark the end of every action."

In the recent automobile strike Mr. Lewis brazenly says that he expected to get from the President what he paid for, and if he did not get all he expected out of the strike it was no fault of the nation's executive and the executive authority of Michigan.

Now, according to a recent statement in your news columns, no doubt based on reliable information, the governor of Kentucky, seeking aid for his stricken people, is told that the President's plans for the courts need the support of Kentucky.

Things have come to a pretty pass when the authority that issues a fervent appeal for private contributions through the Red Cross makes the granting of government relief funds [raised by taxes on the same contributors] conditional on his legislative demands being met. What an outcry if a "royalist" President had done such a thing. GEORGE H. JONES.

REFUSES JERSEY EFFORT TO QUIZ SUBWAY BUILDER

Murder Quiz Balked by Court Decision.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 26.—[Special.]—The conduct of Gov. Harold G. Hoffman of New Jersey in the Wendel sequel to the Lindbergh kidnaping case was advanced today as reason for refusing to surrender Samuel Rosoff, millionaire subway builder, to Jersey authorities for questioning in the murder of Norman Redwood, head of a tunnel workers' [sand hogs] union.

The governor's refusal to permit the removal of Ellis H. Parker Sr., Jersey sleuth, and his son, Ellis Jr., to trial in Brooklyn on a kidnaping charge was alluded to by Justice Aaron Levy in the New York Supreme court when he sustained a writ of habeas corpus on behalf of Rosoff.

Rosoff had been fighting the trip to Jersey on the grounds that he would be thrown into jail and "sweated." He had had trouble with the slain "sand hog" leader.

Hoffman Protects Parkers.

The Parkers were charged with having abducted Paul H. Wendel, a disbarred attorney, and forcing a fake confession from him on the eve of the execution of Bruno Richard Hauptmann for kidnaping and slaying the Lindbergh baby. Hoffman, who postponed the execution three days, consistently has fought efforts of Brooklyn prosecutors to obtain the Parkers.

One attempt to invoke a reciprocal law between New York and New Jersey for the exchange of witnesses by court order resulted in a sudden decision by Jersey courts that the statute was unconstitutional.

"There was only one statute upon which this man [pointing to Rosoff] could have been taken to New Jersey," said Justice Levy, "and that is the reciprocal law. But the New Jersey Circuit courts conveniently found the statute unconstitutional."

Another Witness Beaten.

The justice reached over the bench and pointed to Rosoff.

"This man had every sound and proper justification in not permitting himself to be dragged to New Jersey," asserted the justice. "I understand another witness went over there voluntarily and encountered a very sad experience."

This was a reference to Max Friedman, Rosoff's trucking supervisor, who went to Hackensack, seat of Bergen county, New Jersey, and was immediately placed in a cell and "beaten," according to his story.

Preceding the remarks from the bench, Sydney Sher, assistant Bergen county prosecutor, announced that it had been decided to withdraw the warant ordering Rosoff's arrest last Saturday which led to the habeas corpus action. Justice Levy sustained the habeas corpus writ "on its merits."

VANDENBUSH IS INDICTED WITH PALS IN CRIME

New York, Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Westchester justice moved fast today against Merle Vandenbush and the two companions captured with him yesterday after they had robbed the Northern Westchester bank of Katonah of $17,626.

The grand jury, called together at White Plains in 15 minutes, returned first degree robbery indictments against the three desperadoes.

The federal government wants to try Vandenbush for the kidnaping of New Jersey State Trooper William A. Turnbull last November, a crime for which Harry Brunette is serving a life term at Trenton.

The prisoner also is under indictment in Somerset county, New Jersey, in connection with the Turnbull abduction as well as for robbery. He is also wanted in Wisconsin for three bank robberies.

Loot Cafe Owner's Home of $1,500 Rugs, Clothing

Burglars forced open the front door of the home of William Tirch, 1855 South Komensky avenue, last night and carried away clothing, coats, and rugs valued at $1,500. Tirch, owner of a restaurant, and his wife, Mrs. Mollie Tirch, learned of their loss early today when they returned home from the restaurant.

Ex-Bank Clerk Shoots Self to Death in Home

Leon H. Durfee, 53 years old, a former bank clerk, killed himself with a revolver last night in the bathroom of his home at 9556 Prospect avenue. His wife and their daughter, Carol, 19 years old, were downstairs when they heard the shot. Gresham police were told Durfee was unemployed.

ON 2D THOUGHT, LITTLE CARUSO ISN'T A KIDNAPER

Repudiates Confession in O'Brien Wedding.

While a police squad searched for Miss Marguerite Eustice, who calls herself Mrs. Quin O'Brien, the O'Brien melodrama rolled on yesterday with one of the three confessed kidnapers repudiating his confession.

Dr. William M. Eustice.

The prisoners were questioned for five hours last night by First Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert F. Crowley in his west side office, who returned them to the Hudson avenue police station without comment. This morning Mr. Crowley will question the "bride's" father, Dr. William M. Eustice, a dentist of Elizabeth, Ill., and George Casper, alleged to have been one of O'Brien's guards. Both were arrested at Galena, Ill., and brought to Chicago last night.

Seeks Freedom on Writ.

The kidnap suspect who declared he had been misquoted is Frank ["Little Caruso"] Penicara, 35 years old. His repudiation came after he appeared before Chief Justice Michael L. McKinley in Criminal court on a writ of habeas corpus.

Penicara and two other men, James Norman, 33 years old, and Joseph Abbatocola, 42 years old, were taken into custody Thursday by Hudson avenue police on kidnap warants. All, according to police and Attorney Robert Cantwell Jr., counsel for O'Brien, admitted abducting the gray haired assistant corporation counsel last Feb. 3 and forcing him to marry Miss Eustice.

In fact, Attorney Cantwell said yesterday, one of the men confessed that he posed as a justice of the peace and performed the alleged marriage ceremony. This, however, was denied by Penicara through his attorney, Ellodor Libonati.

Penicara's New Story.

Penicara, according to Libonati, admitted driving the marriage party but denied that O'Brien was forced to go along. He declared that O'Brien had entered the car in jovial spirits and had joked about the forthcoming marriage.

"He knew he was going to get married," Attorney Libonati quoted Penicara, "and I even congratulated him. He was never tied up."

At the request of O'Brien and his counsel, Chief Justice McKinley continued the habeas corpus hearing until Monday and set Penicara's bond at $50,000.

"This is a serious charge of kidnaping," the court said.

REV. O'SULLIVAN, 79, ST. BRIDGET'S PASTOR, IS DEAD

Parish Leader Since Turn of Century.

The Rev. Michael O'Sullivan, pastor of St. Bridget's Catholic church since the turn of the century, died yesterday noon in the church rectory at 2928 Archer avenue. He was 79 years old.

Father O'Sullivan played an important part in the development of his parish, though it had been established forty-three years when he came to it in 1900. The fiftieth anniversary of his ordination was celebrated last summer, his parishioners presenting him with a trip to his birthplace in County Kerry, Ireland, in appreciation of his work.

Appointed Rector of Church.

Father O'Sullivan came to Chicago in 1886, after his ordination that year in Ireland. His first appointment was as curate to the late Msgr. P. J. McDonald at St. Philip's church, now St. Mel's. Later he served as curate at St. Pius and Nativity churches. His first pastorate was at St. Patrick's church, Lemont, in 1894. Six years later he was appointed permanent rector of St. Bridget's church. The parish had been founded in 1857 by a colony of Irish exiles who had settled in the community, then the township of Bridgeport, in 1840.

The late Finley Dunne's characters in his "Mr. Dooley" stories were drawn from members of Father O'Sullivan's parish.

Soon after his appointment to St. Bridget's, Father O'Sullivan built a school, which at one time had an enrollment of 1,200 pupils. The enrollment now numbers approximately 500.

Funeral to Be Held Tuesday.

After the school was completed the new church was begun, and services were held in the school during construction of the second building.

While at St. Pius' Father O'Sullivan was active with Judge Timothy J. Hurley and Harvey B. Hurd in organizing the Visitation and Aid society, an institution that was father to the present Cook County Juvenile court.

The priest's body will lie in state in St. Bridget's church today, tomorrow, and Monday. Solemn requiem mass will be sung at 10 a. m. Tuesday, and interment will be in Mount Olivet cemetery. A sister, Mrs. Edward McQuaid of 2971 Bonfield street, survives.

ARTHUR STRAUS, RETIRED BANKER, DIES IN FLORIDA

Arthur W. Straus, retired Chicago and New York investment banker, died yesterday morning in his winter home at Miami Beach, Fla., of a heart attack. He was 57 years old.

Arthur W. Straus.

Prior to his retirement in March, 1929, Mr. Straus had been active in the investment banking business, first as a member of the S. W. Straus & Co., which was founded by his father, Frederick W. Straus, and then as president of the A. W. S. corporation, 310 South Michigan avenue.

Mr. Straus was born in Ligonier, Ind., and was educated in the Chicago public schools. He was a member of the Chicago Sinai congregation, the Standard, Ravisloe, Beach View, and Santa Monica [Cal.] clubs. Since his retirement Mr. Straus had lived at the Lake Shore Drive hotel in Chicago in the summer and in Miami Beach in the winter.

Mr. Straus is survived by his widow, Hortense Langley Straus, and two children, Mrs. Marjorie Cummings and Ann Straus.

Funeral services will be held in Chicago Monday at 2 p. m. in Rosehill chapel. Burial will be in Rosehill cemetery.

ROBERT B. FRANKLIN, who gained nationwide prominence early this century when he took the lead in prosecutions following the assassination of Gov. William Goebel, died yesterday at his home in Frankfort, Ky. He had been ill for several years. He was 78 years old. He prosecuted Caleb Powers, James Howard, and others who were accused following the slaying of Goebel.

Navy Officer Kills Himself on Ship Off San Diego, Cal.

San Diego, Cal., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Lieutenant Commander P. W. F. Huschke, 42 years old, killed himself in his quarters aboard the U. S. S. Holland, here today. He was executive officer of the Holland, having been transferred from command of the U. S. S. Waters two weeks ago. His widow said he left a letter to her, the contents of which she refused to divulge.

GONORRHEA AND SYPHILIS HELD WORST ENEMIES

New Orleans, La., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—"If people would quit talking so much about war between nations and make a courageous fight in the open against the two great public enemies, syphilis and gonorrhea, our American boys would have a better chance to become great citizens and make a great country," said Maj. Gen. George Van Horn Moseley, United States army, commanding the Fourth area, at the opening session of the regional CCC congress here today.

"Stop whispering about venereal diseases and stop being so nasty nice by calling them communicable diseases and social diseases. Call them by their right and common names," the general continued.

"There are 12 million cases of syphilis in the United States today, and 520,000 youths are joining the ranks of the infected each year. In my home city of Atlanta today there are over 40,000 cases of syphilis.

"I am tired of seeing newspapers suppressing the menace of syphilis, gonorrhea, and other social diseases. If America is threatened by war our publicists rally to the aid of the country. Syphilis is worse than war and the people should demand the same publicity and the same call to service in its suppression as we do when a foreign foe threatens our country."

DR. F. W. SMITHIES LEAVES FAMILY BULK OF ESTATE

The will of Dr. Frank W. Smithies, physician and surgeon, was filed for probate yesterday. It apportions a $5,000 estate, 10 per cent to his secretary, Miss Lillian Huster, and the rest to the widow, Mrs. Mary L. Smithies, 44 East Banks street, and three children. It divides his library among relatives, associates, the University of Michigan, and Augustana hospital. Dr. Smithies died Feb. 9 at the age of 56.

The estate of Simon Levy of the Chicago Specialty Box company was inventoried yesterday at $150,000, to be divided among the widow, Mrs. Bella Levy, 5242 Hyde Park boulevard, two sons, and a grandson. Mr. Levy died Oct. 7 at the age of 79.

The will of Mrs. Georgena Essroger, filed yesterday, gives a life interest in a $100,000 estate to her husband, Charles V. Essroger, a vice president of the First National Bank & Trust company. She died Jan. 26, aged 50.

Three sons and three daughters receive the $75,000 estate of Mrs. Dora Oberheide, widow of Christian Oberheide, coal merchant, according to her will, filed yesterday. She died at the age of 85 years on Jan. 5.

Use Dynamite

The disappearance of Edward Smith Jr., 8 years old, who vanished Tuesday from his home at 3141 Warren boulevard, remained a mystery yesterday. Police dynamited the ice on the parallel lagoons in Garfield park, then dragged the water without finding the body. Discovery of the boy's roller skates on a bridge over the lagoons led searchers to fear he may have been drowned. However, Warren avenue police hunted a tall thin man seen talking with the boy Monday.

OWNED THEATER WHERE 98 DIED; KILLS HIMSELF

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Harry M. Crandall, once a wealthy theater operator here, died today in a gas filled one room apartment. A note, addressed "to the newspaper boys," said he was ending his life because he was despondent over the loss of his business.

Crandall had built and operated the Knickerbocker theater where 98 persons were killed in 1922 when the roof collapsed under the weight of snow. Architect Reginald Geare, designer of the theater was listed as a suicide.

Mrs. Elizabeth Doyle, Early Resident, Dies

Mrs. Elizabeth Doyle, 82 years old, an early resident of Chicago, died yesterday at her home, 8136 South May street, after a short illness. Mrs. Doyle lived on the south side for sixty-two years, coming from Ireland as a bride. She was the daughter of James A. Doolittle, a lake boat captain. Surviving are four children, Mrs. Charles H. Kent, Mrs. Bert C. Dillon, Mary L., and George F., two grandchildren and one great-grandchild. Funeral services will be held at 9:30 a. m. D. S. WALKER, 48, FAMED AS ARTIST AND AUTHOR, DIES

Richmond, Va., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Douglas Stewart Walker, 48 years old, internationally famous artist, lecturer, and author, died here today. A son of Maj. and Mrs. David Norvell Walker, he was born here.

The artist's first exhibition was in 1914 in Buffalo, N. Y., and from then on his fame spread. His "White Peacock," which he considered his masterpiece, was exhibited by the British museum and gained for him international acclaim. The museum purchased several of Mr. Walker's drawings for its permanent collection.

In collaboration with Helen McKay, Mr. Walker wrote "Stories for Pictures" in 1912, and in 1924 had published "Dust of Seven Days." He also wrote "Dream Boats," which he illustrated.

300 Flee Nurses' Home Fire at Florida State Hospital

Chattahoochee, Fla., Feb. 27 [Saturday].—(AP)—Three hundred employés of the state hospital here were driven out of the nurses' home when a spectacular fire swept the building early today. The two story building apparently would be destroyed. All nurses and other employés escaped uninjured. The modern general hospital building and other structures where more than 4,000 patients are housed were not endangered.

Sheer Delight in This Satire by Marquand

"The Late George Apley" Given Warm Praise.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

BOSTON—described by Mark Twain [and a couple of other wise crackers, including Ralph Waldo Emerson] as a state of mind—is the subject of one of the year's most fascinating books and one of the year's most authentic historical romances.

Story of a Bostonian with All the Stuffing.

"The Late George Apley." by John P. Marquand. [Little-Brown, $2.50.]

It's delightful, it's delicious, it's delovely—John Marquand's satire on the Boston of the latter nineteenth and the early twentieth centuries. Written in the form of a memoir of John Apley [born 1866, died 1933], it is a priceless satire not only on a typical Bostonian but also on a whole school of writing, the laudatory memorial biography prepared by a trusted literary friend of the family. On both counts "The Late George Apley" is sheer delight.

John P. Marquand.

The biographer's satire is wholly unintentional. To him George Apley and his stern and rockbound father before him were golden spokes in the hub of the universe.

John Marquand's satire of the biographer, and thus of his hero, is superb. All the stuffing from the stuffed shirts is offered the reader. But there is also, on the part of the author, an almost tender understanding of how the shirts got stuffed and of what estimable and fine wearing all wool the stuffing is made.

There is rumor that the graves in Boston's Mount Auburn cemetery are all showing cracks in their impeccable sod from the turnings over that have been done in them. Only those who know Boston well can get the full, rich, nutty flavor of Mr. Marquand's brew, but the rest of us can get almost as happy a jag over it. "The Late George Apley" is my entry for the year's satire sweepstakes.

Two Hundred Years Before George Apley.

"Paradise," by Esther Forbes. [Harcourt-Prace, $2.50.] Published Thursday.

Two hundred years before George Apley's dilettantism and only a few years after Boston was "laid out by the cows," a group of Bostonians trekked twenty miles inland and formed the town of Canaan, according to Esther Forbes, who has written in "Paradise" one of those full-bodied, exciting, temper and temperament filled tales of the past.

Ruled for years by the iron hand of Jude Parre, the town came into being and gave background for the tragedy and romance of his two sons and two daughters and for the chronicling of the hard daily life of settlers in the wilderness. A beautiful but false and lying woman whom he met by accident on a ship in Boston harbor took the elder son for a husband and the younger for a lover. For the sin of adultery both she and her lover were branded on their foreheads and went thus their lives long.

Except for that melodramatic incident and the battle with the Indians there is a calmer drama in the pages of "Paradise," a rich and minutely detailed reconstructing of daily life in the wilderness colony in 550 odd pages which have the capacity to seem half that long.

Book Views in Brief

Poet Pushkin's Life Admirably Related.

"Pushkin," by Ernest J. Simmons. [Harvard, $4.]

One hundred years ago this month Alexander Pushkin, Russia's greatest poet, was killed in a duel by an army officer whose attentions his wife had encouraged. The centenary of Pushkin's death has been made the occasion for world recognition of a genius neglected outside Russia because his poetry, like Heine's, fades and retains only a faint perfume in translation.

But the plot of Pushkin's greatest tragedy, his own career, loses nothing in Prof. Simmons' biography. The poet, born a nobleman, found no place within the conventions of his class. Perhaps the hot Abyssinian blood inherited from his great-grandfather, which gave him thick lips and a swarthy face, also made him a poet and rebel. The reckless, licentious youth was sent into exile to become respectable, and the rest of his 37 years were harassed by the secret police because he sang hymns to freedom and revolutionaries were his friends.

But these vexations could not check the inspired lyrics that flowed from his pen, or the historical epics and folk tales that gave Russia a literature. Jealousy bred of a beautiful wife's flaunting of his pride and love, mounted into madness and then death on the field of honor.

Prof. Simmons writes with the infinite care of a scholar. The book is Harvard university's contribution to the centenary celebration.

Weaves Ingenious Mystery Into Novel.

"Busman's Honeymoon," by Dorothy L. Sayers. [Harcourt-Brace, $2.50.]

Any one familiar with the work of Dorothy L. Sayers knows that she has no rival in the art of detective fiction. In "Busman's Honeymoon" she again weaves an ingenious mystery through the plot of a truly fine novel.

Although fascinating in itself, this time the actual mystery is secondary in interest to the main theme—that of the honeymoon and domestic adjustments of her ingratiating Lord Peter Death Bredon Wimsey and his lovely Harriet Vane.

Their wedding night is spent in an old, rambling farmhouse, the bridegroom's gift, which harbors a grisly discovery come dawning. It is a rude awakening for Lord Peter and his lady, but the troubles in their entanglement with the brutal murder of their landlord serve to temper the steel of their affection. J. H. T.

Well Told Sea Novel with Conrad Flavor.

"Salvage," by Roger Vercel. [Harpers, $2.50.]

Comparison to Conrad seems more than a loosely bestowed eulogism in telling of this fine novel of a French seaman. Certainly "Salvage" contains descriptive passages reminiscent of "Typhoon," and there is a likeness—particularly in professional temperament—between Capt. Renaud of the rescue tug and Capt. MacWhirr of the Nan Shan. Moreover, the Atlantic off the harsh coast of Brittany is shown as every bit as fiers in a gale as Capt. MacWhirr found the China sea.

"Salvage" was written by a professor of literature in the College of Dinan in Brittany, who gave himself the Conradian problem of presenting an intensely introspective character study within the movement of a first rate action story and solved it admirably.

Either when he is leaning over his bridge rail engaged in moody ruminations on his ailing wife, or coddling, by wireless, the panicky crew of a disabled Greek freighter to whom he is speeding, Capt. André Renaud, master of the tug Cyclone, is a very real person. The technicalities of marine salvage are an important part of the story, but are given in simple, untechnical language. P. W.

Vivid Adventures of Planter in Sumatra.

"Tropic Fever: The Adventures of a Planter in Sumatra," by Ladislao Szekely. [Harpers, $3.]

Twenty-four years ago Ladislao Szekely, then a Hungarian youth of 20, heard tales of fabulous wealth on the rubber plantations of Sumatra. He won both money and position after two decades of grueling work in the Dutch far east colony, and tells of it vividly and fluently in 'Tropic Fever: The Adventures of a Planter in Sumatra."

This somber but dramatic recital of a life of desperate loneliness, bestial brutality and almost unbearable heat, is a poignant picture of youth's ever optimistic search for success.

His last chapter, telling of the days when his goal had been attained at the expense of a lost home and family in Hungary, is a moving one. The author, after achieving success, married Madelon Lulofs, the Dutch novelist. He returned to Hungary in 1930. A. C.

Two Pieces of Fiction Worthy of Recognition

One by H. G. Wells; Other from an American.

TWO short books of fiction are the joint choice of the Book of the Month club for March, one from England's most widely known writer and the other from one of America's lesser known.

A Mystery Fable by Noted British Author.

"The Croquet Player," by H. G. Wells. [Viking, $1.25.] Published Tuesday.

"The Croquet Player" is a mystery fable. It gets its name from the man who relates the story, which has been told to him by two strange individuals whom he has met at a seaside resort.

H. G. Wells.

The croquet player is a fiddler and a waster and the last type of person who might be expected to worry about the state of the world. But he is himself finally "infected" as are the two doctors whom he meets. The "disease" is a madness which seizes mankind, an "endemic panic . . . a sickness in the very grounds of our lives," discovered by one of the strange individuals, who is treated by the other strange individual.

The first half of the book tells the story of a man who finds a whole countryside trembling with fear, and who hints that a savage hatred has been loosed on the earth.

The croquet player pretty well states this reader's reaction when he says: "What is the good of putting the horror of Cainsmarsh upon a man and not telling him exactly what to do about it?" I prefer Mr. Wells when he's telling us what to do, as he does so consistently and so firmly in most of his later work.

A Tender, Touching Tale Admirably Told.

"Of Mice and Men," by John Steinbeck. [Covici-Friede, $2.] Published yesterday.

The author of "Tortilla Flat" has written "Of Mice and Men" so simply, so movingly, so factually that only when its last page is finished does the reader realize what a remarkable literary feat John Steinbeck has performed.

John Steinbeck.

The book tells the story of Lonnie, huge moron who has a passion to touch anything soft and goes into a panic if it is taken from him, and of George, who watches over Lonnie with touching care. George, a little man with a quick mind, is the only person in the world [since Lonnie's Aunt Clara's death] who can do anything with the giant moron. He can do everything with him, and does everything for him, including thinking.

When the book opens Lonnie and George are about to start on a new job, after having had to flee for their lives from their last one. All they ask of life is to lay aside a little money and buy a farm and "live on the fatta the lan'" where they can raise rabbits. They think they can. But the reader knows they can't . . . knows that fate is piling up something for them as one after another sinister shadow is cast.

Brutality and tenderness mingle in these strangely moving pages. Language that gentle ears would never hear seems as inevitable as Lonnie's clumsy devotion to the puppy which he kills with his petting.

The reader is fascinated by a certainty of approaching doom. It comes swiftly, inevitably, and the final moments of George's service to Lonnie are high tragedy. One false word, and "Of Mice and Men" would have been melodrama, and bad melodrama at that. But the author never, after the first few pages, writes that one false word. F. B.

Men coming to China fell in love with Susannah at sight. Her story is one of the finest romances ever written by the author of THE AMERICAN FLAGGS. It moves from Shanghai to New York, and then to a tiny New England village. It takes Susannah through the heartbreak of her first love affair, the Cinderella-like blooming of her marriage, her fight for integrity and happiness. $2.00. Doubleday, Doran

Name Recipients of National Book Awards for 1936

Christopher Morley announced the winners of the national book awards for 1936 made by the booksellers of America at a luncheon of the American Booksellers' association at the Hotel Astor in New York City this week.

"An American Doctor's Odyssey," by Dr. Victor Heiser, was chosen as the most distinguished biography; "The Flowering of New England," by Van Wyck Brooks, was named the most distinguished general nonfiction; Margaret Mitchell's "Gone with the Wind" received the most distinguished novel award; "The Country Kitchen," by Della T. Lutes, was selected as the most original book, and the award for "the forgotten book" went to Norah Lofts for her "I Met a Gypsy."

Each of the authors received as a prize only an engraved bronze paperweight, in the shape of an open book, but the award is coveted above many financially dazzling ones.

Each year the booksellers of the country select the most distinguished books of the previous year.

Meetings and Lectures

The Wednesday literary series of lectures sponsored by the New England church was inaugurated this week by a lecture on contemporary poetry by Jessica Nelson North, with readings from choice contemporary verse by Marion Strobel Mitchell. Next Wednesday Robert Maynard Hutchins will be the speaker, on March 10 Lin Yu Tang, author of "My Country and My People," and on March 24 Carl Sandburg. The lectures are held at the Fortnightly, 120 East Bellevue place.

Mr. and Mrs. Holling C. Holling, author and illustrator of "Book of Indians," will give a talk on "Indians of Old Chicago," illustrated with chalk drawings, at 11 o'clock this morning at the Chicago public library exhibit at Mandel Brothers.

Prof. Robert Morss Lovett will discuss before the Book Review Forum in the Auditorium building Friday at 8:30 p. m. two recent biographies.

Dr. Homero Seris, until recently chief of the section of Bibliography of the Center of Historical Studies, Madrid, will speak on "Experiences of Wartime Spain" at the Oriental institute, 1155 East 58th street, Friday at 8:15 p. m.

Problem Child Often Is Less Favored One

He Shows His Resentment by Being Naughty.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Are you expecting a second baby?

And is your first still pretty much of a baby himself?

Oh, he can walk and talk a little, or more than a litle, but he gets a lot of physical care and a lot of watching and cuddling.

If you have, and there is a new baby coming along, watch your step. There are two mistakes that mothers make after the newcomer has arrived, and I hear a great deal about the consequences.

One mistake is that the new baby takes so much of the mother's time and strength and attention, she slips up on her usual vigilance in connection with her first born's habits. She doesn't realize this at all, however, and feels annoyed when "accidents" happen and she has to wash and change her small son or daughter. As a result she is apt to scold or punish the young offender, and his resentment of the turn things have taken causes him to be jealous of the new baby.

The other mistake which may cause him to forget habit training is that the new baby attracts so much love and attention, in fact, uses up so much of everything that the first child was used to having all to himself that the latter craves it intensely [and unconsciously, often]. He discovers, quite by accident at first, that wetting his panties brings mother flying to him. A second occurence has the same effect. "Good!" says his subconscious, hungry, little self. "Unpleasant attention is better than none. I guess I'll try this often." No, it isn't far-fetched. It happens again and again, but it can be cured easily—simply by doing things to make the first child know that he is secure in his home life and in the love of his parents.

So, watch out for this when the second baby comes along.

A fully written leaflet on "Directions for Establishing Good Eliminative Habits will be sent on receipt of a large, 3-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

Mrs. Bevans' column also appears in the Sunday Tribune.

Culbertson's "Gold Book of Bidding and Play"

CHOICE OF SUITS IN RESPONDING.

[Copyright: 1937: By Ely Culbertson.]

The responder, when he holds two or more biddable suits, almost invariably should follow the general rules covering the choice of suits.

These rules should be modified in the following cases:

When a four card suit can be shown by a one-over-one response, while a five card suit in the same hand would require a response of two, the one-over-one response should be preferred with hands containing two honor tricks or less, but the suits should be bid in normal order when holding more than two honor tricks.

For example, partner, having bid one heart, bid one spade with ♠A Q 6 5 ♥7 2 ♦K 8 5 4 3 ♣9 6; but bid two clubs when holding ♠A J 6 5 ♥8 5 ♦7 3 ♣A Q 6 5 4.

When making a one-round-forcing response in a lower ranking four card suit the stronger of two biddable four card suits usually should be chosen regardless of length, since it is unlikely that both suits will be shown.

For example, partner, having bid one spade, bid two clubs rather than two diamonds with ♠9 6 5 ♥Q 3 ♦Q J 8 5 ♣A K 7 4.

TODAY'S HAND.

The hand shown below, played in a recent pair tournament, brought a top on the board to the team that defeated two spades.

North, dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

NORTH
♥A K 10 9 2
♦K Q 8
♣10 7 6

WEST
♦A J 7 6 3
♣Q 5 2

EAST
♥Q J 8 4 3

SOUTH
♠Q 10 9 8 5 3
♦10 9 4
♣K J 9

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	Pass	1 spade	Double
2 hearts	Double	2 spades	Double
Pass	Pass	Pass

North should not have bid two hearts over the take-out double. He should have been delighted to pass, since his hand was a near-minimum.

West opened his low club and East won with the ace. Now, instead of returning the opening lead blindly, East maneuvered for a diamond ruff. He saw that there was an excellent chance that West, his partner, held both the diamond ace and the spade ace. Therefore, on the lead of a diamond, West would win and return the suit; then West could jump on the first trump lead and return a third diamond for East to ruff.

That is exactly how the play went, and in no other way could the contract have been defeated. Declarer saw what was coming, but could not protect himself. It is true that he could have discarded his own third diamond on a heart in dummy, but this would not have saved him, since West still would have led a third round of diamonds for East to ruff and declarer to overruff. This would have saved West's queen of clubs for him. Had East returned a club, declarer would have put up the king and discarded his losing club on dummy's heart, then would have led trumps. It then would be impossible for West to give East a diamond ruff and the defenders would have been held to three spade tricks, the ace of clubs, and the ace of diamonds.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: What is the proper response to an opening one heart bid with the following:
♠Q 10 7 4 ♥9 7 ♦K 8 6 5 ♣J 9 6?

Answer: The proper response is one spade.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

It's only fourteen years since the Chicago and Illinois Hairdressers' association sponsored the first beauty trade show in Chicago, but what a lot of water has flowed under the bridge since then! The 1937 edition opens here on Monday.

Back in 1924 the hairdressers were up in arms against the bob. Those poor prophets who predicted that bobbed hair was a phoney fashion that wouldn't last another year were just exactly as wrong as the pessimists who predicted that universal acceptance of the bob would ruin the hairdressing business.

In a final desperate effort to stem the tide of popularity for the "shingle" the distracted hairdressers were advocating the use of extra hairpieces. "No well dressed woman," they said, "would appear at evening functions without hairpieces that would cover up her short hair."

How wrong they were! The kindest thing women ever did to the hairdressing profession was to cling to the bob. It was this feminine whim that revolutionized the beauty industry. Wouldn't you like to have a penny for every million made in the beauty profession in the last fourteen years?

The bob brought the finger wave; it was responsible for the development of the permanent to its present state of near perfection. In 1924 hairdressers were instructed to place a rubber mat under the chair in which the customer was seated when she had her permanent as a safeguard from the electric current used in waving. Cost, $75. Time, all day. Dryers at that time were considered something pretty fancy; they were gas heated, and it was absolutely nothing for them to dry the hair in a little less than three hours!

Marcelling and water waving were the most popular methods of curling the hair. The "horseshoe wave" was too, too chic.

Looking back, we suggest you thank Providence every day that you're a 1937 model. ELEANOR NANGLE.

Good Morning!

Somebody should tell Mr. Sonnie Hale, Jessie Matthews' husband, to keep his patties off the directorial baton.

Mr. Hale is an excellent comedian. And, no doubt, a splendid husband. But he certainly hasn't what it takes to put a screen "musical" through its paces sucessfully. As to other forms of production, I don't know, but I have my pessimistic opinion.

"Be yourself. Never imitate"—said Mr. Emerson. The outstanding fault of "Head Over Heels in Love" is its blatant endeavor to go Hollywood.

A Hollywood scenario writer, American song composers and a Broadway actress were imported to lend the desired tone. The piece has the familiar "backstage" plot about a night club entertainer who becomes a radio star, and Mr. Hale resorted to, or, shall I say, attempted to resort to various camera and "atmosphere" tricks of technique that have been effective in both American and German films.

Well—with all kowtow to his good intentions, the result is a somewhat wearisome goulash rendered none the more savory by a pair of gigolo-ish appearing and acting leading men, neither of whom, to my way of thinking, has much right to call himself an actor. Some Hollywood male support wouldn't have been amiss here. Remember the class Robert Young lent to Miss Matthews' last picture —"It's Love Again"?

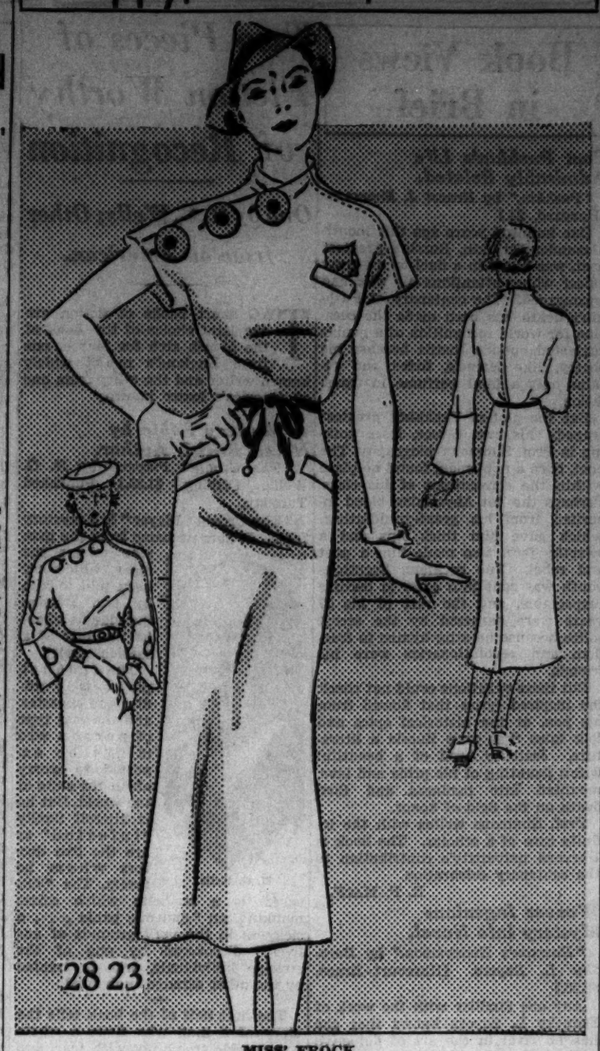
The English star, a favorite of deponent, does her vivacious best to make things go. But she has been unflatteringly photographed, and this fact, combined with aforementioned drawbacks, prevents her from seeming the girl she really is.

There are several rather good songs in the production. Two of them you know pretty well. They are "May I Have the Next Romance with You" and "Through the Courtesy of Love." "Looking Around Corners for You" is catchy, too.

Also, I think you may enjoy Miss Matthews' dancing. Otherwise, well—you may see the piece differently than I did. IhopeIhopeIhopeIhope——!

See you tomorrow.

Peppy, Colorful, Practical



MISS' FROCK.

You need a new dress. We knew it! And you want something peppy, colorful and light in weight, don't you? This frock ought to be just the ticket, since it takes to bright colors beautifully and flatters all types of figures. Whether you are staying in town or your trunks are being taken out of storage for a journey down where the sun shines brightly, you will enjoy this dress. It makes up well in either wash fabrics or in woolens and silks.

The original is fashioned of soft blue crêpe, with the buttons of darker blue and their centers of red. The clever little belt is of the same blue, with the pendants of red, too. The shoulderline of this model is designed to lend an illusion of breadth, and all the accent is on the right side. The neckline is high, soft and collarless. The sleeves may be either long or short, and are cut in one with the shoulder. A tiny pocket for a kerchief trims the plain bodice, and two matching pockets do duty on the simple skirt, which is seamed down the back.

A diagrammed chart accompanies this pattern. It will eliminate any sewing problem which may arise.

Style No. 2823 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 30, 32, 34, 36, and 38 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 3¼ yards of 39 inch material, with 2 yards of ribbon for the belt.

Lion-Hearted Rabbit Makes Hit in Movie

He Fights Cats; Trained to Chase Dog.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—The folks at Twentieth Century studio have an idea that their new film find, Cactus, is going to be one of the year's movie hits. Cactus is a 2 year old, 25 pound rabbit of the Flemish giant breed. He makes his movie debut in "She Had to Eat," a farcical sort of story which features Jack Haley, Arthur Treacher, Walter Catlett, and Rochelle Hudson, along with the huge hare.

Cactus has several interesting tendencies which should interest audiences which like to see the underdog win from the bully. One of Cactus' tricks is chasing a Boston bull terrier. Cactus also bites and kicks cats.

The chase with the bull terrier is a gag because Castus' master, Curly Twiford, also owns the dog and the two animals have been trained to romp that way. But let Cactus attack a strange cat and it no longer is play. Whether any of these antics go into the scenes of "She Had to Eat" is not yet determined; the rabbit's part in the picture doesn't come in until next week.

In the story Catlett plays an eastern sportsman who reaches a Nebraska small town in a spirituous haze and invites Haley, the town's ne'er-do-well gun expert, to join his private car party and go to Long Island to clean up on Catlett's skeet shooting pals. Haley and Cactus accept the invitation, but when Catlett sobers he fails to remember any agreement with Haley and has the latter ejected from the train. Haley then meets Rochelle, who is a girl living on her wits on Broadway.

Twiford, Cactus' boss, owns scores of unusual animals which work in films. One is an opossum. There are trained rats which recently worked at $50 a day each in the Paris sewer sequences of "Seventh Heaven."

Anita Louise entertained at a novel dinner party. It celebrated the birthday of her mother, Mrs. Ann Beresford, and the guest of honor was David Blankenhorn, her mother's fiancé.

When Jeanette MacDonald completed her last scene in "Maytime" she had a "corset burning party." She'd never worn corsets of the 19th century fashion before.

Metro studio is screen testing Madeleine de Charpin, winner of "Miss Paris" and "Miss France" beauty awards.

Self-Consciousness Spells Ruin for Personal Appeal

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

The phrase "self-conscious angles," used by that clever young stage and screen personage, Erin O'Brien-Moore, occured to me when I was looking upon a home party scene the other evening. The young woman reminding me of the phrase was all self-conscious angles from her hysterical giggle to her angular footwork as she changed from one room corner to another.

What can be done for this malady peculiar to highly nervous women and to women who have no faith in themselves?

The highly nervous woman will have to put herself through a whole school of reform, beginning, in all likelihood, with correcting a fatal worrying habit. She certainly has learned by now that lying awake nights thinking up dire catastrophies never got her anything, not even the expected catastrophe. But she won't do it by ordering herself to stop. She has to provide some mental substitute. Even happy plans for distributing her March sweepstakes winnings, nutty as it may sound, were better than that with which she now is letting her mind wrestle. In the interim, she should go in for massages, body massages that will settle down those jumping nerves. Or, enroll with a swimming class. Or, join a good gym class. Anyway, do something to help curb the jumpy nerves.

Another woman, who is just suffering from the well known and utterly despised inferiority pangs, has to get over them by sheer force of will power.

It's indifference or laziness that keeps her from availing herself of the advantages, and that is nothing to brag about. She can look at other women and see what they are doing with themselves with, perhaps, half her physical equipment. She can cultivate poise, ease and grace of movement by deliberately studying these invaluable charms. Yes, a woman can cultivate poise.

All Palm Beach Helps Edward T. Stotesbury Mark 88th Birthday

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Palm Beach, Fla., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—All limousines, flivvers, and even bicycles led to El Mirasol, the Edward T. Stotesbury estate, today. The whole colony helped celebrate the 88th birthday of the host.

Dapper and sprightly, Mr. Stotesbury received his guests in the tremendous patio of his home. All the time honored customs of this party were observed. As usual Mr. Stotesbury played the drums and rolled them as authoritatively as ever he did as a drummer boy in the civil war.

The climax of this celebration is Mr. Stotesbury's rendition of his favorite ditty, "The Old Family Toothbrush That Hangs in the Sink." As usual, his guests crowded round to join in the thunderous choruses.

Mrs. Stotesbury and the members of the house party at El Mirasol received with Mr. Stotesbury against a screen of flowers formed by the many birthday bouquets sent him.

Since Palm Beach has expanded so tremendously since the world war, there are no longer any social gatherings tinged with a community spirit except Mr. Stotesbury's birthday reception. For once, the resort's assorted social circles mix and like it.

Despite its size, there's nothing hit or miss about the reception. Innumerable uniformed footmen see that the guests are supplied with a variety of solid or liquid refreshments. It's a gay and informal party, but one in the grand manner.

The Best Foundation.

During the long winter evenings down on the farm the neighbors would gather. One evening the discussion was "what constituted the best material for a building foundation." One contended reinforced concrete and put up a big argument. Another contended stone blocks and made a forceful plea. Whereupon another neighbor vowed they were "all wrong." Walnut blocks, he contended were superior, because they last a thousand years. His father tried them twice.

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

THE sixth grade class of the Riverside grammar school announced, on the Friday preceding Washington's birthday, a sitdown strike for Monday, on account of having to go to school when children in surrounding towns were having a holiday. They had petitioned the principal for a holiday, which he could not grant them. When classes returned after lunch, across the front blackboard was the following: "This school unfair to patriotic children."

Strikers—Mark O'Polo—Speech—History Notes.

RECENTLY a university student who apparently gets most of his history by ear was asked to identify an early explorer to China.

"Mark O'Polo," he answered. The student's name, by the way, is O'Connor.

JOHN MASON BROWN'S brilliant speech before the Drama league at the Arts club a morning or so ago was so topical, so glinting with revealing humorous phrases that it hardly needed have had continuity to have kept his hearers enchanted, but he gave a thorough and comprehensive view of the theater, 1937, as well as a discussion of the Hamlets, past and present. "Hamlet" is as vehicular as the Holland tunnel, he said, and his personal recollections of the characterization began with that of Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson. Walter Hampden, John Barrymore, and the "amorous antennæ of his hands"; the Hamlet of Basil Rathbone in modern dress [also his "kelvinated" Romeo in Miss Cornell's production of "Romeo and Juliet," as compared to the fine Italianate, romantic Hamlet of Maurice Evans in Miss Cornell's second season], and finally, Leslie Howard's disappointing characterization, due to his training in the "diminuendoes of the drawing room" and his habit of throwing away his medium, were touched on. Then he reached "the finest Hamlet of our generation, and the most brilliantly cerebral, that of John Gielgud," which Chicago is unfortunately not to see this season.

GUESTS of honor at the luncheon following Mr. Brown's speech were members of the "You Can't Take It with You" company—with Charlotte Walker at the right of Mrs. Clarence Hough, president of the Drama league, and Burton Holmes and his old friend, Frederick Tuttle, also were among the speakers' table guests. Over the fried chicken and green salad Mr. Brown commented that Mr. Tuttle had said, apropos of some discussion of getting across the bridge to the Arts club, that he could remember when there wasn't any bridge across the river, and one got across on an old scow operated by a rope attached to windlasses on each side of the river.

This comment, with a view of the ebb and flow of Michigan avenue trafic outside the window, Mr. Brown found moving. It gave him apparently something of the same feeling of being close to history he had had when once an elderly New York drama critic had described Wellington's funeral to him.

"If you take four persons of different ages you can encompass almost the entire span of history in this country," he said.

We were a little inclined to quibble, remembering the remark of some one—was it Owen Wister?—that history begins where reminiscence ends.

SATURDAY notes from the Friday cuff. Could it be possible that the popular song, "May I Have the Next Romance with You," refers to Mrs. Simpson? . . . Noel Coward's autobiography, "Present Indicative," will be out next month. . . . And speaking of writers, E. M. Delafield, the provincial lady, recently back from Russia—her new book is "I Visit the Soviets"—is arriving in Chicago Tuesday and will visit at the home of her great friend, Arthur Meeker Jr. Mr. Meeker dedicated his "Vestal Virgin"—the book that preceded his latest, "Sacrifice to the Graces," to Miss Delafield. . . . A young man who has just made Deke at Yale sent his pin home to his mother to keep, what with spring coming on. . . . The Illinois Children's Home and Aid society has not been astonished at the numerous requests from persons who want to adopt little Kenneth Schue, whose father preferred his automobile to his son, but they received a telephone call yesterday from some one who wanted to adopt the car. Neither child nor car is for adoption. . . . Believe it or not, a girl named Olive Palm works for the Palmolive company.

Julia Coleman Is Engaged to Dudley F. Wing

Their Wedding Is Planned for Late May.

BY JUDITH CASS.

MRS. WILLIAM OGDEN COLEMAN SR. of River Forest announces the engagement of her daughter, Julia Cammann Coleman, to Dudley F. Wing, son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Wing of Evanston. Miss Coleman attended Sweet Briar college in Virginia and was graduated from Northwestern university. Mr. Wing is a graduate of Wesleyan university in Middletown, Conn., and attended the Harvard business school. The wedding is planned for the latter part of May.

Gordon B. Enders, foreign adviser to the Panchan Lama of Tibet, will speak on "The Story Behind the Chinese Kidnaping" at a luncheon meeting today of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations.

At the speakers' table with Mr. Enders will be Adlai E. Stevenson, president of the council, and Mrs. Stevenson. Ralph H. Poole, Mr. and Mrs. Harley F. McNair, Robert T. Kah, consul general for China; Col. and Mrs. George T. Langhorne, and Quincy Wright.

Military Ball Will Be Held Tonight.

Dress uniforms of the army and navy will be out in such numbers tonight for the army relief military ball that the Lake Shore Athletic club will be a-glitter with gold braid and buttons. The ball, which is scheduled to start at 9 o'clock, is being given by the Sixth Corps Area branch of the Army Relief society, which contributes to the support of widows and orphans of the officers and enlisted men of the regular army.

For those who do not care to dance there will be card tables. Receiving will be Gen. and Mrs. Charles D. Herron, Admiral and Mrs. Hayne Ellis, Col. and Mrs. Warner McCabe, and Capt. John Winn Jr. Gen. Herron is commander of the Sixth corps area, and his wife is chairman of the committee that has arranged the ball. Numerous dinner parties will be given before the ball, among the hosts being Col. and Mrs. Paul Newgarden, Gen. and Mrs. Frank Parker, Dr. and Mrs. Arthur A. Small, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Roby, Maj. and Mrs. Brock Putnam, Capt. and Mrs. Winn, the Stephen Plummers, the Robert Hartmans, and Miss Barbara Johnson, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Alfred Johnson. The Putnams are entertaining for their niece, Miss Ann Baker, who is visiting them at Fort Sheridan.

Give New Play at Arts Club Tonight.

"Find It," a new comedy by Munro Stone and directed by William J. Pollard, will be given tonight by the Playwrights' theater at the Arts club. After the play, which will start at 8:30 o'clock in the lounge, there will be refreshments in the new dining room. About 250 have made reservations.

Ethel Owen, radio and stage entertainer, will have the lead in the play, with Harold Simonds playing the part of her husband. Others in the cast will be Victor Stock, Norma Ransom, Gerald A. Frank, Theodore Wagner, Emily Goehst, Arthur H. Peterson Jr., Margret Hart, Anita Baker, and Franklin Stevens.

The Arts club has cards out for two affairs next week; a lecture, illustrated with gramophone records, by Carleton Smith on "Lost Frontiers of Music" on Tuesday at 11:30 o'clock, and a tea on Friday to open exhibitions of paintings by Albers, Dreier, Drewes, and Kelpe, and the work of Dimitri Bouchene and Pablo Gargallo.

D'Oyly Cartes Sweeten Stay with 'Patience'

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

"Patience," a rare item in Gilbert and Sullivan revivals, was added to the D'Oyly Carte repertory in the Erlanger theater last night. This was the opera's first performance, on any tour, by the famous "Savoyards" in Chicago; it was also the first, by any company, in this city for a generation. One must hark back to the heyday of the De Wolf Hopper revivals to remember the last American revival, and that was a matter of 20 or 25 years ago.

Chatter about this work's relation to the career of Oscar Wilde dropped to a new "low" as soon as Martyn Green entered the lyric pastime in the rôle of Reginald Bunthorne, the fleshly poet. For Mr. Green disguises himself, so far as his countenance is concerned, not as Wilde but as James McNeill Whistler, the etcher-painter who was airing his esthetic creed and personal eccentricities around London at the time [1880] when "Patience" was first staged. He wears the Latin Quarter mustache and chinpiece, the monocle with black ribbon, and the satirical sneer that were Whistler's type-marks.

This effective makeup illustrated the fact, easily recognizable in the libretto, that W. S. Gilbert was satirizing several other artistic celebrities beside Wilde when he wrote "Patience," and that Jimmy Whistler was one of his favorite targets. The character may be a poet, but Whistler's studio talk and art-for-art's-sake attitudes figure importantly in the travesty. "Patience" was not centered on Wilde, but covered in its light ridicule and urbane humor an entire movement in Victorian arts and letters.

But when Mr. Green, giving one of the cleverest performances in his Gilbert and Sullivan gallery, began to skip and teeter around the stage, gazing swooningly at an Easter lily, and singing "What a singularly deep young man this deep young man must be," the audience regained its faith in the Oscar Wilde theory. It called for encores until Gilbert's song ran out of verses and Mr. Green grew faint from lily-worship.

The opera proves as attractive a bill as any of the more familiar works in the D'Oyly Carte repertory. Its music, which has an air of freshness and novelty to all except the most incorrigible of the Gilbert and Sullivan experts, contains many exquisite passages, and the company's casting of the rôles is decidedly happy.

Leslie Rands is effective as the other poet of the tale; Darrell Fancourt, as the colonel of the Heavy Dragoons, sings the most erudite patter song in Gilbert's works with great gusto, winning a number of encores; Evelyn Gardiner is impressive as Lady Jane, the burlesque Muse, and Sylvia Cecil is in her happiest and neatest vein in the title rôle. Marjorie Eyre, Brenda Bennett, and Elizabeth Nickell-Lean lead the twenty lovesick maidens with skill and charm.

"Patience" will be given two more performances during this engagement—on Thursday nights, March 4 and 11.

Young Artists Win Praise in Debut Recital

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Corinne Kerner, contralto, and Herbert Donaldson, pianist, joined forces for a debut recital in Kimball hall last night and provided a heartening demonstration of what aptitude, industry, and wise direction can accomplish. It was obvious that both young artists possessed the first and second qualities in their own right and that they had enjoyed the benefit of the third.

Miss Kerner's basic endowment is a dusky contralto voice capable of wide range and surprising volume. She sang several radically differing sorts of music [Beethoven, Schubert, Wagner, Donizetti, etc.] and seemed to have no difficulty in adapting her peculiar style [vivid, emotional, direct] to each type.

She has unusual control and sureness. There seemed to be only two or three phrases where the pitch was not precise. The intelligibility of her words leaves something to be desired as it is occasionally necessary to concentrate a bit too hard in order to catch them.

Mr. Donaldson played creditable Bach and excellent Chopin. The two G flat etudes were remarkably clean and fluent. The first, especially, showed a fine understanding of the architecture of the music and an appreciation of the opportunities for varied coloring which its parallel phrases afford.

He seems to lack a genuine pianissimo [Miss Kerner, too, come to think of it]—but an artist must be pretty good when a reviewer avid for something to complain of has to go this far afield to find it.

Phil Jorgensen played Miss Kerner's accompaniments [both piano and organ] in a sensitive manner. "The Harbor," an encore after her first group, was his composition.

Son-in-Law Says McAdoos Paid for His Honeymoon

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—In a divorce answer recorded today Rafael Lopez De Onate, 40, actor from Manila, asserts that United States Senator W. G. McAdoo and his divorced wife, the former Eleanor Wilson, paid the way of himself and his bride, the McAdoos' daughter, to Europe and financed them during a two year stay there "to avoid unfavorable publicity." De Onate denied the nonsupport charge of Mrs. De Onate, granddaughter of President Wilson. Mrs. De Onate is 21.

Fabric Gloves Are Offered at Bargain Price

Colors More Subdued This Season.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Colored gloves are evidently "on" for keeps! Last year you slid your fingers into wild, screaming reds, greens, yellows, blues, and even purples. Colors raged up and down the best streets and around all the corners.

This year glove colors are more subdued, much more feminine and subtle, and consequently lots more interesting. Doeskins, so soft they remind you of whipped cream, come in some luscious colors for prices that range from less than $3 up to six. Short, jaunty things for street, suave longer lengths for dress parade, and gorgeous specially designed duets to match a hat.

But the best finds of the week are the newly unwrapped fabrics that can be yours for one of your best dollar bills. Hand whipped seams make them swanky hand covers to wear with street clothes. The colors are effective, some of them are softer and richer than the doeskins. If that sounds impossible trot downtown and see them.

There's a slick old gold shade to wear with black and navy, some of the best gray tones we've discovered in any shop, with a lot of beige to match any tint of this high fashion color.

Some have fancy backs, embellished with hand sewn tucks or clusters of tucks in a small design. Others are extremely plain to go with tailored suits. For a few pennies more you can buy lether trimmed fabrics in the same shop. Some have a fine lether edge along the flared cuff, a deep gusset down the cuff into the back of the hand, also edged with lether.

Added to the decorative lether details the fabric itself is two toned, one color outside and the inside a couple of shades lighter. The dull blacks and blues are more than merely good looking—they'll make you look twice to be sure that it is fabric, not suede.

Quick Thinker Proves Trait by Penmanship

BY MURIEL STAFFORD.

[Copyright: 1937: By Muriel Stafford.]

Until you begin to discard the introductory strokes of your words you are not mentally grown up.

Unnecessary beginning strokes are an indication of a mind that does not get right down to business. A direct thinker begins most of his words without any preliminary stroke. Words that begin with the letters d, f, t, or h often show no loop. The first stroke is a straight vertical line.

I left that behind when I grew up

Have you ever noticed that we are inclined to accuse others of our own faults? The writer of today's handwriting does that. She accuses her boy friend of being "childish." According to graphology his writing shows him to be much more mature in his thinking than she. At least he doesn't precede every word with a long stroke as she does.

Why, you may wonder, is he troubled enough to write and ask whether or not she is right in her accusations? Well, in the first place, his writing shows him to be sensitive and affectionate, so that much that the object of his affections had to say would worry him.

Secondly, this young lady has a dominating and forceful will. When she says a thing she means it so hard that she even believes it herself, absurd as the statement may be. Notice the thick heavy pressure to indicate her dominating will.

She is not trying to mislead her boy friend. She is very much in earnest. Her writing reveals a sincere nature and a kind heart. She really believes that he is not quite grown up as yet and she is trying to help him.

Whenever you feel the urge to accuse some one of a fault, I wish you'd write and tell me about it. At least refer to your graphology chart and make sure it isn't a fault checked for you. Don't take a chance on "calling the kettle black."

SYNOPSIS.

Adrian Somervell and Diana Lake become engaged when the young scientist learns he is heir to the fortune of his late stepmother, Rose Somervell, ex-star of the theater, who was Diana's godmother. Until shortly before her death Adrian and she had been estranged. Adrian had lunched with her shortly before her death, with Nicholas Blundell, wealthy bachelor solicitor, who lived in the London flat below Rose. Blundell's neurotic secretary, Elsie Dilworth, was madly in love with Adrian, who'd repulsed her. She'd called during the luncheon on business. Blundell is Diana's godfather. She'd always disliked him. An autopsy reveals that Rose was poisoned. Then Diana's actress mother, Margaret Fairlamb, is murdered. Robbery is thought to be the motive. Adrian is arrested. Remnants of the poison which killed Rose are found in his pocket. Blundell persuades Diana to move to Rose's flat. He obtains a lawyer for Adrian. Diana sees Elsie Dilworth, who has left Blundell's employ, return and search the premises. Diana hires a private agent, Mortimer Bream. Watching Elsie's lodgings, he sees an East Indian trying to break into the girl's room. Inspector Headcorn, assigned to the investigation of Diana's mother's murder, believes there is a link between the two murders. He discovers a secret stairs between Diana's flat and Blundell's. The East Indian is found dead, apparently a suicide. Diana receives a package of papers from Elsie which she states contains clews to the murder. Then Elsie commits suicide. Lord Limpsfield and Sir Norbury Penge, who Blundell stated were at his home the night Margaret Fairlamb was murdered, are questioned and confirm Blundell's alibi. Adrian is tried and found guilty.

INSTALMENT XLII.

DEATH SENTENCE.

It was over. The judge reached for the square of material, which custom calls the black cap, spread it over his wig and pronounced the death sentence.

Mortimer Bream managed a word with Diana as, blanched and unseeing, she was shepherded into her godfather's car. She turned and looked through him.

"Yes," she whispered. "Keep on. We mustn't stop—yet."

A moment later a touch on the detective's arm roused him from meditation. He recognized the house surgeon from the Prince Regent hospital.

"I hear there'll be an appeal. Think it will help?"

"You heard the evidence. I don't imagine it will be differently construed."

"I did hear the evidence," Ladbroke said, in an emphatic undertone. "Come along to the corner pub. I'd like to talk with you."

Presently, in a quiet corner of the bar, the doctor drew from his pocket an envelope scribbled over with notes.

"As to the victim's eyesight," he began. "It seems most unlikely she could have read the will she signed without putting on her glasses; yet the chauffeur-butler was never asked whether at the time she wore them or not."

"Blundell may have read the will to her. We can inquire."

"I've done it," said Ladbroke. "A moment ago. The fellow, who hadn't a notion what I was after, says if she'd been wearing glasses he'd have noticed it because it would have been the first time he'd seen her with them on. So we may take it she didn't run through that document herself. Now,

"I was wondering what would have happened to an earlier will."

one thing more. Why, at the home office, did that secretary avoid all specific mention of names?"

"Why did she do anything as she did do it?" demanded Bream cynically. "Loony, that's all."

"With a clear line on her motives," objected Colin, "we might think her extraordinarily sane. Suppose, at a venture, she intends her statements to incriminate not Somervell but another person? Some one to whom she was under obligations, some one who, if mud was stirred up to no satisfactory purpose, would turn into a formidable enemy?"

Bream nodded with understanding. "Blundell," he said softly. "I may tell you I've had my eye on him for some time, and with more reason than you think." Lowering his voice to a whisper he related what he had learned of Elsie's fit of sickness and his private but unprovable deductions. "I still believe it more than probable she was bowled over by shock the moment she took down that letter to Somervell and discovered she'd set a trap for the wrong man. It would explain several puzzles, but I'll have to point out one serious objection to it. That expression she used in making her deposition—you remember the wording? 'Financially low waters.' If that cap fits Blundell, I can't see it. The man's perfectly solvent, solid as Gibraltar, no troublesome creditors. It's true for a time he was living on an overdraft——"

"What!"

"No need to say 'What,'" retorted the detective calmly. "I could tell you others who do that if their investments happen to be paying big dividends. It releases capital, nets larger returns. Just depends on the difference between the bank rate of interest and the percentage earned elsewhere. This overdraft was cleared off about the date of the exhumation."

Ladbroke was eying him thoughtfully.

"How much have you found out about his private affairs?" he asked.

"Quite sufficient to show the woman must have been hopelessly balmy if she imagined he was on the rocks."

"I hope you can nose out a bit more. And this overdraft—just when did you say it was cleared off?"

Bream thumbed the pages of a shabby notebook.

"Here we are. Bank manager's statement—very snootily given. The 3d of November . . . What's up? Has that rung a bell?"

"No . . . No." Ladbroke had risen restlessly. "I'm afraid it hasn't, but—here's my card. If you get on to anything, no matter what, will you promise to let me know on the dot?"

Colin found Diana in the dusk of the drawing room. She was shivering, though she still wore her lambskin coat and the fire on the harth sent out a welcome heat. Gripping her icy hands hard in his he put a blunt question. She stared blankly and then broke into a little cracked laugh.

"O, yes," she answered him. "I did say that."

"You meant it?" Colin was trying to rivet her attention. "You and your mother both took it for granted Mrs. Somervell intended leaving all she had to Mr. Blundell?"

"We were mistaken," she said lifelessly. "There was never an actual will. If you're thinking that some unpleasantness between them made her change her mind, that's out of the question. There was nothing of the sort."

"No, that wasn't quite my idea. I was merely wondering what would have happened to an earlier will, supposing there had been one. This flat was searched," he said slowly. "You say by the secretary. Have you ever thought why? Mayn't she in the first place have taken her cue from another person who, directly after the death, started doing that very thing?"

"Mr. Blundell?" she whispered, frowning. "He did, of course, go through all Aunt Rose's papers. It was his duty, as executor. Why should Elsie see anything queer about that?"

"She wouldn't unless, already believing there was some hanky-panky about the will, she surprised him searching in out of the way places. Say under a mattress, behind drawers—that sort of thing. One act like that would have been enough to confirm a suspicion previously born."

"Diana's gray eyes had begun to show reawakened life. He could see her effort to adjust her mind to this new aspect of things, but it was short lived. She covered her face and turned from him.

"Even if you were right," she muttered, "there's nothing here now. If there had been any chance of my finding a stray will, should I have been invited to take up my residence in the flat?"

"Yes, if Blundell was positive there was nothing to be discovered. He'd have satisfied himself, depend on it, but that's not saying he'd either found and destroyed a paper or simply given up trying. Maybe he'd come to believe no such will ever existed. Mrs. Somervell might have been fooling him—and fooling your mother. So she may have done; and again, she may have spoken the truth. See here—do you know of anything taken from here before you arrived?"

She thought for a moment.

"Yes. The Sargeant drawing of Aunt Rose. It's hanging in his bedroom."

"I want you to examine that drawing. See if the board and nails at the back look as if they'd been tampered with recently. Can you manage it soon?"

"I'll do it now," she said.

At the door he suddenly thought of another faint possibility. The private staircase she had told him about—had she examined the interior of that?

"No? Well, I'd rather like to look it over myself. Could you unbolt the other side of the top door without being seen?"

"I'll try," she promised, and disappeared down the broad stairs.

Even Papa Can Bake This Good Fruity Bread

It's as Simple as A-B-C to Toss Together.

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Anybody can make fruit and nut bread. Anybody, that is, who is old enough and intelligent enough to read and follow directions. Little sister, big brother, or even father on a rare kitchen spree, could bake today's orange-nut loaf almost as well as you, fair lady! [You might challenge them with it and take a well earned baking holiday, unless you want the fun of mixing the bread yourself.]

It's that easy, which can't be said about yeast breads. Many of us must practice and practice and practice before we can make good yeast bread. But the first try is likely to be just as successful as the twentieth with today's requested recipe, given step by step.

Fruit and Nut Bread

[2 Loaves 7x3x2¼ Inches.]

2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
1½ teaspoons salt
¾ cup sugar
2 cups graham flour
¾ cup thinly sliced orange peel
¾ cup broken nut meats
2 beaten eggs
1½ cups milk
4 tablespoons melted shortening

1. Sift the white flour once, measure it, and sift again with baking powder, salt, and sugar into the bowl in which you intend to mix the bread.

2. Combine the graham flour [which does not need sifting] with the orange peel and nuts. Add this combination to the sifted white flour mixture. The nuts and peel are coated with flour during this mixing, which helps to keep them evenly distributed throughout the bread and prevents them from sinking to the bottom of the pan.

3. Beat the eggs until light and foamy in a rather small bowl. Add the milk and the melted shortening, which has been cooled enough to prevent its solidifying when added to the cold milk. Beat together.

4. Pour the combined liquid ingredients into the combined dry ingredients very slowly, stirring vigorously to prevent lumping.

5. After all the liquid is added, beat briskly only enough to blend the ingredients.

6. Spread the batter evenly in two greased loaf pans and place in a 350 degree oven [moderate] to bake for an hour. A long, slow baking allows the bread to rise evenly and develop a golden crust.

7. Cool the loaves and store for a day. Nut and fruit breads will not slice without crumbling badly if cut the first day. A 24 hour ripening period is good for the flavor as well as the sliceability.

If you'd rather bake only one loaf of this delectable quick bread, here are the proportions cut in half. [Many of us have difficulty in cutting a recipe in two as we go along!] The method is the same.

Ingredients for One Loaf Fruit-Nut Bread

1 cup sifted white flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt
6 tablespoons sugar
1 cup graham flour
6 tablespoons candied orange peel, thinly sliced
6 tablespoons broken nut meats
1 beaten egg
½ cup plus ½ cup milk [easy way to measure]
2 tablespoons melted shortening

Combine by method given above. If it's any easier to measure 6 tablespoons, using the fourth-cup measure plus 2 tablespoons, this method may be used. Sometimes one loses count when measuring by tablespoonfuls.

Friendship Is Vital Interest of Majority

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

If you want to start the conversational ball rolling, introduce the query of what most interests people. Since questions of the type usually arouse a personal portrayal, you'll find fairly surprising revelations, as we did on a recent occasion. One person said books were his interest. Another said the daily newspaper. One said, and not without righteousness, that getting hold of money is what most interests people. Not necessarily does this mean a mercenary pursuit of gold. Money to provide the ordinary needs of life does constitute the great concern of most of us, whether we have only ourselves to work for or also dependents.

Our proposal in answer to the question of what most interests people would be how to make people like one. From our experience in this department, we find this subject to have more petitioners than almost any other. As we meet it, true, love and marriage are deeply involved in the hoped-for contacts. So, love and marriage really are the great, abiding interests of the large majority.

The young people are particularly urgent in their appeal to be told the secret of succeeding with the other sex. But the urge is, be no means, confined to youth and its "growing pains" of love. Women nearing the thirties, we find, are deeply aware of the fact that they have allowed good years to slip by without having built up the social relationships so necessary to every human being. And women of middle years, who have devoted their time and energy exclusively to the raising of their families, find a terrific vacuum when the children withdraw to homes of their own.

Getting on well and happily with people becomes an art that should be taught children in their earliest years. Some children are born with the flair for ingratiating themselves into hearts. Others lay the foundation for an unhappy future life with their uncurbed, undisciplined intention to grab and hold the limelight every moment. Grown to maturity, these are the people with the biggest problem on their hands in connection with friendship-making. For, as has been said before in this department, and as has been said by every authority on the subject, the sure-fire way of making people like you is to play up their importance and to play down your own.

Dutchman's Breeches.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Dutchman's Breeches" is an amusing and attractive pieced block usually done in blues and white. The eleven inch block was pieced and so named because of the resemblance of the white patches to the wild flower known as "Dutchman's Breeches." The pieced blocks are set together with bands of blue material three inches wide, and they, in turn, are surrounded by a five inch border of blue with either white or a darker blue bias binding.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

A commendable effort to reform the confusing language of amateurs using radio phone bands is being made by a group of midwestern "hams" who have formed what is known as the Old Buzzards club. Organizers of the movement include Charles J. Uher, W9ONR, Chicago, who is the president; Rudolph J. Blaho Jr., W8EEP, Cleveland, secretary, and Julius A. Thomsen, W9WPY, Elmhurst, treasurer.

The club started the movement in keeping with standard practices of the American Radio Relay league to make amateur radiophone transmission intelligible to the thousands of persons who, while not amateur operators themselves, take pleasure in listening in on the "ham" bands.

Only requisite for membership is a promise to abstain from the use of such befuddling abbreviations as YL for young lady; XYL for wife; QRM for interference, and 73 for best regards.

Miss Marge Morin, 22, red-haired member of the Morin sisters, NBC harmony team, and Bob Casey of the King's Jesters, are to be married at 3 p. m. today at the South Shore Community church. The bride's real name is Marjorie Hooper.

Youth and old age are to have their innings tomorrow. Little Dorothy Warner, 7 year old newspaper columnist of Tappahannock, Va., is to tell her story on the "We, the People" broadcast at 4 p. m. over WENR. At 10:15 p. m. George Woodruff, dean of the baritones, of Independence, Ia., will endeavor to outsing Nelson Eddy in a special broadcast from the studios of WENR in connection with the celebration of his 92d birthday.

President Roosevelt will be heard on Tuesday, March 9, from 9:30 to 10 p. m., discussing "governmental problems affecting the state of the union."

Triple Benefit Is Enjoyed by Huge Audience

BY INDIA MOFFETT.

"It's fun to see your friends or your friends' daughters strut around in a fashion show, but it's more fun to see professional models," said one man last night at the fashion show staged in the Grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel. And that seemed to be the opinion of most of the masculine members of the audience of 1,500, although not all dared express themselves so openly.

The show was the feature of an entertainment arranged by Saks for the benefit of Emerson House association, Madonna center, and the Sunset Camp Service league.

Following the display of new spring fashions there was a program of entertainment and then there was dancing and supper in adjoining rooms. Earlier in the day we had noticed how many women were knitting at the symphony concert in Orchestra hall; there were as many, if not more, making new sweaters while they watched the fashion show and floor show last night. Are Americans getting so they must knit no matter what else they are doing?

Some of the many in the audience were Mr. and Mrs. James E. Baggot Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rowan, and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert A. Friedlich, who were more interested than any one else in the success of the affair, for the three women were co-chairmen of the committee that planned the benefit. They all were in black, Mrs. Baggot with luscious deep pink camellias on her shoulder, Mrs. Rowan with a huge purple orchid on one shoulder, and Mrs. Friedlich with gardenias.

Among others who enjoyed the affair were the junior Carroll H. Sudlers, the Louis Sudlers, the Walter Wolfs, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cummings, the junior Ross Beattys, the John Lord Kings, Aldis Browne Jr., the Martin Stevensons, the junior John P. Wilsons, Mr. and Mrs. Press Hodgkins, the J. Beach Clows, the John Drums, the Edmond Sullivans, the Edward Smiths, Miss Barbara Bastien, Philip Hosmer Jr., Miss Peggy Hixon, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Ames, Miss Dorothy Dewes, Miss Elisabeth Dewes, Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Woods Jr., Miss Sylvia Peter, and the Roger Fahertys.

Mrs. John W. Gary attended and showed great interest in the fashion show, because, no doubt, of the fact that the St. Luke's fashion show is held in the same place each fall. She is president of the hospital woman's board. The stage last night was against the south wall of the ballroom, instead of against the east one as the woman's board of St. Luke's hospital plans theirs. It appeared that more people had a good view than at the St. Luke's show, which, however, is the "tops" in benefits each year from a financial standpoint.

N. U. Freshmen Girls Will Open Night Club at Dormitory Tonight

Pop and Ernie's night club will open at 9 o'clock tonight in Willard hall, Northwestern university freshman girls' dormitory, with an orchestra, floor show, hostesses, dancing—even a cover charge of $1 a couple.

But don't get the wrong idea. There will NOT be any liquor drinking. Beer is barred. So are bare legs in the chorus.

The club, open only on Saturday nights, will welcome outside visitors. Last night there were 176 reservations for this evening. Proceeds will go to the freshman girls' social fund. It is named after two night watchmen at the dormitory.

Dance Recital to Benefit School

Tomorrow afternoon the Auditorium theater will be filled with dance enthusiasts and friends of the Francis W. Parker school, for the recital that Doris Humphrey and Charles Weidman will give at 3:30 o'clock is the school's annual benefit for its scholarsip fund. After the recital there will be a tea for Miss Humphrey and Mr. Weidman and the fifteen young men and women in their company in the second floor foyer of the theater.

Pouring will be Mrs. Graham Aldis, Mrs. Herbert E. Hyde, Mrs. John L. Clarkson, and Mrs. Arnold Gingrich, all of whom have been active in promoting the benefit. Among those receiving will be Raymond Osborn, principal of the school, and Mrs. Osborn, and Miss Flora Cooke, ex-principal.

The Tavern club has postponed until next Sunday the breakfast party it was to have given tomorrow for the D'Oyly Carte Opera company.

Headmaster of Choate to Be Guest at Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. James R. Getz will have an interesting guest next weekend, Dr. George C. St. John, headmaster of the Choate school in Wallingford, Conn. Mr. Getz is chairman of the midwest Choate alumni committee which is arranging a luncheon for Dr. St. John at 1:15 o'clock next Saturday at the Lake Shore Athletic club, followed by a reception.

Assisting Mr. Getz are his brother, George F. Getz Jr., Adlai E. Stevenson, and James Miksak Jr.

BLUM WINS O. K. OF CHAMBER FOR RADICAL POLICIES

Foes Claim France Heads for Bankruptcy.

PARIS, Feb. 27 [Saturday].—(AP)—The large Popular Front majority in the chamber of deputies early today gave Premier Leon Blum's government a decisive two-fold vote of confidence, rejecting charges of his conservative foes that he was leading France to bankruptcy and dictatorship with his radical "new deal" policies.

Pierre-Etienne Flandin

After a bitter all-day debate, in which leaders of the rightist opposition asserted the Socialist premier was permitting a "hemorrhage of gold," Blum twice called on the chamber to declare its confidence in his program. The first vote was 361 to 211, the second 361 to 209.

Threatens to Call Election.

Before the balloting Premier Blum threatened to carry the issue to the electorate if opposition to his Popular Front program compelled him to do so. Turning to the right of the chamber with a broad smile, he challenged his opponents:

"The day you are ready to go before the electors we are ready, too."

The rightist onslaught against the cabinet was led by former Premier Pierre-Etienne Flandin, who charged that the national credit was exhausted, that the premier can find no lender and no treasury bond buyers, that Blum is headed for inflation and control of the exchanges—"the policy of Hitler, Mussolini, and Stalin." Flandin cried that Blum's financial program would alienate the United States and Great Britain, "on whose support you base your hope of peace."

Cites Outflow of Gold.

Supporting Flandin was Camille Laurent, who charged that governmental policies were sapping a billion francs of French gold each week and that $10,000,000 of the precious metal had gone abroad on each of the last four days.

"If you do not want to die," he shrieked, "stop this hemorrhage of gold!"

His attack brought Finance Minister Vincent Auriol to his feet, trembling with enraged denials and the countercharge:

"You got those figures from a high official of the Bank of France! That is treason! But you have been betrayed shamefully—those figures are absolutely false! They were given to you in a dirty attempt to betray France."

[The last Bank of France statement, covering the week ended Feb. 19, showed no change in the gold reserve.]

Mrs. Spencer Seeks Spot for Daughter; Gets It

Mrs. Mary Belle Spencer, a woman attorney, was arrested by the Central station police on a disorderly conduct charge yesterday on a complaint of Harry Gourfain, New York producer, that she struck him during an argument backstage in the Oriental theater. Gourfain said he had hired Mrs. Spencer's daughter, Victoria, 15 years old, to dance in the chorus of a show at the Oriental, and that Mrs. Spencer and the girl insisted she was to do a specialty number. Mrs. Spencer will be arraigned in Women's court today.

300 GIRLS WALK OUT; A 'CLARK GABLE' OF LAUNDRY IS CAUSE

IRTHLINGBOROUGH, Northamptonshire, England, Feb. 26.—(AP).—Three hundred girl laundry workers walked out on strike today because their handsome foreman, whom they called "Clark Gable," was to be transferred to another plant. They chanted, "We want Ernie!" [Ernest Greasley, 26 years of age]. Later they agreed to return to work, pending negotiations with the management.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 26.—With track conditions uncertain under skies which alternately gloomed and brightened, overnight speculation made the third annual $100,000 added Santa Anita handicap tomorrow an open race. W. I. du Pont's Rosemont, the favorite, drew post position No. 17 in a field of 18, adding to the uncertainty of the mile and a quarter event.

Guesses as to the state of the footing varied from the estimate that it will be fast, which was given out by Dr. Charles Strub, president of the Jocky club, to the dubious remarks of trainers whose horses do not like a heavy or holding track. Showers fell over this area sporadically last night, but a sun more notable for its ambition than its success at wiping gray clouds shone today.

The weather man, unperturbed by the clammy feel in the air, predicted clearing and warming weather for tomorrow.

Chanceview Gains Support.

Luck of the draw fell to A. G. Vanderbilt's Chanceview, which moved into a preferential status in the advance betting on the strength of his ability to run on a heavy track.

Chanceview will have the No. 2 post position, with Grand Manitou, the imported French horse, on the rail. Grand Manitou is an outsider, which will be in the race partly because Motion Picture Director Raoul Walsh likes to have a sentimental interest in a $100,000 sporting venture and partly because a race rich enough to pay $20,000 for second place, $10,000 for third, and $5,000 for fourth money almost commands a gamble.

Mrs. Charles Howard's Seabiscuit, favored until heavy rains began this week, drew the third post position, which might balance some of the regret felt by his followers at the condition of the track. Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney's Red Rain drew No. 4 and A. A. Baroni's Star Shadow, a slightly better mudder than the Whitney horse, was No. 5.

The entry of Star Shadow and Goldeneye was rated at 10 to 1 in betting today, but these odds will be shortened by post time it was predicted. Maj. A. C. Taylor's Indian Broom was No. 6, and coupled with Special Agent, was quoted at 6 to 1.

Rosemont Carries Top Weight.

Rosemont and Mrs. Frank Carreaud's Time Supply, with post position No. 15, will carry top weights. The du Pont horse has been assigned 124 pounds and Time Supply 122. J. H. Whitney's Mr. Bones, which has taken several favorable trial runs over the handicap distance, was at 120 pounds. Mr. Bones is to be ridden by Lester Balaski, who was brought from Florida for the handicap. He will be No. 11 at the barrier.

Only two of the 18 horses were entered last year when Top Row won in a field of fifteen. These are Time Supply, which was second, and Rosemont, which ran third. Riders and owners of these horses said that bumping during that roughly ridden race deprived them of first money.

To guard against another such rough race, the stewards today issued stern warnings to every jocky and every trainer represented tomorrow. Wayne Wright, who rode Top Row in last year's race, is not at Santa Anita.

Only Time Supply, winner of third money in the first handicap in which 20 horses ran, is making his third start in the race. The record of 2:02 1-5 for the handicap was set by Azucar.

The mutuel handle for last year's handicap day was $1,246,497 and for the handicap itself $350,083. Both are expected to be exceeded tomorrow. The record crowd for Santa Anita park is 46,000, and this will doubtless be surpassed. All boxes and clubhouse seats were sold ten days ago.

Indian Broom, which likes muddy going, is another nominee from Maj. Taylor's stable. Indian Broom beat several of his rivals in a recent tuneup for the race. [Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Michigan Ties Minnesota for Big Ten Hocky Title

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 26.—(AP)—With only eleven seconds of the game remaining, Capt. Vic Heyliger gave Michigan a 3 to 2 victory tonight over Minnesota to place the Wolverines in a tie with the Gophers for the Big Ten hocky title.

Talking It Over

INDIANA students disliked the nickname, "Fancy Dans," applied to the Hoosier basketball players by eastern writers, but Dave Hoff, sports editor of the Daily Illini, has adopted the sobriquet and says he will keep on using it until the Indiana Student, the Hoosiers' college daily, quits calling the Illini Suckers. . . . One guess at the derivation of Fancy Dans is that it is a hillbilly term applied to those with dudish tendencies. . . . Ed [Strangler] Lewis reached the final round of a recent contract bridge tournament in Kansas City. . . . The American Legion is attempting to promote an annual post-season football game at Phoenix, Ariz., and call it the Citrus Bowl game. . . . Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the world champion New York Yankees, is building a rathskeller in the basement of the brewery in which he used to hold those publicity salary disputes with Babe Ruth. . . .

George Varoff, holder of the world's indoor and outdoor pole vault records, is majoring in music at the University of Oregon. . . . Roman Soldier, the handicap star for whom Owner Elwood Sachenmaier recently refused a $60,000 offer, was originally purchased for $100. . . . Pete Reilly the boxing manager and hot-foot specialist, says the proper places to apply a boxer's bandages are the wrist and back of the hand and not on the knuckles. . . . Frank Bissell of Hyannisport, Mass., spent his freshman year at Michigan teaching Harry Kipke how to sail his yawl. . . . Then Kipke spent the next three years teaching Bissell how to play football. . . .

The full name of Gus Dorais, University of Detroit football coach, is Charles Emile Dorais. . . . Stella Walsh, the sprinter, finds baseball the most effective method of conditioning herself for championship meets. . . . Michigan hasn't figured in a Big Ten basketball title since 1929. . . . INDIANA AIMS TO DIM PURDUE HOPES TONIGHT

All Western Conference Teams in Action.

Games Tonight

Indiana at Purdue.
Illinois at Iowa.
Michigan at Ohio State.
Wisconsin at Minnesota.
Chicago at Northwestern.

Indiana, co-champion with Purdue last season, is definitly out of this season's Western conference basketball struggle, but will have its chance to spoil the Boilermakers' hopes when the two teams battle tonight at Lafayette in the feature of a program which brings all ten teams into action.

The Hoosiers, who have won five games and lost as many for a .500 percentage, are quite capable of upsetting the team which is now seeking its share of a fourth consecutive Big Ten title. To do so, however, they must tie up Jewell Young, the Purdue forward who has been making a runaway of the race for individual scoring honors. Young has piled up 141 points, and needs only 28 more in his remaining two games to outdo the all time record of 168, held by Joe Reiff of Northwestern.

Illini Battle Hawkeyes.

There will also be considerable interest attached to the Illinois-Iowa game tonight at Iowa City. The Illini have moved into undisputed possession of first place with eight victories and two defeats, placing them half a game ahead of Minnesota and Michigan. The latter two teams kept in the fight last Monday, when the Wolverines whipped Purdue, 31 to 16, and the Gophers crushed Iowa, 44 to 25.

Both Michigan and Minnesota will have their hands full tonight. The Wolverines anticipate a battle from Ohio State at Columbus, while the Gophers, who are surprisingly close to a portion of their first championship in eighteen seasons, are entertaining Wisconsin.

Chicago at N. U.

One of the best games of the night, despite the fact that both are out of the contention, will bring together Chicago and Northwestern at Patten gym. The Maroons have yet to win a conference game, but have improved so much that they will undoubtedly press the Wildcats to the limit. The latter, with a revised lineup, scored their third victory last Monday with a convincing 44 to 29 triumph over Ohio State.

B. W. THOMSON, NEW YORK SPORT EDITOR, IS DEAD

New York, Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Bernard William St. Denis Thomson for twenty-one years sports editor of the New York Times, died of pneumonia tonight at St. Luke's hospital.

Thomson, who was 64 years old, joined the staf of the Times in September, 1915, as assistant Sunday editor. Two months later he was appointed sports editor to succeed the late Harry Burchall. Except for an absence of nearly two years during the world war he held that position until the time of his death.

MISSES HEMPHILL, MILEY GAIN FINAL IN FLORIDA GOLF

Ormond Beach, Fla., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Medalist Kathryn Hemphill of Columbia, S. C., will play Marian Miley of Lexington, Ky., for the South Atlantic Women's golf championship here tomorrow.

Dorothy Traung of San Francisco was beaten by Miss Miley, 3 to 2, today. A day earlier the latter had eliminated Patty Berg of Minneapolis. Miss Hemphill reached the final round by trouncing Mrs. William Hockinjos of Lake Hopatcong, N. J.

LOTS OF NERVE

You Just Can't MakeLubovich Holler 'Nuff'!

His Milwaukee admirers always have maintained Nicolas Lubovich, one of the light heavyweights who'll be back for the finals of the tenth annual Golden Gloves tournament next Friday, possessed courage, if nothing else. And Lubovich, regarded as Wisconsin's foremost 175 pounder, has proved it time and again. It is his chief asset.

The last time was Wednesday night at the Chicago Stadium. Knocked down by an unexpected punch in the first round, Lubovich, apparently hurt but never a quitter, arose at the count of nine, pulled himself together and tore into Gene Davis, his Chicago opponent. The ultimate result was a Lubovich victory.

Beaten Only Once.

Lubovich, a Serbian youth, has several other distinctions, including the record of having been beaten only once since he began his career in amateur boxing. He holds a victory over Mike Minnich, one of Cleveland's two survivors in the tournament, and hopes the luck of the draw will pit him against the Ohioan next Friday night.

"I'll whip him again," Lubovich says. "I believe the championship in our weight will go either to him or to me."

Modest and sincere in all he undertakes, Lubovich, a swimming pool attendant in the Milwaukee Eagles club, trains assiduously. This quality and his readiness to learn make him a prize pupil, in the opinion of Coach Brown, who has been handling amateurs for more than a decade. Brown predicted Lubovich would be a winner in THE TRIBUNE'S tournament, a month before the battling opened.

Rough Road Ahead.

As capable as he appears, Lubovich admits the road ahead is rocky. He's started training again and won't be sidetracked.

Milwaukee, which in the last seven years has had several boys on the Chicago inter-city team, produced the first Chicago Golden Gloves light heavyweight champion. He was Dave Maier, a southpaw and a good one, who won back in 1928. Lubovich is out to emulate Maier's record.

Nicolas has just turned 22 and, figures with another season or so among the amateurs, he'll be ready to turn pro as a means of earning a living.

MONTANEZ WINS 15 ROUND BOUT WITH VENTURI

New York, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Pedro Montanez of Porto Rico punched his way to the decision over his Italian rival, Enrico Venturi, in 15 rounds at Madison Square Garden tonight. Montanez, 135¾, floored his rival twice but failed to keep him down. Venturi scaled 134½.

A crowd of 15,895 fans, who contributed to a gross gate of $31,110.04, was in constant uproar as the harder-hitting Montanez rallied from a slow start to outpunch the black haired, sharp eyed Italian champion in a match that was furiously fought from start to finish.

21,000 WILL SEE CHAMPIONSHIP BOUTS FRIDAY

All Seats Go Week in Advance Again.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Thirty-two winners in Chicago's greatest Tournament of Champions, representing 12 of the 17 states in Golden Gloves land, will go into the ring for their final tests Friday night at the Stadium before a capacity crowd of more than 21,000. All seats in the nation's largest indoor arena have been sold. Unless you know a friend or neighbor who will share his tickets, you won't be present Friday night.

For the second consecutive year Chicago's Golden Gloves finals have been sold out a week in advance of the bouts. This, however, has not been unusual in the history of the country's finest boxing tournament. Back in 1931, for instance, when the finals were held in the Stadium for the first time, 23,200 watched the championships. This attendance established an all time record for indoor boxing, professional or amateur, a record which cannot be equaled because the seating arangements at the Stadium have been changed since then by sloping the ringside seats up to the first row of the mezzanine. In 1931 the ringside seats extended back and underneath the mezzanine.

Twelve States Set Record.

This phenomenal record of the popularity of Golden Gloves is based, among other reasons, on the widespread growth of amateur boxing and corresponding improvement in all sections. Twelve states, which will be represented Friday night at the Stadium, form the largest group since the beginning of the tournament. Illinois, with the largest number of tournaments, also leads with 10 of the 32 semi-finalists. Eight of these boys come from Chicago and half this number are affiliated with the Catholic Youth organization. Streator and Centralia also will be represented Friday night.

Indiana will have four semi-finalists. They come from Gary, South Bend, and Terre Haute. Other states are Michigan, Ohio, Missouri, Oklahoma, Nebraska, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Tennessee, and Georgia.

Favor C. Y. O. Team.

The team trophy for the greatest number of points scored in the semi-finals and finals undoubtedly will be awarded again to the C. Y. O. The Savoy Athletic club has an outside chance, however. Five points are scored for each championship. Three points are scored for the defeated finalist and each defeated semi-finalist scores one point for his team. Thus the battle for the out of town team trophy, which was shared last year by Omaha and Cleveland, seems a wide open scrap. There is a possibility that several teams will tie for this trophy.

General observation of this year's boxers is that Chicago will have one of its greatest intercity teams when the squad is named for the bouts which will be held at the Chicago Stadium, March 24.

Last year, in the eighth annual intercity tournament, which was held in Madison Square Garden, Chicago and New York tied with eight bouts each. Thus the standings for this series now are: Chicago, four victories; New York, two, and two tied. Chicago leads in total number of bouts. Chicago also holds the record for the most complete victory, winning 13 to 3 in 1931. The next year New York almost equaled that record, winning 12 bouts to 4.

Chicago Wins Eight Straight.

The record of the 1935 Chicago team furnishes the best example of a rally. New York led, 5 to 3, after the the first half of the matches had been concluded. Then Chicago won eight consecutive fights, scoring a slam in the welterweight, middleweight, light heavyweight and heavyweight classes. Many now assert that at least in the heavyweight class the Chicago team will be superb.

Friday night four great fighters will come together in the heavyweight class. Paul Hartnek of Omaha, Neb., is the defending champion. Lem Franklin, a great heavyweight from Cleveland, is outstanding. Franklin lost a close decision to Hartnek last spring, but in that bout Hartnek fractured his hand and thus forfeited a chance to win a place on the United States Olympic boxing team. Bob Dennis of Detroit, and Elza Thompson of Indianapolis complete the heavyweight class.

Show Opens at 8 P. M.

The semi-final starts at 8 o'clock Friday night with the two-semi-final matches in the flyweight class. All 32 contestants will report at the Stadium between 12 noon and 2 p. m. for their physical examinations and to be weighed. Pairings will be made on lot at 2 o'clock.

Sammy Baugh Will Serve as T. C. U. Freshman Coach

Fort Worth, Tex., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Sam Baugh, the "slingin' man" from Texas Christian university, today accepted the post of freshman football, baseball and basketball coach at his alma mater.

GULDAHL, SMITH AND COOPER TIE IN FLORIDA GOLF

Hold 18 Hole Playoff on Monday.

St. Petersburg, Fla., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Three top ranking professional golfers, Ralph Guldahl, Harry Cooper, and Horton Smith, all of Chicago, tied today for first place in the St. Petersburg open golf tournament with seventy-two hole scores of 284.

Harry Cooper.

They will meet in an eighteen hole playoff Monday afternoon.

Roaring down the stretch with subpar shooting, Guldahl, Cooper, and Smith overhauled Johnny Revolta, former P. G. A. champion from Evanston, Ill., and the fifty-four hole leader, on the outgoing nine of the final round. The three will play off for the three money prizes, totaling $1,500.

Each of the three leaders carded a 71, 1 under par, on the final round. Revolta, who led by 2 strokes at 211 after fifty-four holes of play, slumped to 75, taking a seven on one hole.

Revolta's Rally Fails.

Revolta lost his lead on the first nine holes when he went 4 over par, but made a brilliant comeback for a 35, 1 under par, on the incoming nine. He could do no better than a 286 to tie Clarence Doser, Rochester, N. Y., for fifth and sixth money.

Harold [Jug] McSpaden of Winchester, Mass., put together cards of 70 and 72 on the last two rounds to finish with 285, 1 stroke behind the three leaders.

Guldahl, finishing in next to the last threesome with Revolta, needed a birdie 4 on the home hole to avoid a tie. Just short of the green with his second shot, he overran the hole with his chip and missed an 8 foot putt coming back.

McSpaden Wins $280.

The tournament carried $3,000 in cash prizes. First money was $700, second money $450, and third $350. McSpaden, finishing fourth, received $280. Revolta and Doser split $400.

Tying at 289 for eight, ninth, and tenth places and receiving $120 each were Chandler Harper, Portsmouth, Va.; Sam Snead, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., and Dick Metz, Chicago, winner of the Thomasville, Ga., open earlier in the week.

The $60 fourteenth prize was divided by four professionals, E. J. Harrison, Little Rock, Ark.; Frank Moore, Cleveland; Byron Nelson, Reading, Pa., and Orville White, Chicago, who finished at 291.

UNDEFEATED N.U. SWIMMING TEAM FACES ILLINOIS

Northwestern's undefeated swimming team will seek its seventh consecutive Big Ten victory against Illinois in Patten pool at 3 p. m. today. Both teams are strong contenders for the Western conference title, with Illinois suffering its only loss to Iowa, last year's champion, which held Northwestern to a 42 to 42 tie.

Gomez Cuts to $15,000; Ruppert Still Bids $12,500

New York, Feb. 26.—[Special.]—The third conference today between Col. Jake Ruppert, New York Yankee owner, and his holdout pitcher, Lefty Gomez, failed to bring them together on a salary agreement. Gomez, who originally had demanded $18,000, said he offered to sign for $15,000 today. Ruppert refused to raise his bid of $12,500.

Time, 1:24 4-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Time Me $49.70 straight, $21.90 place, $10.90 show; Flying Banner $5.10 place, $3.60 show; Clamorous $3.50 show. Winner, br. f., 3, by Time Maker-Pinta. Owner, G. McNaughton. Trainer, A. Bellevue.

TIME ME was sent to the front with a rush, opened wide gap entering stretch, but was doing her best to win. FLYING BANNER was allowed to drop far out of it, was taken very wide and closed with a rush and would have won in a few more strides. CLAMOROUS moved up fast, but weakened suddenly. NAD ran good race.

SIXTH RACE—One mile and a furlong. Four year olds and up. Claiming. Purse, $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second $150; third, $100; fourth, $50.

AMERICAN BELLE swung around Prettylass, assumed lead, drew away, and won nicely in hand. PRETTYLASS was hustled along all the way and made a game effort. MISS CAPERS got away good, but was allowed to drop back, came again at end. KNACK was allowed to go very wide on first turn, moved up fast and then tired. VESTED POWER broke down and was pulled up.

SEVENTH RACE—One mile and a furlong. Four year olds and up. Claiming. Purse, $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50.

HARPER UPSETS CALUMET, TIES FOR FIRST PLACE

First Defeat of Season for Home Team.

Harper defeated Calumet, 20 to 19, yesterday and tied the losers for the senior championship in the south section of the City High School Basketball league. It was Calumet's first defeat in 22 games, including the University of Chicago holiday tournament, which was won by the south side school.

In the last quarter Calumet took a 19 to 18 lead when Fred sank a short shot. Then with less than two minutes remaining some one in the crowd fired a cap pistol.

The teams started for the showers and the crowd began to straggle out before the timekeepers discovered that the game was not over. The teams were called back and Plahn flipped in a long shot to give Harper the victory. The game was played at Calumet.

Lake View fought overtime to defeat Schurz, 29 to 28, and win second place in the north side senior race. Lane defeated Steinmetz, 25 to 20, to win the title.

Harrison defeated Farragut, 34 to 27, in the junior playoff game to determine second place in the central section.

LOYOLA HEAVIES WIN

Loyola academy heavyweights entered the playoffs for the Catholic league title by defeating Weber, 32 to 18, and clinching the north section championship. This was the seventh victory in eight starts for Loyola.

Fenwick, winner of the west section championship, entered its sectional schedule by downing St. Patrick, 37 to 17. Fenwick will meet Loyola next Saturday in the semi-finals and the winner will play Catholic High of Joliet for the championship.

In the lightweight division St. George captured the north section crown, Mount Carmel finished first in the south division, and the west section race ended in a tie between St. Mel and St. Patrick.

PLAY TWO OVERTIMES

The close of Suburban league last night was featured by a double overtime game in which Evanston defeated Morton, 38 to 36, in the heavyweight division. The frosh-soph and heavyweight titles were clinched by Oak Park and Proviso, respectively, two weeks ago.

Proviso heavies whipped Waukegan, 41 to 16, to go through the season undefeated. The Maywood team piled 427 points to opponents' 245 in winning their second successive title.

J. HAYES CLAIMS J. LOU'S BUSHEL HIDES HIS LIGHT

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Jack Hayes, one of the three remaining White Sox holdouts, feels that his light has been hidden under J. Lou Comiskey's bushel all these years and it is high time J. Lou paid something additional for having so used his bushel to smother Jackie's gleaming skill at second base and at the batting plate.

Jack Hayes.

Jack unfolded many complaints in support of his claims of stifling in a letter received yesterday by Mr. Comiskey. Mr. Comiskey complained he didn't know anything about any bushel that anything had been hidden under. Then he went direct to the matter of Hayes' demands anent remuneration for his 1937 services. He said that he will not make any concessions to Jack that he had not made before he received yesterday's letter.

Batted .319 in 1936.

Hayes, an Alabaman, like Sugar Cain, his teammate from neighboring Georgia, was offered a $2,000 raise over his last year's contract.

Hayes, at the age of 30, had his best season last year. He batted .319. In a ten year major league career, his first nine years produced a grand batting average of .262 in 688 games. Despite the contrasts afforded in comparing last year's work with that on nine previous seasons, Hayes' letter did not feature 1936 to the exclusion of the other years. It was in 1934, when Jack appeared in only sixty-two games, and in 1935, when he was in eighty-nine, that the Alabaman feels that the bushel-light business developed.

Asks to Be Sold.

Jack, according to Mr. Comiskey, said that if the White Sox are not willing to pay him what he thinks he is worth they should sell him. In fact he said that the White Sox, to have been fair, should have sold or traded him after he had played in 138 games in 1933, his second season after the Sox obtained him.

LA FOLLETTE WINS PARK DISTRICT SWIMMING TITLE

Two records, one in the midget and the other in the senior division, were broken in the finals of the Chicago parks district city-wide indoor swimming championship finals at La Follette park last night. La Follette Park scored 56 points to win the championship. Chopin finished second with a total of 33, and Portage Park was third with 18. Table of points:

La Follette Park	56	Cornell Square	5
Chopin Park	33	Ogden Park	5
Portage Park	18	Fuller Park	3
Kilbourne	17	Ridge	3
Independence	15	Marquette	2

YE ED'S COMMENT.

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., Feb. 26.—Ye Ed, in his usual sprightly and happy vein, was guest speaker at a basket luncheon last Sunday at Ocean pavilion, given by section 1 of the Florida state branch of the National Association of Letter Carriers, with visitors present from all parts of the state and a group of retired carriers from Cleveland, O.

After a delectable repast of home delicacies containing a minimum of sand, prepared by the ladies' auxiliary, principal business before the body was vicious dogs and remedial legislation. Several delegates exhibited scars, while others told of torn raiment incurred during their duties. When one lean carrier remarked many dogs on his route were not only vicious but half starved a visitor with a wholly mistaken sense of humor suggested fatter carriers.

It also was disclosed during discussion that in one case where a lower court had awarded proper damages to a faithful public servant bitten while on his route a higher court lowered the amount on the ground that a dog under common law was entitled to "one bite" before being pronounced "vicious."

At this time ye ed's right to be present was questioned on the ground he was an interested party. Chairman Sladke of Miami ruled, probably correctly, that as a former resident of Illinois ye ed was a Sucker, and that suckers in Florida bite harder than dogs. So we retired, subsequently to learn that a resolution was passed to urge a law already prevailing in California and New Jersey:

Providing for the recovery of damages by persons bitten by dogs and creating a liability of the owners of such dogs.

The owners of such dogs which shall bite any person while such person is on or in a public place, or lawfully on or in a private place, including the property of the owner of such dog, shall be liable for such damages as may be suffered by the person bitten, regardless of the former viciousness of such dog or the owner's knowledge of such viciousness. A person is lawfully upon property of such owners within the meaning of this act when he is on such property in the performance of any duty imposed on him by the laws of the state or by the laws of the postal regulations of the United States of America, or when he is on such property upon the invitation, expressed or implied, of the owner thereof. This act shall take effect immediately.

It will be the purpose of ye ed to campaign vigorously for this meritorious legislation.

Some Dreamy Dusk.

Some dusk when night comes sauntering down the street
And droops her listless shadow past our door,
Draw gently close beside me in my arms
And we shall build a dream upon the floor
And drape a shawl of ivory tinted clouds
Around the slender shoulders of the breeze,
Together band a host of silver stars
Upon the towering moon enchanted trees.
And little will it matter what we do,
For no one else but you and I shall know
Of things we did and happiness we found
Within a dream we dreamed once long ago. John C. Metcalfe.

VENZKE TO RISK HIS A. A. U. TITLE INDOORS TONIGHT

New York, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Indoor track and field competition reaches its peak tomorrow when 13 champions, ten of them individual title-holders, defend their laurels in the National A. A. U. games at Madison Square Garden.

The meet, bringing together 29 Olympic games contestants from five nations, owners of 30 world records and outstanding entrants from 35 colleges and universities and 17 clubs, figures to develop into a record smashing orgy.

Threatened most seriously will be marks for the 600, 1,000 and 1,500 meter runs and the 1,000 and 2,900 meter relays. There are at least a half-dozen other events, however, in which new standards potentially are in the grasp of the all-star array of athletes.

Venzke in Title Defense.

Once again the 1,500 meter run holds the spotlight with Gene Venzke defending the title he won in world record time of 3:49.9 last year. He has been beaten consistenly this season by Glenn Cunningham, the favorite, and there is the added threat of Don Lash, Indiana's champion two miler and Luigi Beccali, 1932 Olympic champion from Italy.

INDIANA, 57; ILLINOIS, 38

Bloomington, Ind., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Winning slams in three events, the mile, two mile, and 440 yard run, the Indiana university track team defeated Illinois, 57 to 38, in a Big Ten dual meet tonight.

Bob Collier of Indiana tied the fieldhouse record of :06.2 in the 60 yard dash, defeating Bob Grieve, Illinois star. Summaries:

Bulla Tells How Mysterious Mr. Montague Hits Them

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

John Montague, the mysterious Californian about whose golfing prowess there has arisen a chain of almost fabulous legends in recent years, is a real person who hits a golf ball as well, if not more precociously, than he was reported to when he first came to fame last year.

Latest witness to break down the Montague myth into actual fact is Johnny Bulla, the giant young pro from Chicago's Woodridge Country club. Just the other day Bulla, who is ranked as one of the longest hitters in American golf, returned from the Pacific coast tournament circuit, singing the praises of Montague on the basis of having played nine holes with him.

Montague first came to public notice last year when a couple of New York golf writers managed to see him play a few holes and promptly called him the greatest golfer in the land. Prior to their reports on his play a number of leading professionals had already subscribed to the same belief.

It's Easy for Him.

Last month a national news magazine managed to obtain the first pictures ever taken of the mystery man who two years ago admittedly had won all three sides of a Nassau match against Gene Sarazen at the Lakeside course in Hollywood despite the fact that Gene had a 66. Montague was credited with a 64. Three years ago he was reliably reported to have refused to play Craig Wood of New York for $1,000 because, as he told Wood, who was then enjoying the greatest golf of his career, he could beat him so easily it would be unfair to Wood even to try. The few acquaintances Montague had at the time told Wood that Montague had seldom failed to shoot in the 60s, having recorded a 66 on the difficult Pebble Beach links at Del Monte, Cal.

Despite the admission of his golfing talents, Montague's small circle of friends know little of his origin, although he is understood to be interested in several valuable western mining properties. Eastern and middle western professionals who had never been to the coast scoffed at him as a product of a press agent's imagination.

Bulla Meets Montague.

Young Bulla, who had heard many a tale of Montague's ability, was one of the skeptics. Last November, when such a gifted swinger as Henry Picard told Johnny that Montague's golf was all it had been made out to be, the big Chicago pro was still unconvinced.

"I went out to the Fox Hills course in Culver City to qualify for the Los Angeles open," Bulla states, and while waiting to start, heard that Montague was on the grounds.

I introduced myself, and added that I would like to play a few holes with him. He's around 35 years old, stands 5 feet 10 inches and weighs 220 pounds. He has a pair of shoulders just like Jimmy Thomson, a head of black hair which is now graying, and an unusually deep voice. His fingers are stubby, but I believed all of the stories of his strength when he took my hand [Bulla wears a size 10½ glove] and nearly pulverized it.

Masterful Iron Shot.

"Later I saw him on a practice tee at the Griffith park course, where the Los Angeles open proper was played. He was hitting practice shots with a 5 iron at Craig Wood's request. Craig asked him to hit some fade shots to a caddy standing about 175 yards down the fairway. He smacked a half dozen such wallops, each one fading 10 or 12 yards, right to the feet of the caddy, who never had to move. He repeated the operation with a number of hooked shots. Craig then asked him a hard one, demanding a series of 5 irons to a fast green, with plenty of backspin. I've never seen such shots as those, all executed so beautifully that the backspin ranged from six to eight yards.

"During the same week, I played nine holes with him, and that gave me a chance to watch his wood shots. He smacks his drives 280 and 290 yards, all perfectly straight, and hit a No. 1 iron for Wood 240 yards, the ball traveling straight as a bullet."

A Strong Man Too.

While on the coast, Johnny also verified several other stories having to do with Montague's strength off a golf course. One was the incident in which Montague grasped a Hollywood movie comedian who had become too loudly profane in a locker room, stood him upside down in a locker, closed it and refused to allow friends to liberate him until the comedian promised to calm down. Still another had to do with his smashing an old fashioned glass when he became irritated by another member's conduct, cutting his hand so that he was unable to play for eight months.

Bulla returned to Woodridge after having pulled a back muscle during the qualifying round of the San Francisco open.

Detroit Faces Ramblers in Polo Match

Two polo games tonight at the 124th Field Artillery armory, Cottage Grove avenue and 52d street, will go a long way toward determining the Metropolitan league titles in both senior and junior divisions.

Meeting in the first game of the evening will be the only undefeated teams in the race, the Chicago Shamrocks and Olympia Fields. This will be followed by a senior division engagement between the Detroit Gold Hats and the Chicago Ramblers, with a share of a four way tie for first as a reward for the winner.

With Lieut. Jim McAnulty, Capt. Les Ireland, and Lieut. Chris Schuh in the lineup, the Shamrocks will present the combination that captured the national low goal title last year.

DE PAUL WINS FROM ST. JOSEPH QUINTET, 33-27

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—De Paul university's basketball team defeated St. Joseph's college tonight, 33 to 27, before a crowd of 7,000.

The De Paul passers gave one of the finest exhibitions of one-handed shooting here this season and led throughout the battle. De Paul held St. Joseph scoreless for the first eleven minutes of the first half, while, under the leadership of Bill Wendt, the Demms piled up a 13 to 0 margin.

During the final nine minutes of the first period St. Joseph's outscored De Paul, 11 to 3, but the early margin gave the Chicago passers a 16 to 11 edge at the half. Score:

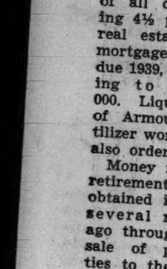
ARMOUR TO PAY $27,813,000 OF REALTY BONDS

Step in Simplification of Capital Structure.

Directors of Armour & Co. yesterday ordered retirement on June 1 of all outstanding 4½ per cent real estate first mortgage bonds, due 1939, amounting to $27,813,000. Liquidation of Armour Fertilizer works was also ordered.



R. H. Cabell.

Money for the retirement was obtained in part several months ago through the sale of properties to the company's principal subsidiary, Armour & Co. of Delaware, and the balance will be obtained through the sale of notes.

Remainder of 1909 Issue.

Bonds presented before the call date, June 1, will be accepted and interest paid to the date of presentation, said the company's announcement. This is the remainder of an issue dated June 1, 1909. Ten millions of the $37,813,000 issue were retired on June 1, 1936.

"This is another step in the program directed toward simplifying the company's capital structure," said R. H. Cabell, president. "Existing laws discourage involved corporate structure such as was necessary and desirable in the past.

Liquidates Some of Units.

"Recently we liquidated the North American Provision company, a wholly owned subsidiary, and the J. K. Mosser Leather corporation, which was almost wholly owned. Today the board ordered the liquidation of the Armour fertilizer works another wholly owned subsidiary, and the folding in of its assets with those of the parent company.

"This work of consolidation is proceeding satisfactorily, and ultimately we look forward to having our principal business activities centered in a single corporation, with resulting savings in taxes and administrative costs."

Capt. R. H. Cabell Jr. of London, son of President Cabell, who has charge of Armour's European business, is visiting the general offices here this week.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

Saturday, February 27, 1937.

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune.]

John R. Thompson Company.

Investors' Guide: Would you please give me a report on John R. Thompson company?—M. R.

Answer: This company operates 120 restaurants of the cafeteria type in 38 cities. It owns real estate in Chicago, New York, St. Louis, Atlanta, Pittsburgh, Albany, Peoria and Bloomington and has long term leases on some of its restaurant properties. Henrici's, well known Chicago eating place, was acquired in 1929. There are more than 40 Thompson restaurants in Chicago and 14 in the New York metropolitan area.

A consistent money maker for many years, the company produced net income of $1,002,000 to $1,530,000 annually from 1921 through 1930. Sharp reverses were suffered during depression years, however. Net income dropped to $904,000 in 1931 and $280,000 in 1932. Losses of $186,000, $172,000 and $53,000 followed in the next three years.

Definite improvement in earnings occurred during the latter part of 1935 and continued through 1936. As the result of an excellent fourth quarter, the company was able to show net income of $187,000, or 32 cents a share, last year. Net income was $69,000, or 23 cents a share, during the first nine months of 1936.

Sales dropped from a peak of $15,743,000 in 1929 to $10,935,000 in 1933 and recovered to $11,248,000 in 1935.

Financial position is satisfactory, current assets being $1,951,000, against current liabilities of $584,000, on June 30, 1936.

Capitalization outstanding consists solely of 298,464 shares of $25 par value common stock.

Dividends have been paid regularly in varying amounts since 1916. The regular rate has been 12½ cents quarterly since May, 1934. An extra of 10 cents a share was paid in December, lifting 1936 payments to 60 cents. The most paid in any recent year was $4 a share in 1928.

The company is following a policy of acquiring additional restaurants where advantageous locations and leases can be obtained. Half a dozen new restaurants have been opened since the middle of 1935. Properties are being air conditioned and modernized where expenditures are justified by business conditions. Having passed the "break even" point, the company should obtain a larger proportion of profit from any increases it is able to build in volume of business.

The stock appears to be medium grade and somewhat speculative at present.

LARGEST PROFIT SINCE '29 SHOWN BY RADIO CORP.

Earns 20 Cents Per Common Share.

Radio Corporation of America last year had the largest profit since 1929, the annual report issued by James G. Harbord, chairman, and David Sarnoff, president, disclosed yesterday.

James G. Harbord.

Net income amounted to 6,155,937, equivalent to 20½ cents a share on common stock. This is an increase of 20 per cent over 1935 profits of $5,126,872, which failed to cover preferred stock dividend requirements and left nothing for the common shares.

Gross income was $101,186,310, compared with $89,228,898, while costs of operations totaled $89,722,151, against $78,885,740.

Directors declared the regular quarterly dividend of 87½ cents a share on the $3.50 preferred stock, payable April 1 to stock of record March 10.

Preferred Dividends Reduced.

Through operation of a recapitalization plan adopted last April, annual preferred dividend requirements were reduced from $5,569,100 to $3,235,100. Accrued dividends on the B preferred stock totaling $17,255,182 when the recapitalization plan was approved were reduced to $463,391 at the close of the year.

The plan called for redemption of all 7 per cent preferred stock and exchange of B preferred into new $3.50 convertible preferred and common stocks. A total of 749,244 shares of $5 preferred B were exchanged during the year for 899,093 shares of new preferred and 749,244 shares of common, leaving only 17,653 shares of B preferred outstanding.

Explains Cash Position.

"During 1936," the report said, "the corporation's cash position was affected by certain major expenditures outside the scope of normal operations. The largest of these was $27,257,857 for the redemption of the 495,597 shares of A preferred stock, which required borrowing $10,000,000 from banks at 2½ per cent interest. This loan falls due in 1941. In addition, payments for retirement or reduction of mortgages and notes totaled $2,788,377.

Capital expenditures for normal additions and improvements to manufacturing, broadcasting, communications and television facilities and equipment amounted to $3,589,402."

The report said the average number of employés in the RCA organization last year was 21,942, against 19,544 during 1935. The total number of stockholders on Dec. 31, was 242,614.

Hearing on Insurance Code Will Be Opened on March 3

Ernest Palmer, state director of insurance, said yesterday that public hearings on the proposed insurance code would begin March 3 in Springfield, Ill., before the senate committee on insurance.

Everyday Economics

In response to requests from readers for simple explanations of financial terms and brief analyses of factors affecting business and finance, The Tribune presents "Everyday Economics." Letters addressed to "Editor, Everyday Economics," telling him what you would like to see discussed here are welcomed. Clippings of this daily feature pasted in your scrapbook make a handy reference volume, useful in following current financial news developments.

Long and Short Haul Clause.

The "long and short haul" clause of the interstate commerce act provides that no railroad shall charge less for a longer than a shorter haul, the latter included within the former. This means that if a railroad charges a Chicago manufacturer a certain rate for hauling a shipment to Reno, Nev., it may not charge less for hauling a similar shipment to San Francisco, without obtaining special dispensation from the politically appointed interstate commerce commission.

When this provision was included in the original interstate commerce commission act of 1887 it seemed to constitute no threat to the prosperity of the middlewest. In 1914, however, with the completion of the Panama canal, it began to hurt industries in the central states, because high railroad freight rates from the middlewest to the Pacific coast made it difficult for shippers in the middle west to compete with shippers on the eastern seaboard who could take advantage of the cheaper steamship rates.

Opposition to the railroad's requests for permission to lower their rates to Pacific coast cities without reducing all intermediate rates has for years come from a small group of merchants in the Rocky Mountain states who developed powerful political support. The railroads figure they could get enough additional business to offset the reduced rate if the "long and short haul" provision were repealed. The Rocky Mountain group have always figured that they could sandbag the railroads into producing all western rates by blocking the reductions to coast points.

Lead Firm's Profits Soar as Metals Rise

Marked reflection of the increased activity in metal markets last year was given yesterday in the earnings report for 1936 issued by the St. Joseph Lead company. Net income amounted to $2,511,002, equal to $1.28 a share, compared with $486,200, or 25 cents a share, earned in 1935.

The report was one of a number issued by companies in widely divergent fields of activity.

Another metal concern, American Zinc, Lead, and Smelting company, also reported a large increase in profits, which were $52,336 in 1936 and compared with a net loss of $219,150 in 1935. Last year's net earnings were equal to 69 cents a share on the $5 convertible prior preferred stock.

Fisk Rubber Has Profit.

Fisk Rubber company earned $243,643 last year, President Charles C. Speaks reported. This compares with a deficit of $274,775 in 1935. Sales rose 25 per cent and were the largest since the company was reorganized four years ago, Speaks said.

Houston Oil company of Texas in its 1936 annual report showed net income of $500,441, against $837,640 a year earlier. This was equal to $1.40 a share on the 6 per cent preferred stock, compared with 27 cents a share on the common stock in the preceding year.

Eaton Manufacturing company, automobile parts maker, reported 1936 profit of $2,390,598, against $1,838,489 in 1935. The return equaled $3.43 a share, compared with $2.65 a share in the previous year.

Banlamerica-Blair corporation reported 1936 net profit of $2,723,827, 669, or 73 cents a share, in 1935.

NATL. LEATHER SETS UP PLAN TO LIQUIDATE

Directors of the National Leather company recommend liquidation of the company under plans whereby preferred and common stock holders would participate in the distribution of assets, Harold N. Goodspeed, president, announced yesterday in a letter to stockholders. Shareholders will be asked to approve the move at the annual meeting on March 19.

Swift & Co. and Libby, McNeill & Libby, which own 99 per cent of the preferred stock, paved the way for the move by offering to advance necessary funds, Goodspeed said.

The plan provides that common stock holders receive one share of capital stock in A. C. Lawrence Leather company, principal operating subsidiary, for each ten shares of common stock now held. Goodspeed said the Lawrence common shares have a book value of $11 each.

"It will be impossible to state the exact distribution to be made to prepreferred stock holders until expiration of the ninety day option period given common share holders in which to surrender their shares," said the statement.

SPIEGEL'S ISSUE OF PREFERRED STOCK APPROVED

Creation of a new class of preferred stock to provide working capital and funds for the redemption of outstanding 6½ per cent preferred, was approved yesterday by stockholders of Spiegel, Inc.

M. J. Spiegel Jr., general manager, said a banking syndicate headed by Brown, Harriman & Co. and Goldman, Sachs & Co., will probably offer 100,000 of the new shares when the registration statement becomes effective.

The stock will pay a $4.50 annual dividend and will be convertible for three years into common stock in the ratio of 3 1-3 shares for each share of preferred; and thereafter at higher prices for seven years. The offering price has not been determined.

PACKERS' RAIL RATE CUT PLEA DENIED BY I. C. C.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—(AP)—The Interstate commerce commission announced today the dismissal of complaints of the Midwest Association of Meat Packers that Western railroad freight rates on live stock are unreasonable.

The association charged that carload rates on cattle, calves, sheep, and hogs from the western rate making district were too high to points east of the Indiana-Illinois state line.

STOCK PRICES RISE, BUT TRADE TOTAL SHRINKS

Steel and Railroad Shares Prominent.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 26.—A flurry of buying in the afternoon provided a mild stimulus for stock market prices today and the general list closed irregularly higher. In most instances final prices showed gains ranging from fractions to more than a point.

Traders did not appear as unsettled as during recent sessions, but seemed disinclined to commit themselves heavily pending the development of a more definite trend. As a result the session was one of the slowest of the year, total sales amounting to approximately 1,775,790 shares. As has been the case nearly all week, low priced issues again came in for considerable attention, especially the shares of base metal companies, which, however, lacked their accustomed buoyancy.

Steels, Rails Lead List.

Steel shares and carrier issues played the most prominent part in leading the list higher. News likely to affect the course of the market took on a brighter tinge, with strike developments relegated to the background, at least for the time being. Retail and wholesale trade reports showed striking gains over a year ago and merchandising shares again had a good day.

Railroad shares recorded gains running to more than a point, influenced by trafic and earnings reports. Advances of at least a point were registered by Atchison, Southern Railway, and Union Pacific. Equipment issues found a good following, Westinghouse Airbrake and Lima Locomotive scoring substantial gains.

Steel Advances a Point.

United States Steel rose a point and substantial gains were chalked up by Midland, Republic, and Sloss Sheffield. Bethlehem, however, strayed from the fold, losing more than a point.

Copper shares could do little better than advance fractions. American Zinz, erstwhile favorite of speculators, remained active, but dipped 1¼ points. Callahan Zinc also appeared on the tape frequently, only to close a shade beneath yesterday's final quotation. International Nickel lost 2 points. Other active low priced shares were Park Utah and Motherlode.

Macy's and Marshall Field stood out in the store division, the latter establishing another new high mark. Mail orders were mixed. Farm implement stocks incurred losses running to 2 points.

Chrysler Gains Slightly.

In the motor section Chrysler was more than a point higher at one time, tut subsequent selling left it with only a fraction of the original gain. General Motors fluctuated narrowly.

Utility shares did little to attract attention, but the aviations perked up a bit. Boeing climbed to another new peak and Doughlas worked a point higher.

Loews and Paramount issues were buoyant, the former closing at a net gain of 3½ points. Westinghouse and General Electric moved ahead. Federal Mining, controled by American Smelting, continued its dizzy performance. After its gyrations yesterday, when it lost 5 points, it leaped ahead 12 points today.

FIELD STOCK AT PEAK HERE.

Common stock of Marshall Field & Co. continued to forge ahead on the Chicago exchange yesterday in a market that pointed lower. Field accounted for 3,900 shares of the 66,000 share turnover, and closed 1¼ points higher at 25¼ after setting a new peak for the year at 25¾.

Common stock of Chicago corporation again was the most active issue, but closed unchanged at 6.

Of the 126 issues traded 36 closed higher, 48 were lower, and 42 remained unchanged.

A. V. Booth Quits Grain Trade; Firm Dissolved

Alfred V. Booth yesterday announced his retirement from the grain business and the dissolution of the commission firm bearing his name. He has been a member of the Chicago Board of Trade 48 years, joining the exchange in 1883. He will leave today for Franklin, Tenn., where he will raise wild game.

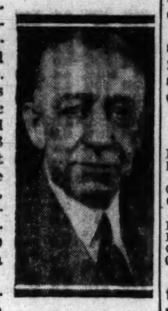
Rails' January Net Operating Income Lower

Operation of the nation's railroads in January resulted in a slightly smaller net operating income, reports of individual roads issued thus far indicate. The first 27 lines to make public their figures had a decline of 0.3 per cent in net operating income from January, 1936, although total operating revenues were 12.9 per cent above a year ago.



H. A. Scandrett. [Moffett Photo.]

However, operations this month are running well ahead of last year, presidents of several roads said yesterday in Washington, where they attended a directors' meeting of the Association of American Railroads.

Reports 10 Per Cent Gain.

Carl Gray, president of the Union Pacific, said February gross of his company would be 10 per cent above last year.

F. E. Williamson, president of the New York Central, declined to give actual figures, but said February gross earnings of the line would be ahead of last year. He said January net income amounted to approximately $700,000, equal to 14 cents a share, compared with a loss of $543,241 in January, 1936. This is the first time since 1930 the road has earned its fixed charges in January. Flood damage on the line will amount to $400,000, he added.

President C. E. Denney of the Erie reported trafic this month is 8 per cent ahead of 1936.

H. A. Scandrett, president of the Milwaukee road, said February business is running ahead of last year, but that revenues would vary little, as there was an extra working day in February, 1936.

Atchison Has Upturn.

The Atchison reported a sharp rise in January net operating income over last year. The total increased to $1,166,367, compared with $480,607 a year ago.

The Chicago and Eastern Illinois also had a substantial upturn from $89,621 in January to $157,937, but other Chicago roads did not fare as well. The Rock Island recorded an operating loss, although this was about that of January, 1936. The Burlington had a net loss of $174,064, compared with a profit of $220,621 in 1936. The Milwaukee reported operating net of $589,064, against $855,178 last year. The North Western had an operating loss compared with an operating profit in 1936.

RAILS AND LABOR MAKE PROGRESS ON PENSION PLAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—Representatives of railroads and railroad labor organizations today told President Roosevelt they are making progress in the government sponsored negotiations for agreement on a railroad retirement pension program.

J. J. Pelley, president of the Association of American Railroads, and George M Harrison, chairman of the Railway Labor Executives' association, in a joint statement after the White House conference, said agreement was near. They said a few differences remain to be ironed out, but expressed the hope that an agreement will be reached within a few weeks.

FREIGHT TRAFIC RISES SHARPLY TO TOTAL OF 714,884 CARS IN WEEK

Freight car loadings in the week ended Feb. 20 totaled 714,884 cars, the Association of American Railroads announced yesterday. This was an increase of 23,266 cars from the preceding week and 128,397 cars from the corresponding week in 1936.

The big rise in trafic was more than seasonal. Loadings of various classifications for last week and comparisons with the preceding week and the corresponding week a year ago follow:

	Last week.	—Change from— Preceding week.	Year ago.

The Dow-Jones loadings index rose to 91.7 from 88.8 in the preceding week.

RISE IN COPPER PRICES CHECKED; LITTLE IS SOLD

The advance in the copper market was checked yesterday. A moderate recession in the London market and the futures market in New York interrupted the advance that has been underway for several days.

Copper for delivery in May dropped 0.15 of a cent to 14.80 cents in New York while copper for immediate delivery in London eased a fraction of a cent. Little was sold.

Rubber, hides, and cocoa prices declined moderately yesterday when sugar and coffee registered gains.

MARSHALL FIELD GETS OFFER FOR SEATTLE STORE

Marshall Field & Co. has been approached on the sale of its Frederick & Nelson department store at Seattle, Wash., but no deal has been closed, it was learned from reliable sources yesterday. The bidder was undisclosed.

Disposal of the store, which is the largest in Seattle, would be in line with the new management's policy of disposing of properties not closely integrated with Field's main merchandising business. However, the store made a favorable profit showing in 1936, and for this reason the company may be reluctant to abandon the west coast business.

The store occupies nearly a block and is five stories high, with 422,600 square feet of floor space. It employs more than 4,000 persons and does an annual business of about 12 million dollars. The store was founded forty-seven years ago by D. E. Fredericks and was purchased by Field's in 1929.

15 MILLION TAIL WAGS 2½ BILLION DOG, SEC INSISTS

Probes Utility Rule of 'Mystery Man.'

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Securities commission counsel sought to prove today that a $15,000,000 tail wagged a $2,500,000,000 dog in the American utilities industry. They contended that the feat was the result of the operations of Harrison Williams, Wall street "mystery man."

L. M. C. Smith, counsel in the SEC investigation of investment trusts, declared that by owning controling shares in Central States Electric corporation, whose stock had a value of $15,000,000 in 1935, Williams enjoyed a controling influence in one-sixth of the nation's light and power properties, worth about 2½ billion dollars.

"Isn't that a small tail to wag such a big dog?" Smith demanded.

Williams made no answer to that.

Stock "Under Water."

The SEC attorney contended that the $15,000,000 in Central States common stock not only had no asset value, but was in fact $2 per share "under water."

Williams acknowledged that it would be necessary for North American corporation stock [one of Central States' units] to sell at $38 or $39 a share before Central States common could get from "under water" and have an asset value.

"North American under normal conditions," Williams declared, "should be selling at that price."

In yesterday's session Williams related how he had skyrocketed an original $2,072,000 into an investment valued at $680,000,000 at the stock market peak in 1929. His personal equity in the holding companies made his share $612,000,000.

Describes Depression Skid.

Today Williams described the depression skid that tumbled the holdings' value from $680,000,000 in August, 1929, to a low of $5,000,000 in 1934. An upswing in 1935 carried the value to $15,000,000. Present values of the holdings were not stated.

The tobogganing market value of Central States from its 1929 peak to 1935, as placed in the commission's records, follows: 1930, $89,000,000; 1931, $24,000,000; 1932, $24,000,000; 1933, $20,000,000; 1934, $5,000,000; 1935, $15,000,000.

While the Central States stock was tumbling, Smith brought out, Williams reduced his holding from 90 per cent control at the market's peak to 50 per cent by selling 1,090,102 shares for $27,189,059.

What He Did with Money.

With that money, Williams answered, he purchased 318,131 Central States shares for $8,212,798; took a loss of $7,000,000 in North American stock in which Central States was a heavy investor; paid $4,756,317 income taxes; and loaned $3,000,000 to Central States.

Even after the reduction in his holdings, Smith declared, Williams' public utilities "empire" was greater than it was in 1929. Williams broke in to say he did not like the use of the word "empire." "You've been reading the papers," he smilingly chided the commission's attorney.

Asset values of the major companies, which SEC counsel said Williams controled on Dec. 31, 1936, were: North American Light and Power, $300,000,000; Pacific Gas and Electric, $650,000,000; United Light and Power, $531,000,000; Detroit Edison, $350,000,000; Northern Natural Gas, $45,000,000; Electric Power Associates, $9,000,000; North American corporation, $750,000,000.

HOLDS MANY POSTS.

Harrison Williams, whose operations have receive comparatively little publicity, is an officer or member of a long list of organizations. Among his more important posts are: President, New Empire corporation and the Northernland corporation; chairman of the executive committee of the North America company; director American Gas and Electric company; member of the board of managers of the New York Zoölogy society; fellow of the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

He is a member of many clubs and other social organizations throughout the United States and in Europe.

Williams was born in Avon, O., in 1873, and received his education in the public schools. His home is in New York City.

BIG COAL FIRM FILES PETITION TO REORGANIZE

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 26.—(AP)—The Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company, one of the largest producers of anthracite in Pennsylvania, asked the United States District court today for permission to reorganize under section 77B of the bankruptcy act.

The company blamed illegal mining, reduction in the use of anthracite products, competition from other fuels, and state and federal taxes for its difficulties. The present management was ordered to continue in control of the company and Howard B. Lewis was appointed special master to hear claims in the case.

Ward to Pay 50c Common, $1.75 on 'A'

Directors of Montgomery Ward & Co. yesterday ordered the distribution of dividends of 50 cents a share on the common stock and $1.75 a share on the class A shares. The company paid a quarterly dividend of 50 cents and a special year-end dividend of $2.00 on Jan. 15. The common dividend will be distributed April 15 and the A stock payment on April 1, to holders of record March 19.

Increases in dividend rates and extra payments were voted yesterday by several concerns. General Candy corporation announced a payment of 25 cents on the A stock. In 1936 the company paid quarterly dividends of 15 cents and a year-end dividend of 75 cents.

Votes 10 Cents Extra.

An extra dividend of 10 cents and the regular quarterly payment of 40 cents were authorized by directors of Abbott Laboratories. A regular quarterly payment of 75 cents was declared by American Smelting and Refining company.

Dividends on the 6 per cent preferred stock of the Peabody Coal company were resumed with a payment of $2 a share. After this payment accumulations on the stock will amount to $29.50. Dividends of 49 cents a share on the 7 per cent first preferred stock and 21 cents on the $3 first preferred were voted by the Telephone Bond and Share company.

Utility Pays on Preferred.

Directors of the Indiana-Hydro Electric Power company voted a dividend at the full quarterly rate of $1.75 on the seven per cent preferred stock. Accumulated unpaid dividends on the stock amount to $9.62½ a share.

Hoskins Manufacturing company declared a dividend of $1 a share. The company has heretofore been paying dividends at the rate of 50 cents quarterly.

WAGE INCREASES ARE GRANTED BY THREE CONCERNS

Kenosha, Wis., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—The American Brass company today announced wage increases for approximately 10,000 employés in six cities, effective Feb. 28. The increase averages 5 cents on hourly rates, and 7 per cent increase on piece work. On Aug. 30 and Dec. 13 similar increases were inaugurated. The estimated additional pay roll is $1,300,000.

Cash Register Boosts Wages.

Dayton, O., Feb. 26.—(AP)—More than $1,000,000 yearly will be added to pay envelopes of National Cash Register company's employés through a wage agreement reached today between the employés' representation unit and the management. The increase will affect about 6,800 workers.

Graham-Paige Raises Pay.

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Graham-Paige Motors corporation today announced an increase of 5 cents an hour in wages of plant employés. Last December the company adjusted wages, increasing rates as high as 7 cents an hour.

AUTO OUTPUT RISES SHARPLY IN LAST WEEK

Further rapid recovery in automobile production occurred this week, according to estimates made yesterday. Ward's Automotive reports estimated the week's output at 115,360 vehicles, which, it said, was the largest production for a week in February since 1929. The preceding week's output was 88,740 units and in the corresponding period last year 70,516 vehicles were produced.

Gram's Reports, Inc., placed this week's output at 111,915 units, compared with 95,698 in the preceding week, and 71,956 in the corresponding 1936 period. Next week's assemblies are expected to exceed 125,000 units.

The settlement of the strike in the General Motors plant was the major factor in the sharp increase. General Motors' output was estimated at 36,700, against 13,206 in the preceding week. Chrysler Motors' production was placed at 29,573, against 29,350 last week, and Ford Motors, 30,824, against 29,825.

Studebaker's Sales Run Far Ahead of Year Ago

South Bend, Ind., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—The Studebaker corporation today reported sales of 5,114 passenger cars and trucks in the first 20 days of February, compared with 3,562 in the corresponding period of last February, an increase of 43 per cent. For the year to Feb. 20 sales were 12,849 units, up 34 per cent from the 9,598 sold in the same period of 1936.

STEEL LEADERS HINT BOOST IN WAGES, PRICES

Delay Quoting for Second Quarter.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 26.—(AP)—A terse statement by the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation said tonight that the company, biggest subsidiary of the United States Steel corporation, would defer quoting prices for second quarter business until March 5. Ordinarily, the prices are announced a month in advance, which means the announcement will be delayed five days.

E. T. Weir.

The statement gave no reason, but steel circles have been discussing for weeks a report that a wage increase, demanded by employé representative groups, and a resultant price increase, were imminent. Earlier this week B. F. Fairless, president of Carnegie-Illinois, assured workers in the Youngstown district that no increase in prices will be made without an advance in wage rates. Without higher prices, he said, higher wages cannot be paid.

Discuss Wage Increase.

E. T. Weir, chairman of the board of the National Steel corporation, said today that his corporation was conducting informal discussions of a possible wage increase with employé representatives, adding: "If there is an advance in labor costs there will have to be a corresponding increase in price." He also said he did not believe the industry could adopt a 40 hour week. There already is a shortage of skilled workers in the industry and operations are expanding, he said.

The Carnegie-Illinois company took the lead last November in announcing a wage increase for all employés, an average 10 per cent boost based on a cost of living sliding scale. The Pittsburgh district council of employé representatives of Carnegie-Illinois several weeks ago asked for a 35 daily minimum wage, a boost of 80 cents daily for lowest paid workers.

Defer Action on Wages.

The company has taken no action on the request, made by representatives of both employés and management.

Roy Mays, chairman of the publicity committee of the employé representatives of the Jones & Laughlin Steel corporation, announced today the 12,000 workers would be paid time and a half for overtime and a minimum of two hours' pay each time a worker is called on duty. The industry now works on the 48 hour a week basis.

Mays said the workers had approved the time and a half offer made by the corporation.

England Bans Exports.

LONDON, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Members of the National Federation of Scrap Iron and Steel Merchants have undertaken not to sell scrap for export directly or indirectly, it was announced today. Steel producers and scrap iron and steel merchants agreed Feb. 18 to establish "an economic price" for scrap metal in order to end competitive bidding and force the sale of scrap hoarded in expectation of higher prices.

MIDLAND UTILITY REORGANIZATION PLAN DISCUSSED

Representatives of stockholders and creditors of the Midland Utilities company, Chicago, 78 million dollar investment company holding securities of public utility companies, met here yesterday to discuss means of expediting reorganization under section 77B of the bankruptcy law.

A tentative plan of reorganization has been drafted, which is said to be generally acceptable in principle by the various interests. The plan was not presented at the meeting, however, and no action was taken pending selection of an authorized representative of Midland United company, parent concern also under 77B reorganization, to enter the discussions. The meeting adjourned without fixing a date for reconvening.

BANKER CHOSEN TO INVESTIGATE UTILITIES POWER

Court Names Houghteling to Probe Charges.

J. L. Houghteling, Chicago investment banker, was named yesterday by Federal Judge William H. Holly to make an investigation of the Utilities Power and Light corporation, which is undergoing reorganization under section 77b of the bankruptcy act.

The inquiry is the outgrowth of charges made by Harley L. Clarke, former president and founder of the company, that the present management disposed of the company's English properties at less than their real value and counter charges made against Clarke that he misappropriated funds of the company while in control.

Court Outlines Inquiry.

Judge Holly specifically commissioned Houghteling to investigate the sale of the British properties and the charges against Clarke. Houghteling was also instructed to report on the efficiency of the present management, the removal of which Clarke has been seeking. The court's appointee was also directed to inquire into Clarke's interest in the litigation.

Roy D. Keehn, counsel for Clarke, objected to the court's action. He said that "no mere investigator could accomplish anything helpful." He urged that investigation, if any, be conducted by United States District Attorney Igoe.

Other Inquiries Ordered.

Inquiries into the company's affairs have already been ordered by the district attorney and the Securities and Exchange commission.

After Judge Holly announced the appointment Attorney Don K. Jones, counsel for a group of creditors, told the court that Houghteling had been a client of his law firm. Judge Holly said he would ask Houghteling if that fact would embarrass him in his inquiry before formal confirmation of his appointment. Houghteling is a former partner of the banking firm of Peabody, Houghteling & Co.

ROOSEVELT ASKS PANAMA TOLLS RATE REVISION

Inequalities Charged by War Department.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today sent a message to congress urging abolition of dual system of measurement of vessels passing through the Panama canal but avoided committing himself on the question of raising canal revenue.

The war department recently assailed the present dual system of collecting tolls as permitting inequalities, manipulations, and endless reductions in charges, resulting in losses to the United States and unfair advantages to shipping interests. At present the canal, a 546½ million dollar investment, is losing almost a million dollars a year.

Shippers Make Complaints.

Manufacturers and other shippers of the middle west have long maintained that the Panama canal toll charges are so low that the effect is to subsidize shippers of the east and west because it is cheaper to ship by water from either coast than by rail from the middle west. The middle westerners have insisted that the rates be raised to give them equal footing with seaboard competitors and also to give promise of amortizing the canal investment.

One of the things sought by those seeking to cut down the losses and unfair advantages arising from operation of the canal is a single system of measurement of vessels on which toll charges shall be based. Present regulations permit measurement at $1.20 a Panamanian ton and $1.25 a United States ton.

Because of its many complications the United States system, which appears to be more costly than the Panama system, is in reality far cheaper, according to the Panama commission. The $1.25 United States measurement would be cheaper for most vessels than the Panama system at below $1 to say nothing of $1.20. Under the United States system a few alterations in storage and cabin space would bring a wide variance in the charges of two sister ships, it was said at the commission's offices.

Asks Rate Fixing Power.

In the message sent to congress Mr. Roosevelt, following the recommendations of an advisory committee, asks that he be empowered to set forth rules of measurement and fix the rates in a range between 75 cents and $1. These rates would be fixed, he indicates, on the Panamanian system favored by the committee.

At the offices of the Panama commission it was said that the rates the President will fix will probably not raise the revenue of the canal. There will be increases on some vessels and decreases in the charges against others so that the annual revenue will remain about the same.

The relief sought by the middle west, it was said, will come only if the President fixes the rate at the message maximum, providing congress adopts his recommendations. Officials said that if the President were bent on seeking the maximum he would have given a wider range to his rate fixing power.

ASK ABOUT THE GENERAL MOTORS INSTALLMENT PLAN AND WHAT INSURANCE Protection It Offers AT YOUR BUICK DEALERS

WE KNOW AND YOU KNOW

that used car prices will advance sharply in spring. We are aware of the fact that we can get much higher prices for our cars then.

BUT

the facts are that we are loaded to the rafters with used cars—and we have no more place to put them. The "Trade-Ins" are pouring in on new 1937 Studebakers, and we must do something at once to "get out from under." So—gave orders—unload at once—sacrifice all cars in stock for a few cents on the dollar—but get rid of them at once!

THE BOSS

'TIS NO SECRET —ANSWER—

So out they go—the cream of the crop—the cars you dreamed of at undreamed of prices!

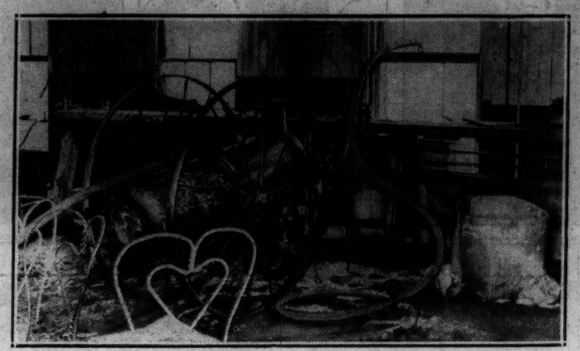
Roundup of Strike Leaders Starts After Sitdown Is Ended—Doctor Slays Ex-Wife as Police Look On

THE NORTH CHICAGO FANSTEEL BATTLE IN PICTURES

The Fansteel Metallurgical corporation plant in North Chicago was attacked from both the ground and from this tower erected on a truck to enable deputies to shoot gas into the second story. The arrows indicate slots in the tower for gas to escape. The gas was more than the strikers could stand, and they fled from the plant.



Inside the Fansteel plant, after the battle, the deputies found this chemical cart and its attached hose, which had been used to pump acid on attackers in futile assault of a week ago. In yesterday's battle the deputies came better equipped for real action.

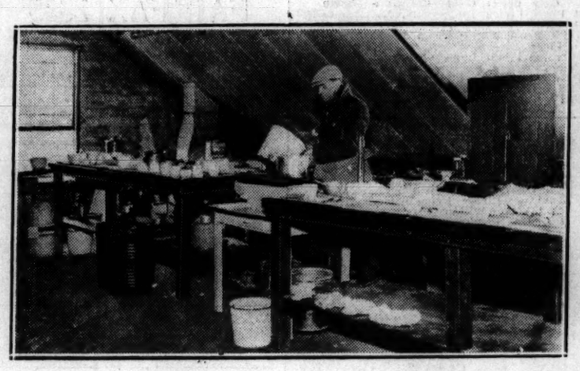
DIVORCEE SLAIN BY EX-HUSBAND—Mrs. Norma Schmidt, shot to death in north side apartment by Dr. Frank J. Furch Jr., who then wounded her maid and himself. The doctor was in custody of three policemen at the time.

NEAR DEATH—Dr. Frank J. Furch Jr., who severely wounded himself after shooting two women.

SEES SHOOTING—Jacquelyn Schmidt, 10, who witnessed slaying of her mother by former husband.
(Story on page 1.)

The machinery was not damaged despite the two battles and the occupation of the buildings since Feb. 17. This view was taken after the strikers had fled before gas barrage in the early hours of the morning.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

A hand grenade goes to its mark. This Lake county deputy is hurling a gas filled missil from the ground into the Fansteel plant. This type of weapon was used in addition to the regular tear gas shells shot from guns. There were 40 deputies in the battle and they routed 60 strikers "entrenched" in the building. [TRIBUNE Photo.]



Where the strikers cooked their meals during their sitdown. The improvised kitchen and dining room were in a room of plant No. 3. The food was passed in to them by sympathizers on the outside.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

TRAGEDY OCCURS IN KITCHEN—Dr. Furch suddenly whipped out a small pistol as policemen were conducting him out through this room and wounded two women, his former wife fatally, and himself. (Story on page 1.)

ARRIVES AT FINISH—Mrs. Myrtle Furch, first wife of slayer, who barely missed seeing the shooting.

ESCAPES INJURY—Mrs. Marjorie Lagorio, guest of Mrs. Schmidt and witness of the shooting.

Nauseating gas filled the air around the buildings as the deputies let go with their guns. The gas used in the battle cost $2,500 and was of the latest type, designed as a weapon for the law in opposing outbreaks of all kinds. In retaliation for the gas the deputies were pelted with stone and missils of all kinds thrown by both the strikers and sympathizers on the outside. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Where many of the strikers slept in the beleaguered plant. This and other views on the inside were obtained only after the forced departure of the men. The "beds" of the strikers were hard benches.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

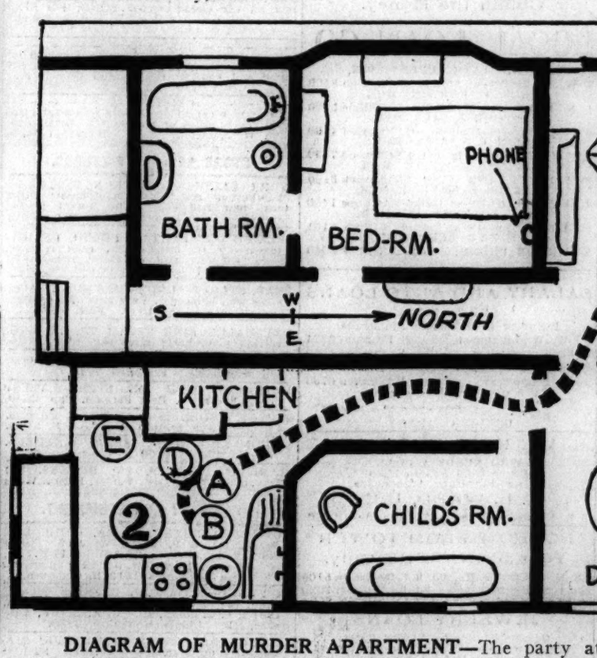

DIAGRAM OF MURDER APARTMENT—The party at which Dr. Furch shot his ex-wife, maid and himself started in living room (1) of flat at 317 Belden avenue. After quarrel maid went outside and called police. Police entered kitchen (2) and shooting took place there. (A) shows where doctor stood, (B) his wife, (C) the maid, (D) Policeman Neubauer, and (E) two other policemen. Mrs. Schmidt was taken to living room (3).

MAID WOUNDED—Mrs. Gertrude Manni, 38, shot in the leg by Dr. Furch, tells of domestic storms.

In the thick of the fray was this deputy, his face covered by a gas mask. He is holding his gun in one hand and a gas shell in the other.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

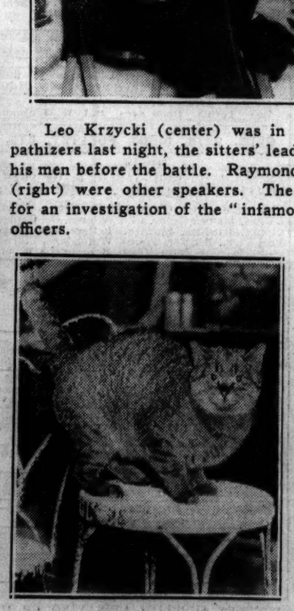
[TRIBUNE Photo.]



Leo Krzycki (center) was in charge of a meeting of strike sympathizers last night, the sitters' leader, Meyer Adelman, having deserted his men before the battle. Raymond De Soise (left) and Thurlow Lewis (right) were other speakers. The group adopted a resolution calling for an investigation of the "infamous conduct" of the law enforcement officers.

This cat withstood what the strikers could not bear and was found perched serenely on a chair on the inside of plant.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

[Acme Photo.]

SHARP CONTRASTS OF LIFE IN SPANISH THEATER OF WAR—With Spanish rebels pounding at Madrid and holding much of the southern coast, there are nevertheless sharp contrasts in the lives of the Spaniards, as evidenced by these two pictures. At the left are loyalist soldiers lunching in the street in university section of Madrid, while at right, Malaga residents return to wrecked homes after hardships of siege. Rebels now hold the city. (Story on page 5.)
